LOUISIANA LEGISLATURE.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Wednesday, March 9th, 1842.

[illegible] moved to take up the resolution fixing [illegible] adjournment, which was rejected. [illegible] was granted to [illegible].

On motion the house took up the bill for the relief of the police jury of the parish of [illegible], which was read twice and finally adopted.

Mr. Corrillon asked to have the resolution relative to adjournment under a dispensation of the rules taken up, which was rejected. The ayes and noes being called for stood, ayes 23—nays 14.

Mr. Thomas moved to lay over [illegible] business, and take up the revenue bill, [illegible] message—which was afterwards withdrawn.

Mr. [illegible] asked to have the bill adopted yesterday, [illegible] yesterday, reconsidered, [illegible].

[illegible] committee, reporting [illegible] an act to incorporate the town of [illegible] in the parish of [illegible], and an act relative to [illegible] of wood by steamboats.

[illegible] having stated that an additional section [illegible] necessary in consequence of the attorney general [illegible] already proceeded against some of the [illegible] for forfeiture of their charter; a reconsideration was moved and carried, and a section [illegible] Mr. Conrad, of New Orleans, and [illegible]. The section allowed any bank proceeded against by the attorney general to go into voluntary liquidation.

On motion of Mr. Hunt, the house took up the bill to retrench the expenses of the state, by reducing the salaries of certain officers.

Mr. Thomas moved to reconsider the third section of said bill, which motion was lost.

The seventh section of the bill being under consideration, a motion to refer it to the committee on public education, was lost—16 to 18. The section has reference to the fund annually contributed by the legislature to the colleges of the state. The section was after much discussion adopted, with various amendments limiting the period and amount of appropriation to colleges.

[illegible] informed that [illegible] confinement [illegible] other prisoners [illegible] Mr. [illegible] W. E. Lawrence of [illegible] in the W. Bryan [illegible] to be tranquil in Mexico, the [illegible] of importance being the [illegible] prisoners.

BANK DEFALCATION.

[illegible] prevailed yesterday that the paying teller of the [illegible] Bank, was a defaulter in a very [illegible] institution. Mr. Soulé, his [illegible] the Bank yesterday morning and [illegible] keys. The officers of the Bank [illegible] in examining the books in [illegible] amount of the defalcation [illegible] yet discovered the [illegible] is very heavy—[illegible] dollars. We [illegible] whether the [illegible].

THE BANKS [illegible] to accept the provisions [illegible] General [illegible] of them (the Orleans [illegible] and Exchange Banks) were [illegible] suit has been instituted against the [illegible].

THE COMMERCIAL BANK.

Many persons yesterday, confounded the Commercial Bank of Natchez with the above institution. Bill holders should know the difference, as we can say with justice that no bank stands higher for its solvency, in the community.

UNITED STATES SENATOR.

The election for a United States Senator for the unexpired portion of the Hon. A. Mouton's term takes place this day, at 12 o'clock.

☞ We understand that our fellow-citizen James H. Caldwell, esq. has been appointed Superintendent of the Branch Mint at New-Orleans, vice Jos. M. Kennedy, removed.

We are informed that Alfred Hennen has been appointed director of the Bank of Louisiana, vice John B. Lepretre, resigned.

Fatal Rencounter.—On Sunday last, says the Natchitoches Herald of the 26th February, a serious affray occurred upon the Rigolet de Bondieu (about four miles from Natchitoches,) between a white man named Charles C. McLaughlin, and a mulatto of the name of Leon alias Joseph Berenger, ending in the death of the latter person. The parties had met together at a neighboring house, and, according to the statement of the prisoner, the deceased who was intoxicated at the time, made a sally upon him, with the intention of doing him personal injury. The prisoner then laid hold of an axe, and drawing it upon the deceased, struck him a fatal blow upon his head. The cause of the affair, however, is differently stated by the witnesses for the State.

The prisoner has been committed on the charge of murder.

☞ The body of Captain Beamen of the steamboat Norma has been recovered. It was picked up near Bayou Pierre, and brought to Natchitoches by the steamer Rodolph. A Coroner's inquest was held on the corpse, and a verdict given of accidental death.

Jail Broken.—We learn from the Red River Republican, that the Parish Jail at Alexandria was broken open last week, and John Lewis, who had been put in confinement for shooting McCrae, made his escape. Suspicion is afloat that he was aided in his evasion by some of the keepers of the prison. Lewis was again apprehended a few days after, and lodged [illegible].

☞ Despite the declension of Gov. Corwin of Ohio, to serve a second term, he has been unanimously renominated by a log cabin convention of one thousand delegates, held at Columbus.

No Steamer Yet.—New York papers of the 26th February state that the steamer Caledonia had not arrived on the day previous at Boston. She had been out nearly twenty-one days.

☞ The Registry Law in New York, and the flood gates of rascality and corruption at elections are once more opened. These are among the fresh fruits of locofoco legislation.

General Morrow, of Ohio, who was reported as dead, was still living on the 27th ult., and hopes were entertained for his recovery. Senator Bagby was again very ill.

Naval.—The U.S. sloop of war Warren, Charles L. Williamson, commander, arrived at Pensacola, on the 1st, from Norfolk.

The U.S. sloop of war Levant, Andrew Fitzhugh, commander, arrived there on the 3d, from the Bay of Honduras.

☞ The Temperance cause is making steady progress in Mississippi.

NORFOLK, FEB. 28.

Loss of the Ship Saladin.—The ship Saladin, Capt. Tenney, of and from New York, whence she sailed on the 13th inst., with a cargo of flour, corn and cotton, bound to Liverpool, was abandoned on the 19th inst., in lat. 39, long. 66, having experienced a heavy gale on Thursday night preceding, in which her cargo was shifted, and her pumps became choaked, rendering the ship completely unmanageable. The crew were taken off by the brig Empress, Adams, from Boston, bound to this port, and arrived here on Saturday last. On Friday evening before they were taken off, saw a barque, hoisted a signal of distress at the foretopmast head, to which they paid no attention. Capt. Tenney, in behalf of himself and crew, tender to Capt. Adams their thanks for his kind and generous treatment to them while on board his vessel. [Beacon.

Shipwreck.—The schr. North America, Captain Costen, of and for Philadelphia, from Tangier Sound, laden with oysters, was cast away on the 9th inst., in a snow storm, near the mouth of Hungar's River, (Eastern Shore.) She had previously lost her sails—vessel and cargo lost. Crew saved and have arrived here.—Ibid.

More Bank Embezzlement.—On Monday the grand jury returned two bills against Lucian Skinner, formerly teller of the Trader's Bank, and he was brought in and arraigned upon them.

The first indictment alleges that on the 10th of February, 1841, he embezzled $6,500, and on the 3d of December last, 17,000 from the bank. The second indictment charges a conspiracy between him and Henry B. Odiorne, late teller of the Eagle Bank, and Messrs. Geo. F. Cook and Ralph Thompson, brokers, to effect the embezzlements alleged. It is said that the bank has been secured from loss, and the defendant was only held to bail in the sum of $2,000 on each of the indictments.—Boston Patriot.

John Neal, esq., in the Portland Advertiser speaks of the wonderful powers of voice possessed by Mr. Burnham, of Portland, and of which he was entirely unconscious until within a few months. Careful training within that time, however, has developed a musical voice of great richness, sweetness, and variety. He has a compass of three octaves and a half; and his falsetto is hardly to be distinguished from his natural voice—there being in fact no interval between them. Mr. Neal is of opinion that within a short period he may be the finest male singer in America, and one of the finest in the world before he dies.

Consul General of Mexico.—Don Juan de la Granja is no longer "Mexico Vice Consul" for this City and State, in consequence of the recent change in the Mexican Government. Mr. L. E. Hargous has been appointed in his place, with the additional title of Consul General.—New-York Express.

Washington.—We copy the following from the letter of the intelligent correspondent of the Charleston Courier:—

"The disorders of the currency are such as to induce many to suppose that the Exchequer scheme will pass Congress, in some form or other, at this session. It has been confidently asserted here, and especially since the Globe so violently denounced Mr. Tallmadge's bill, that this bill will pass the Senate. This is, however, very improbable. In the House, there are not indications favorable to it—and the decided opposition of the whig majority of the currency Committee to Mr. Cushing's bill, shows what will be its fate in that body. As to the democrats, they appear to be determined that they will do nothing but simply oppose whatever the whigs or the administration may bring forward. They appear to be confident of soon resuming the reins of the government, and, in the meantime, they will not trouble themselves to help it out of difficulty, but rather study to increase its embarrassments.

"Mr. Van Buren is undoubtedly the leading candidate for the Presidency on that side. Colonel Johnson must stir up his friends very soon if he expects to compete with the magician for the nomination. There is scarcely a doubt that, if the democratic convention were held this spring, Mr. Van Buren would be nominated.

"It is rumored that the democrats, who are a little afraid of General Scott, in New-York, will make a movement against him in the House, to-morrow, by a resolution calling for certain accounts which have lately been settled at the Treasury in his favor. A charge is made of some collusion between him and the Secretary of War, by which a claim, heretofore refused, has been allowed and paid to General Scott. I presume that it will be found that the whole charge is mere party assault.

"The House proceeds slowly with its business—it has any business. After a debate of some weeks on the retrenchment report, they have passed one of the resolutions cutting off two clerks; at the expense of [illegible] thousand dollars in debate, they have saved three thousand."

(Private Correspondence of the Bee.)

Washington, February 25, 1842.

In Senate, after the journal was read, it was agreed on motion of Mr. Mangum, that when the House adjourn it be to Monday next.

The members of the Senate then, preceded by the officers, went in procession to the House of Representatives to attend the funeral of the Hon. Lewis Williams.

In the House of Representatives, the remains of the Hon. Lewis Williams having been removed from Mrs. Peyton's boarding house, was laid on the funeral bier in front of the Speaker's desk, and the funeral service was performed by the Rev. Mr. Tustin.

The procession was then formed and proceeded to the Congressional burial ground, where the body was laid in the public vault.

On the return of the members to the Capitol, both houses adjourned.

Washington, Feb. 27, 1842.

The Senate stood adjourned from Friday to Monday.

In the House of Representatives several petitions and private bills, were entertained and referred to appropriate committees.

A message was received from the President of the U. S. in answer to a resolution of the House calling for copies of any additional correspondence relative to the North Eastern Boundary dispute, the President states that he has no additional papers, copies of which could be transmitted with a due regard to the public interest. The message was laid on the table and ordered to be printed.

Several other executive communications in answer to resolutions [illegible] were received and ordered to be printed.

The resolution heretofore reported from the Select Committee on Retrenchment, cutting down the number of clerks in the House, was then taken up and after some debate adopted.

The remainder of the day was occupied by the consideration of printed bills.

NEW YORK, FEB. 26.

From Bermuda.—We have a file of the Bermuda Royal Gazette to the 15th inst. inclusive. The paper of that date contains a long account of the naval engagement in the harbor of Carthagena, between H. B. M. brigantine Charybdis and the blockading squadron of Carmona, in which the latter by some strange mistake, is spoken of as the squadron of the Carthagenian, alias New Grenadian government. The Charybdis is spoken of as mounting only three guns, and a crew of fifty-five all told; and she is represented as defeating a corvette, a brig and three schooners, killing on board the former the commodore and twenty-five men, capturing the corvette and the schooners, and sinking the brig. A very large story for so small a vessel.

Mr. Botts and Judge Upshur.—The letter a Federalist.—In Mr. Botts' last letter there is a very curious statement. Judge Upshur had excepted to Mr. Botts' Harrison as a witness against him, on the ground of his federalism! This is the Secretary's language:

"He (Mr. H.) is not entitled to speak of my political opinions, because it is impossible to make him comprehend them. He is a federalist, and has grown old with a set of fixed opinions, which it is impossible to unsettle."

To this sneer, Mr. Botts, after defending Mr. Harrison from the charge, thus shows off Mr. Upshur, on his own confession, as a federalist of the first water.

"Let not the world be startled when I tell them that Judge Upshur was an old black cockade federalist, of the deepest dye. If I were to stop here, I have no doubt there would be witnesses enough to come forward and deny this also. To keep them out of such a scrape I will give the proofs in advance.

In the year 1823, Mr. Upshur was a candidate, and the federal candidate, for Congress, in opposition to the late Burwell Bassett, the republican candidate; and I have taken the following extracts from his address to the freeholders of the Accomac district, published in the Richmond Enquirer of March 25, 1823, in which he says:

"I respectfully offer myself a candidate for your suffrages at the approaching election of a member of Congress, and beg leave to state to you my political principle and feelings."

In the course of the address, he says:

"My own political principles have sustained no change. They were not hastily adopted, and I have not yet discovered in what respect they deserve to be reprobated. They teach me to love the land of my birth; to venerate its free institutions; to support its rights and to promote its interests, on all occasions, to the utmost extent of my power, &c &c. * * * * At the same time, therefore, that my political principles are fixed and unwavering, they teach me that a system of intolerance, founded on party names, is at once unjust, profitless, and opposed to the true interest of the people. With these principles and feelings, I AM A FEDERALIST of that school in whose doctrines the Constitution of the United States was established, and according to which it was administered by Washington."

Dated March 29, 1823, and signed A. P. UPSHUR.

And this is the gentleman who now attempts to disparage the testimony of Mr. Harrison upon the ground that he is an old federalist, and for that reason incapable of understanding his doctrine of nullification. What will his certifiers say to this? Will they now undertake to prove that, because he has expressed himself in one set of terms to them, that he has never expressed himself in different terms to others? What opinion has he ever entertained on any subject of public policy that he has not changed? Being a bank man to day, and an anti-bank man to-morrow; an anti-tariff man yesterday, and a tariff man to-day; a Calhoun man at one time, and a Harrison man the next."

☞ A Sale of valuable real Estate in the Second Municipality takes place to-day at the St. Louis Exchange by JOS. A. BEARD & Co. and HEWLETT & CENAS.— The conditions for this valuable property are very advantageous, as one half of the purchase money will be receivable in notes of the repudiated banks. m10

[Memorial to the Legislature]

[illegible] the credit of our [illegible] proved the principal circulation [illegible] of the States of the Mississippi valley. Your memorialists would call your attention to the condition of the circulation at this time; and would beg leave to make a few remarks upon the present and the condition in which it was when your honorable bodies were convened to December last.

The circulation of all our banks at that time was equally current at a discount of 24 per cent. from the specie standard, the report of all the banks except the Citizens', which did not join in the report, on the 9th of December, exhibited the actual amount of outstanding issues at $3,821,858—to which if the circulation of the Citizens' Bank of the preceding month be [illegible] exhibits a circulation of $4,[illegible],033—a sum hardly sufficient to subserve the actual wants of the State & city of New Orleans, and certainly so, when it is recollected that a large portion of these issues were absorbed in the circulation of Mississippi and other States, and that a number of these notes have been lost or destroyed. Your memorialists have not the means of ascertaining the exact amount of circulation now outstanding, but they know that it has been greatly diminished since the commencement of your session; and of this restricted amount they would represent that a large portion of it is at a discount of from 25 to 40 per cent. below bankable paper, and the issues of our best banks are at a discount of 6 per cent.

Your memorialists would respectfully suggest it to your honorable bodies, as their opinion, that this disastrous result has been caused by the action of the Legislature upon the currency, and more especially by the passage of an act entitled "An act to revive the charters of the several banks located in New Orleans."

Your memorialists would further represent, that at the beginning of the "business season," in October last, there was, all things considered, a fair prospect of a reasonable return for the products of agricultural labor. The country was gradually recovering from the ruinous speculations and imprudent expenditures, superinduced by the vast augmentation of banking capital in all the States of the Union, which followed the refusal of Congress to incorporate a U. S. Bank, (and which many ascribe to that refusal,) and the overestimate given to trade thereby. Habits of industry were fast becoming our foreign debt, and in [illegible] of the means of meeting our engagements [illegible] and fidelity. But before the crops [illegible] brought to market and disposed of, the doubt [illegible] uncertainty as to the action of your honorable bodies upon our already stinted circulation, checked [illegible] course of business, produced uneasiness in the public mind, and threw every thing into confusion. From the introduction of the Bank bill into the Senate, every article of domestic production began gradually to recede in the market, until it has reached a depression which will necessarily prolong the period when we may reasonably anticipate to be relieved of our debts. In looking over the Prices Current of this date, and comparing it with those of December, it will be seen that cotton, sugar, tobacco, and indeed every article of agriculture, has fallen in value; and even at the ruinous rates quoted can with difficulty be sold.

Your memorialists ascribe this sad reverse in a great degree to the dread of unwise legislation, in the beginning of the session of the Legislature and the actual consequences that have resulted from the "bill to revive the charters of certain banks," &c.

Your memorialists could enumerate other grievances which they, with deference, think have their source in this law, and the consequences anticipated by its passage in the fall of real estate, and the destruction of confidence; thereby inducing capitalists to withdraw their money, and seek investments elsewhere, but they refrain from urging them upon your consideration.

They would beg leave to accompany this memorial with a few observations which to them seem pertinent to the occasion and which they trust will receive a share of your consideration.

They would, respectfully, represent to your honorable bodies, that when a people have involved themselves in debt, either through individual extravagance and speculation or the stimulants given to trade by unwise or inconsiderate legislation, it requires a series of years to recover from its effects. The foreign debt has to be discharged by the products of industry, from the resources of agriculture and proceeds of manufacturing labor; that all attempts to legislate them out of debt will prove more than useless, and every measure to coerce a state of things unnatural in a condition of general indebtedness, will but aggravate the evil and prolong the miseries of the people. They would give it as their belief that the efforts of your honorable bodies, during the present session, though exerted in good faith and with patriotic motives, have produced great evil and will continue to do so, unless your honorable bodies shall become satisfied of the impolicy of the Bank Law and repeal or greatly modify it. They would represent that the losses already sustained by the people in the discount of Bank notes held by them, and the depreciation of the staple articles of production, and the fall in the price of property have already amounted to many millions, and to that extent have deprived them of the means of discharging their obligations abroad, and as a consequence, have made a resort to specie payments less practicable. They would respectfully direct the attention of your honorable bodies to the condition of those states that have resorted to compulsory measures, before the people were in a condition to pay their obligations in specie, for illustrations of the terrible consequences of hard hand premature legislation. In several of them the issue of Louisiana Bank paper supply the demands of circulation, their own local circulation being entirely annihilated; and they would suggest it as their belief that if the Legislature does not retrace its steps, the circulation of our banks will be entirely withdrawn and the state flooded with the issues of the banks of other states.— They would add, that to coerce specie payments, before the country is prepared for it, is tantamount to a withdrawal of the circulation; because the specie will be drawn upon notes, to defray the foreign debt in countries where the notes are not current; and that now we have a circulation only because our currency is not available abroad, and consequently remains at home: as an instance of this truth, the notes of our banks circulate in Mississippi, notwithstanding that state is indebted to us, whereas they are not exported to New York or Europe, though we are indebted to them. Such states as have attempted to enforce specie payments before the people were prepared for it, have destroyed their local currency, without adding a single dollar in specie to their circulation, and such would be the case in this State if a like policy were pursued.

To recapitulate. They think that the efforts of the Legislature to better the currency have resulted, first, in diminishing the quantity of circulation; secondly, in rendering a large portion of it useless as a means of commerce; and, thirdly, in affecting the value, injuriously, of the balance.

But besides these consequences upon the circulating medium, the agricultural classes have been greatly injured by the depreciation of the products of their labor—a natural corollary of an injudicious interference with the currency, and the enormous reduction in the value of real estate.

The views here given might be sustained by abundant facts drawn from experience; but your memorialists forbear to fatigue your honorable bodies by a recital of them. They therefore pray, that your honorable bodies will pass a law, repealing the Bank bill, in respect to the onerous provisions of that act, and adopt measures more consonant with the straightened circumstances of the people; and your memorialists will ever pray, &c.

Commercial.

NEW-ORLEANS, WEDNESDAY NIGHT, March 9, 1842.

This has been a day of great excitement in money matters. At an early hour it became known that the paying teller of the Atchafalaya Bank was a defaulter to the extent of $120,000, and other overdrafts were said to have been discovered, amounting to about $75,000 more. This had the effect of rapidly depreciating her issues, which were freely offered at 60 @ 65 ℘ cent. discount without finding many takers. In the meantime the Attorney-General had applied to the District Court for writs of sequestration under the new law, against the Exchange, Orleans and Atchafalaya Banks, which being forthwith granted, the doors of these institutions were closed by the Sheriff between 1 and 2 o'clock. The notes of these three Banks may now be quoted at 50 @ 55 ℘ cent. discount.

We do not hear of any action having been made against the other Banks which have rejected the Bill, although it is said that the Attorney-General will institute proceedings by suit.

Everything is in the greatest confusion, and business was scarcely thought of to-day, so great is the distrust in the public mind in regard to the future course of the Banks. There was a good inquiry for Cotton, but holders did not meet the demand, and the sales were very limited, embracing merely 1,000 bales.

The notes of the Improvement Bank have likewise greatly depreciated; and we quote them now 35 @ 40 ℘ cent. discount.
