THE WAR.

General TAYLOR's position at Monterey is one of embarrassment and annoyance. The latest intelligence from his army—if the handful of raw recruits with him can be styled an army—appears conclusively to militate against the possibility of a forward movement. Anxious as was the Old Hero to advance upon San Luis Potosi, he has been so thoroughly stripped of his effective force, that he must abandon the hope of an offensive warfare and confine his operations to securing the safety of the line of the Valley of the Rio Grande. According to well informed correspondents who were on the spot, Gen. SCOTT has despatched orders to send on to Vera Cruz the greater part of the new regiment stationed at the Brazos. A compliance with this order will leave Gen. TAYLOR four regiments of volunteers, viz: The Virginia, Massachusetts, North Carolina and Mississippi; six companies of regular artillery, one regiment of dragoons, one of Texan cavalry, and one battalion of re-enlisted volunteers—in all about 5,000 men. Of these at least 2,000 must be detached to garrison the various posts between Saltillo and Matamoras. With the remainder, Gen. TAYLOR will not of course attempt a march over the desert that intervenes between Monterey and San Luis Potosi, and an attack upon a populous city in the heart of a hostile province.

It is evident, therefore, that old ROUGH and READY will be compelled to act upon the defensive—a policy altogether unsuited to his ardent temperament. The resplendent services rendered by Gen. TAYLOR might have insured him fitting opportunities of reaping another harvest of glory, while if the popular will had been consulted, the warrior that conquered at Monterey and Buena Vista, instead of being "cabinned, cribbed, confined" within the walls of a petty fortress, and destined to an inglorious and inactive life, would have been transferred to a more spacious field in which he might have displayed those brilliant qualities as a soldier and tactician which have won for him a reputation that beggars the military renown of other commanders. But it seems that Gen. SCOTT must be sustained, and to effect this—the grand object of the campaign—General TAYLOR must fret like a caged eagle at Monterey, shorn of most of his strength, with a force insufficient to strike a blow—and barely sufficient to repel one.

Against the policy that would supply General SCOTT with an adequate number of troops, we have not a word to say. The expedition towards the Capital is deemed the crowning object of the war, destined to bring forth rich and ample fruits, and to lead to a speedy, honorable and lasting peace. We go farther, and in the existing state of things, cannot undertake to censure the Commander in Chief for withdrawing from Gen TAYLOR a considerable moiety of his force. The march to the City of Mexico must be accomplished; to effect it in safety, large numbers of soldiers are needed. These cannot be procured elsewhere than from the reinforcements recently arrived at the Rio Grande. Gen. SCOTT must seek them there, or not at all. It is, therefore, a stern necessity—one which the gallant and generous Commander doubtless deplores—that obliges him to cripple TAYLOR, and deprive that glorious veteran of the opportunity of advancing into the interior and chasing the foe farther and farther from the line of the Rio Grande.

The error and the evil of the measure belong to the Administration, which from the first outbreak to the present time, has dallied with this war. At no time has a sufficient number of troops been concentrated in Mexico. The [illegible] employed by the Government for conducting [illegible] enterprises, have been uniformly [illegible] to the magnitude of the proposed [illegible]. Thus, Gen. TAYLOR was at one time placed between the alternatives of retreating from SANTA ANNA, and surrendering at a stroke all the advantages achieved by the campaign, or of combatting 20,000 veterans with 4,500 volunteers. That he chose the latter, and triumphed, is no merit of the Administration, which advised him to fall back and to abandon those conquered provinces to the ravages and revenge of a victorious army. At another time, SCOTT sent upon the perilous adventure of a march to the city of Mexico; after overcoming formidable obstacles and pushing forward, in spite of resistance, two-thirds of the route, he finds himself compelled to pause, and cannot, without the utmost temerity, proceed until his meagre army is strengthened. By the imprudence and the imbecility of the Government, he is forced to draw reinforcements from Gen. TAYLOR, to paralyze that officer, and reduce him to mere frontier defence. Such is the manner in which this war is waged.

THE MACEDONIAN—This vessel, says the New York Express of the 10th, sails to-day, on her voyage of charity. God speed her on the errand of mercy! It is true that she has been unexpectedly, and from various causes, long delayed, but now that she is about to put to sea, she carries with her the good wishes of all for her Commander.

It is worth while to note here, that the Jamestown and the Macedonian enterprise has done our country more honor, in the eyes of Europe, than all our victories in Mexico, "glorious" as they have been. These errands of charity, on which our government vessels are sent, carry out and illustrate our Republican professions, of "good will to men,"—but wars of conquest show that we lie, if we add "peace on earth" to this "good will to men."

TELESCOPE FOR THE NATIONAL OBSERVATORY.—The immense telescope, ordered some time since by the Secretary of the Navy, to be manufactured at Bremen, for the National Observatory, arrived at Baltimore last week, and was immediately conveyed to Washington. It was packed in eight large boxes, and is said to be the largest in this country. When erected, it will form another of the grand attractions which are so rapidly accumulating at the capital of the nation.

RELIEF TO SUFFERERS IN SCOTLAND.—A letter to the Editors of the Intelligencer, from an American gentleman in Glasgow, under date of 17th May, says that the proofs of American sympathy for sufferers by famine in Scotland, have produced a most grateful sensation at Glasgow, where one of the vessels bearing provisions had arrived. A handsome dinner was given, on the day he wrote, by Sir James Campbell and others, to Captain Rand, of the ship Morea, bearer of aid, in the shape of provisions, to the destitute poor of the Scottish Highlands. The Consul of the United States, Col. Cowden, the excellent and patriotic representative of the United States at that place, was to be one of the chief guests, whose constant zeal and manly conduct on all occasions, our correspondent says, have disarmed prejudice and elevated American character.

MUNIFICENT DONATION.—The Hon. ABBOT LAWRENCE of Boston, has made a donation of FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS to Harvard College for the excellent and laudable purpose of founding a school for the instruction of men in the practical and useful sciences connected with the mechanic arts. All honor to this glorious merchant and manufacturer of the Bay State! He is the noblest of all democrats—the real friend of the people. Ever aiming at their social and intellectual amelioration, and giving bounteously from his ample means, to carry his philanthropy into effect.

☞ It is estimated, (says the Newark Daily Advertiser), that the surface planted with corn this year, in the State of New Jersey, exceeds that of last year by 10,000 acres, which ought to yield three or four millions of bushels. What is true of New Jersey is true of nearly all the grain-growing States. Unless some unseen and improbable calamity befalls us, there will be an immense production of corn the present year.

VIRGINIA.—The Locofoco district Convention at Petersburg has designated Richard K. Meade Esq., as its candidate for Congress to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Gen. Dromgoole. The Richmond Whig says: It is understood that RICHARD H. BAPTIST, Esq., will also be a candidate. We hear that he would have acquiesced in the decision of the nominating Convention, had that body nominated a man of "the right stripe." But as Mr. Meade is understood to be one of the chivalry, Mr. Baptist, who belongs to the Old Hunker division, feels bound to oppose him. The Whigs will rejoice to learn that Col. GEORGE W. BOLLING is again in the field and determined that no effort of his shall be wanting to rescue the district from the hands of the Locos.

From Tampico.

By the arrival of the brig Hamlet, we have been put in possession of the Tampico Sentinel of the 8th June. The Sentinel is now conducted by our old contemporary JOHN GIBSON—Alna et audax. He will doubtless make it an interesting sheet.

There is nothing stirring in Tampico. The Sentinel states that no anxiety need be felt as to the defences of the place; for at least 800 [illegible] can be presented, at any hour, when [illegible] discontents shall require them, and [illegible] of horsemen and field artillery. [illegible] have occupied [illegible] the general hospital [illegible]. The Louisiana [illegible] ness, [illegible] fever. No corps, [illegible] under the careful supervision of C[illegible] improved more in so short [illegible] than this body of men. Major F. Girault [illegible] the highest credit for his unrelaxing [illegible] and drilling his portion of [illegible].

The criminal police of Tampico is well managed. Under the supervision of [illegible] W. W. Morris, all sorts of crimes are [illegible] and brought before the Court.

Henry P. Norris, accused of [illegible] Thomas Gibbons, has been found guilty of manslaughter.

ANOTHER STEAMBOAT RACE.—It is said that Mr. Law, the owner of the Oregon, has offered to run that boat against the Bay State, on a wager of $10,000. From amateur or gambling racing, the practice will become habitual, to the great hazard of life.

IOWA.—The Whigs of Iowa have nominated Gen. Browne as their candidate for Congress in the first district, and Thomas McKnight, Esq., in the second district. The canvass bids fair to be animated, and in both districts the Whigs have a fair prospect of success.

BAD ENGLISH.—Cobbett, in his Grammar and other works, is very fond of detecting errors in a "King's speech," the Duke of Wellington's despatches or some other production, whose author ought to be perfectly acquainted with the principles of the English language. The late letter of ex-President Tyler affords the N. York Commercial Advertiser the opportunity of making some similar criticisms:

Mr. Tyler, we believe, (it says) has had what is called a regular, a classical education; yet we have not often seen, even among the badly written productions of our public men generally, a more deplorable specimen of "shocking bad" English. Instance, "the period that," in the third line—which should be "the time when;" a little farther on, "no purer source of emanation than in the bad motives," should be "purer source than the bad motives;" still farther on, "let the brawling demagogue or the sly intriguer indulge in any measure of abuse they may please," where it should be "he may please," the disjunctive conjunction being used between "demagogue" and "intriguer." In another place Mr. Tyler actually says the reverse of what he means, in the following passage:

"My only solicitude is, that conjectures and suppositions, and mere naked statements, unsustained and unsustainable, should be regarded as authentic, merely because the source from which they flow is considered respectable.

Mr. Tyler means to express solicitude lest conjectures, &c. should be considered authentic."

The New York Courier and Enquirer concludes a very able and manly article in reply to the aspersions of the London Times, by the following well-timed remarks:

We can abundantly afford to endure the dislike and even contempt of John Bull; but the Times ventures upon what, to say the least, is a hazardous experiment, when it seeks, as it does, habitually and zealously, to implant a deadly and unappeasable hatred between the people of the United States and those of England. Identity of interest, the relations of mutual amity which commerce establishes, the ties of kindred, of a common language and of common habits, will do much, as they have done much, to recover [illegible] growing differences, to compromise conflicting claims, and maintain peace between the two powers, whose conflict would involve the world in a flame. But when the Times shall have succeeded in its efforts—when thorough hatred—jealousy on the one side and resentment on the other—shall have taken possession of the hearts of both,—war will make its own occasions, and work out its most dreadful issues. Such a contest could never end, leaving both nations as it found them.

One or the other would perish in the conflict. On which of the two this doom would pass—whether upon the young Republic, full of vigor, abounding in resources, resting as on adamant upon the affections of twenty millions of people—or upon the old Monarchy, staggering under the burden of an infinite debt, pressing with a crushing weight more than half her subjects, existing only by force in spite of discontent and convulsion,—we are quite willing the Times and its co-laborers should determine for themselves. Their stake in the issue is far greater than ours; and we leave them to work out its chances.

A WINDFALL FOR WALL STREET, NEW YORK.—Some eight or ten years ago, an old French Marquis deposited in the New York Life Insurance, the Farmers' Trust, and the Ohio Trust, nearly a hundred thousand dollars each, and took an annuity during his life, from which he realized the following sums annually, viz:

From the N. Y. Life Ins. and Trust.	$11,600
" " Farmers' Trust.	13,000
" " Ohio Trust.	6,000
" " Pennsylvania Trust.	10,000
" " Girard Life.	8,000
	$49,200

The conditions were that at his decease, the whole sum originally paid shall revert to the companies. The companies, by his recent decease at Paris, have realized a great profit. The Farmers' Trust have received twenty-five thousand dollars; the New York Life and Trust, forty-six thousand. The Marquis was a man of immense wealth. His income was over a million of francs annually. He leaves over sixty millions of francs in real estate; and the bulk of his fortune to a grand-child only nineteen months old. He calculated to live till he was a hundred and fifty, but he missed a figure and it is all one to him now. We gather the substance of the above from the money article of the New York Express.

CROPS AT THE NORTHWEST.—So far as Wisconsin is concerned, we are persuaded that the yield of wheat will be abundant, unless something shall occur between this and harvest to injure the crop. In Illinois it has been stated that the crop was almost entirely cut off; but it would appear from the "Aurora Beacon," Kane county, this is an exaggeration. Within the last few weeks, wheat in that region has come forward astonishingly, and many farmers who supposed that their crops had been almost wholly destroyed, now anticipate an average yield. Indeed, the "Beacon" thinks that a good deal more wheat has been "editorially" killed than "winter killed."

From Michigan on the east, and Iowa on the west of us, we have good accounts of the wheat crop. The surplus exported from this Territory during the last season, in wheat and flour, was, as near as we can get at the figures, 550,000 bushels. There can be little doubt that the exports of wheat and flour from Wisconsin, for the present year, will reach a million of bushels. This does not include the amount sent down the Mississippi from the western portion of the Territory.—Milwaukie Sentinel.

THE CROPS.—The refreshing rains of the past ten or twelve days have entirely changed the face of nature, and very much altered the prospects of the farmers. A few weeks since, every body was anticipating a general failure of the crops, but we now hear from every quarter that they promise an abundant yield. This fact cannot fail to affect prices. Butter has fallen some seven or eight cents already, and grain must necessarily soon follow. We learn from every part of New Jersey, that the earth will be taxed to the utmost—that every inch of ground has been put under contribution—that the farmers are laboring day and night to get in as large crops as possible. The man, who usually plants five acres of potatoes, has put in sixteen; another has doubled his usual quantity of wheat; and a third, has improved four or five times the usual quantity of corn ground.—Trenton Daily News, June 5.

CROPS IN THE VIRGINIA VALLEY.—The Rockingham (Va.) Register of Saturday says, that from what its editor has seen and heard, the farmers will not realize more than half a crop. Many fields in the western part of Rockingham, it says, will hardly be worth gathering.

☞ NEW SPECULATION.—Mehemet Ali has found a new source of revenue, in the fine linen in which the immense deposits of mummies are wrapped, by applying it to the manufacture of paper. Calculations, founded upon mummy statistics, make the linen swathings of the ancient Egyptians worth $31,000,000.

The awful condition to which Ireland and Scotland are reduced, is forcing upon the British government the necessity of adopting immediately some extensive plan of colonization. It has in its dependencies, scattered over the world, more unsettled land than any other nation in the world, and it must populate some of these waste places with those who cannot find subsistence in their own country. Looking at the impending arrangement, the London Times is urging the Government to take and keep the matter entirely into its own hands and shut out greedy speculators from any hope of participating in the movement; and above all to establish in these places a race who shall themselves and their posterity cherish a love for British institutions and the nation. As an evidence of this—condemn in the past, it points to Canada and Nova Scotia, where "on the confines of a kindred but rival democracy, a race of men as been planted indifferent to British institutions and many of them disaffected to the mother country."—United States Gazette.

City Intelligence.

RECORDER BALLWIN.—His Honor had very little to perform yesterday. A free woman of color named Miller, was brought up before him, on a charge of assaulting and employing abusive language towards a white person. She was sent for trial before the First District Court, bail $500.

Philip Gras was yesterday arrested on a charge of having stolen from a skiff two sacks of corn and one of wheat. The prisoner will be examined this morning.

THIRD MUNICIPALITY.—The slave James, whom we have noticed as having been seriously assaulted with a piece of wood, by one John R. Johnson, was doing a good deal better yesterday. Recorder Seuzeneau will not, however, examine the case, before the slave is considered out of danger.

RECORDER GENOIS.—Bernando Gonzales, arrested some days since on a charge of assaulting John W. Woodward and robbing him, was yesterday brought up before Recorder Genois, and was committed for trial before the first district court for robbery.

James Black, arrested for picking the pocket of a volunteer and for stealing his belt, while said volunteer was quietly seated on a bench under the vegetable market, was also sent before the same tribunal.

INQUEST.—An inquest was held yesterday on the body of a white man name unknown, found drowned in the Lake at the end of the Pontchartrain Railroad. Verdict, "found drowned."

[illegible]—William Smith and Joseph [illegible] yesterday arrested by the First [illegible] a charge of cutting the pocket [illegible] Gorra and taking therefrom [illegible] sundry papers. Mr. Gorra arrived [illegible] Monday night last, and going to the [illegible] at about three o'clock in the morning fell asleep on a bench, and was robbed. Recorder Genois, after listening attentively to the evidence, committed the prisoners for trial before the First District Court.

FIRST DISTRICT COURT.—Thomas W. J. Philips, was arraigned for entering a dwelling house. The Court next occupied itself in hearing civil cases.

GENERAL COUNCIL.—The Council met last evening, agreeably to a call from the Mayor.—Mr. Stickney was elected President.

A message from the Mayor was read, informing the Council that on the 12th July next, the election of Assessors will take place, and suggesting the propriety of appointing inspectors of election, to preside at the polls. The Mayor also recommends to the Council the propriety of modifying the ordinance relative to Omnibuses. The Mayor further recommends the passage of an ordinance prohibiting vessels from entering the port with emigrants, having contagious diseases.

On motion of Mr. Holland, that part of the Mayor's message, relative to Omnibuses, was referred to a special Committee, composed of Messrs. Holland, Haines, and Crozat. The other paragraph from the Mayor's message, relative to emigrants arriving in this city with contagious diseases, was also referred to a special Committee of three members.

On motion of Mr. Zacharie, the first part of the Mayor's message, relative to the Assessors, was laid over until the next meeting.

Mr. Holland, from a special Committee, to whom had been referred the memorial of sundry free persons of color, asking the Council that they should form themselves into a benevolent society, to be called, "The Friends' Benevolent Society of Louisiana," reported a resolution granting the prayer of the memorialists. The report and resolution were unanimously adopted.

The remaining business of the meeting is of no interest to the reader. The official report, will, however, appear in our paper in a day or two. Before adjourning, Mr. Holland gave notice that he would introduce, at the next meeting, an ordinance relative to the assize of bread.

NEW YORK JUDICIAL ELECTION.—The New York Express gives an inkling of the result as follows:

The returns from the western counties are favorable to the election of the Locofoco ticket for Judges of the Court of Appeals. As far as heard from, the ticket has majorities in 30 counties, placing the Loco ticket about 6000 ahead, while the counties to be heard from, gave last year a majority of [illegible] Whig majority for Gov. Young. The election, therefore, will be a close one, but it is possible that two of each ticket are elected.

SUPREME COURT.

In the 8 Districts, electing 4 Judges each, of the Supreme Court, the Whigs have carried the 1st, 2d, and 6th, without much doubt—while in the 3d—two Whig Anti-Renters are chosen, and the other two in doubt. In the 4th District, the Whigs have elected Mr. Cady—and probably Messrs. Hopkins and Simmons. The 5th District, we presume, is Loco. The 7th has elected 3 Whigs, and probably one Loco. Mr. Jerome, on the Whig ticket, having been stricken off, and Selden, (Loco) put on by many of the Whigs of Ontario county. The 8th District, notwithstanding the defection in several of the counties, can hardly fail to elect the 4 Whig candidates for Judges.

County Judges, Surrogates, and District Attorneys.

The Whigs have carried a fair proportion of these officers throughout the State.

It should be remembered, that all the Whigs get at this election is clear gain, as the old judicial officers are now, and have been from time immemorial, (with few exceptions,) in the hands of the Locofocos.

[From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.]

EATING.—We might write a chapter on this theme, and we almost feel it a duty to do so. In no country of the world can every article of human food be found in more abundance and perfection than in our own, and nowhere, among civilized people, is the science of eating less understood than here. We eat too much and without discrimination. Our eating hours, too, are wrong. The dinner, the great meal of the day, should never be taken by sedentary men, whose business tasks the mind rather than the body, till the labors of the day are done, when one feels at liberty to unbend, and indulge in pleasant, social converse. They understand this matter better in Europe, where they have had the experience of centuries to guide them. Old men with us are almost invariably lean and dried up, or hardened with gross fat. The preservation of a fresh ruddy complexion, softened down by the intermingling of neutral tints into a mellow, harmonious coloring, with a bright clear eye, erect, graceful carriage, thick, flowing hair, powdered it may be with silver, and plumpness that suffices to give a just becoming roundness to the contour of the figure, are almost unknown among our countrymen past the middle age.

How an editor of a daily morning paper can write thus, we cannot imagine. If we were to follow the rules of our cotemporary, says the N. Y. Journal of Commerce, we should go without our dinner till 10 or 11, or perchance one o'clock at night. "The great meal of the day," taken at that hour, just before retiring, would be likely to cause unpleasant dreams, if not the night-mare or apoplexy.

RULES WITHOUT EXCEPTIONS.—It is laid down as an axiom that there is no general rule without an exception. I can point out two or three, however, to which I never saw an exception made:

1. There never was a bank broken that did not advise its bill-holders not to part with its notes at a sacrifice.

2. There never was a steamboat burst her boilers, and scalded the passengers to death, in which it was not clearly ascertained that "no blame whatever could possibly be attached to the officers of the boat for the melancholy result."

3. There never was a package of newspapers received from a steamboat but was acknowledged to have been handed in by the "gentlemanly clerk."

All these rules are without exception.—Cist's Ado.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED AND UNANSWERED.—Can there be a Church without a Bishop? will Salt-petre explode? and can a man marry his wife's sister? three important questions, have already been answered. The public are now cogitating upon—shall these be funerals on the Sabbath? This will depend upon whether there are any deaths on Saturday.

CROPS.—From all the information we can collect, the crops in this neighborhood present a very favorable appearance. The fruit crops in Columbia county, Pennsylvania, give promise of a bountiful yield the present season.—York (Pa.) Press.

A very large amount of business was done at the Stock Exchange to-day. Over $50,000 Pennsylvania 5's sold at 80, 80 1-2, and 80 3-4; Reading Railroad bonds 75 3-8 a 75 1-2; U. S. Treasury Notes, 6's, at 109 7-8 a 110; United States 6's, 1867, 105 1-4 a 107.

Flour was more firm. 1500 bbls. sold at $9 37 1-2, and $8 25 offered by buyers. Corn Meal was firm at $5.25. Wheat was heavy, and no enquiry. Holders of yellow Corn ask 115. Nothing of moment in Groceries or Provisions.

RETURNING VOLUNTEERS.—The schr. Loredo, Thompson, from Brazos Santiago, brought as passengers, two Companies, 3d Regiment, Indiana Volunteers, 120 men; under the command of Col. Lane, Captains Boardman, and Sullivan, Adjutant Dany, and Surgeon Arthur.

The L. sailed in company with the schooner Gazelle, for this port, with two companies of the 3d Regiment, Indiana Volunteers.

THE CAPITOL at Washington, has been undergoing some improvements of late. A gas lantern, invented by Mr. CRUTCHETT, six feet in diameter and [illegible] feet high, fitted with superior silver-plated glass reflectors, and surmounted with a golden metal ball, is to be placed on a mast, one hundred feet high, on the top of the dome. It is thought that the light will produce a fine effect.

MEXICAN FACTS.—The number of mines in Mexico, already known, is between three and four thousand. The largest yield in any one year was $26,000,000, in 1796; and for some years previous to 1810, the average annual yield was $24,000,000. From official returns, it appears that in 1843 the value of the gold and silver exported was $15,500,000, exclusive of what was smuggled out of the country to avoid paying the ex. ort duty of six per cent, and which it is supposed could not have been less than three millions more. Gold mines are rare in Mexico—the only ones known are those near Oaxaca, gold being found in combination with silver. Three penny-weights of gold to a mark of silver, is the largest amount obtained of the more precious metal from the combination ore, and this from the mines of Guanajuato only. When the amount of gold in these ores is small, it is not separated from the silver, as the result of the process is not equal to the cost.

Under the vice-regal government, the tobacco monopoly yielded a revenue of $5,000,000; now it produces only half a million, and we are told that this is not more than equal to the expenses of the establishment. This is Mexican wisdom all over, to keep up a monopoly for the purpose of [illegible] expense thereof.

[illegible] valuable mines in Mexico is that of Fresnillo, which netted $500,000 to the government annually, but the fee simple of which was sold, not long since, for four hundred thousand dollars—being one-fifth less than one year's purchase!

The revenue of the archbishop of Mexico is not less than $30,000, exclusive of donations and birth-day presents, which amount probably to half as much more.

The Mexican priesthood hold one fourth of the whole property of the Republic. The amount held by the church in mortmain, is fifty millions. There is a balustrade in the cathedral of Mexico, made of a mixture of copper, silver, and gold, which is three hundred feet in length, and some idea of its value may be formed from the fact, that an offer was once made to take this balustrade, and replace it with another of exactly the same size and workmanship of pure silver, and to give half a million of dollars besides."

The public debt of Mexico is estimated at one hundred millions of dollars. It is impossible to get precise statistics in that country.

The mineral wealth of Mexico is far from being confined to gold and silver. There are mines of lead, copper, [illegible], but the lazy and unenterprising [illegible] who own them do not put them to any account.

Mexico is admirably adapted to the production of cotton, but raises not enough for the use of her own manufactures, which, at the best, are no great affairs. Even the candles used in their religious observances are in great part made from imported wax. The mechanic arts are in a very low state. Saddles and plate are the principal articles made there, most others being imported. The plate is not handsome; and in reply to the assertion that the saddles of no other country can make a Mexican saddle, Mr Thompson sarcastically observes, "I do not think any decent saddler would if he could.

SANTA ANNA REALLY KILLED.—It is with certainty that we can announce to our readers, the death of Santa Anna, having received seven balls in his body, from the guns of his enemies. Gen Taylor was within three feet of Santa Anna, when he received the first shot, and was closely pressing upon him, but was drawn off by his Aids, for fear he might receive some of the leaden hail which was flying around him. He fell by the hands of those who had been his firmest friends in the more fortunate days of his career.

P. S. Santa Anna, was the name of the rabid dog which was killed in our streets the other day—and the Gen Taylor above mentioned, was another dog, bearing the name of the gallant old Hero of Buena Vista, who had joined in the chase and capture of the common enemy.—Pittsburgh Register, 14th.

Idle Daughters.

It is a most painful spectacle in families where the mother is the drudge, to see the daughters elegantly dressed, reclining at their ease, with their drawing, their music, their fancy work, and their reading, beguiling themselves of the lapse of hours, days and weeks, and never dreaming of their responsibilities, but as a necessary consequence of neglect of duty, growing weary of their useless lives, laying hold of every newly invented stimulant to arouse their drooping energies, and blaming their fate, when they dare not blame their God, for having placed them where they are.

These individuals will often tell you, with an air of affected compassion, (for who can believe it real?) that poor dear mamma is working herself to death. Yet no sooner do you propose that they should assist her, than they declare she is quite in her element; in short, that she would never be happy if she had only half as much to do.—Mrs. Ellis.

In our last report, we noticed that the COTTON market had come to a stand in consequence of the discouraging accounts from Europe. Since then the private correspondence has come to hand, and in the absence of many orders, holders have been compelled to recede materially in their demands. The sales of the week amount to 12,000 bales of which European buyers have taken the greater proportion. The decline in prices is fully ¼c, and we alter our quotations accordingly.
