OFFICE OF [illegible]
FRIDAY EVENING, June 18, 1858.

Business to a fair extent has been transacted in our general markets during the past week, and Cotton especially has met with an improved demand, while prices have exhibited increased firmness, under the influence of rather more favorable accounts from Europe. Tobacco exhibited [illegible]. Sugar and Molasses arrived slowly, and show but little change in movement or prices. Flour has advanced, while Wheat and Corn have sold mostly at reduced rates. Provisions have been very dull, with a drooping tendency. Freights have declined, and Exchange has been rather firmer.

On Wednesday morning we published the Europa's advices, embracing dates from Liverpool to the 5th inst. They reported a decline of 1-16@⅛d. in Cotton during the week, with sales of 49,000 bales, the market, however, closing firmer, and holders demanding an advance in prices. Fair Orleans was quoted at 7⅞d., and Middling 7-16d. ℔ lb. The stock in port was stated at 604,000 bales, including 375,000 American. At Havre Tres Ordinaire was quoted at 104 francs. The advices from Manchester were favorable.

This morning the Vanderbilt's accounts appeared in our columns, reporting sales of 33,000 bales at Liverpool during the three days ending the 9th instant, prices showing no material change since the Europa's departure.

TONI-AROMATIC BITTERS.

A Cordial for Ladies and Aged Persons.

THIS highly agreeable cordial is taken pure, and was prepared by me at the request of a number of families who had represented to me the inconvenience resulting from mixing these varieties of bitters which cannot be imbibed undiluted, the loss of time which they occasion, and the mistakes made from ignorance of the mode of administering them.

These well founded objections enabled me to understand the true causes which deter many persons from making use of these excellent and beneficial preparations. The one manufactured by me, to be taken pure, obviates all the difficulties alluded to. It is highly efficacious in cases of general weakness, and in nervous affections generally, and as a preservative from gastritis—that fatal disease so peculiar to warm and humid climates. It re-establishes the appetite, invigorates the general system, and in time restores a healthy color to persons who have acquired a lymphatic temperament.

This cordial possesses not only the property of stimulating the appetite, but of aiding digestion. If tempted by a sumptuous repast to indulge beyond the bounds of prudence, we suffer from a slow and impeded digestion, a small glass of this admirable liquor ensures speedy relief and facilitates the work of nature.

Persons in good health may use it as a preservative and pleasant beverage. Its delicious aroma and flavor recommend it to such. Those who are in the habit of using lunch, and particularly ladies, will find it an invaluable addition to their repast, not merely on account of its exquisite flavor, but from its digestive qualities.

The most delicate constitutions, from infancy to old age, of both sexes, may employ it without the slightest inconvenience.

Directions will be given to persons using it for the first time.
