Goods of the Last Crop.

T. BACHELIER, Seed Merchant, Horticulturist and Botanist, No. 25 Customhouse street, New Orleans, takes the liberty to inform his customers, that notwithstanding the scarcity of good seeds this year, either from Europe or the North, he has just received, through the expensive measures he had taken to supply his customers with good seeds, as large a stock as ordinary could afford. He therefore requests his customers to send him their orders as soon as possible, so that the first received will of course be the first attended to, and most amply filled without any interruption.

Some Seeds, such as Carrots, Lettuce, Cabbages, &c., will probably soon be exhausted, and no more good seed of either of them can be expected from anywhere this season.

Also at hand, to sell on reasonable terms, a large collection of Camelias covered with buds, Dahlias, [illegible] and other valuable plants, just received.
