A speedy and certain cure for the fever and ague, remittent and intermittent fevers; prepared from the original recipe. Used with eminent and universal success since 1826, by persons in the highest responsibility in the city, as stated in the annexed candidates.

This medicine is highly recommended, and has been extensively used in the above diseases with such distinguished success, that the proprietor of the recipe has been induced to offer it to the public in the fond hope that it may be the means of relieving many of those who are suffering under the scourge of the country. It is a medicine possessing great virtue, and when dried according to the directions has never fail ed of effecting a cure, even in the most obstinate stage of the disorder. It is not at all disagreeable, and persons of the weakest stomach, and children may take it with impunity. It strengthens the digestive organs assists an appetite and seldom requires more than one, or in obstinate cases, two bottles to effect a cure. There is neither mercury nor arsenic in the medicine, nor any thing injurious to the human constitution.—The proprietors are so well convinced of its efficacy, that they agree to refund the price of every bottle which has been taken in accordance with the directions and has not effected a perfect cure of the fever and ague.
