TO DR. MAGNIN, inventor of the 'Lucina cordial, or Elixir of Love'

"Respected and honored sir.—We have all, in a variety of cases, tested the remarkable effect of your great discovery, and have assembled for the purpose of bearing evidence to the facts, and tendering you the honor which is your due. The "Lucina cordial" is, in our opinion, an infallible remedy for the prostration of the procreant functions, and artificial barrenness; and therefore must prove a blessing to the human race. We can also bear evidence that there is nothing in it of a mercurial or deleterious nature, and, in short, that it is one of the noblest medicinal discoveries of any age.

"With feelings of admiration and respect, we remain, dear sir, your obedient servants,
JOSSELIN BOSSUIT,
SIGISMOND DE LA MARTINE,
ADRIEN DECRAND,
OCTAVE NICOLS,
JEAN BLANC,
ROBERT STEVENSON
LOUIS CUISEAU,
PIERRE BUFFON."

"LE CORDIAL DE LUCINE," or, in English, "the Lucina cordial," is a general invigorator of the human frame! In all the various cases of languor, lassitude, and debilitation, it is an unfailing remedy; as it is equally its province to impart cheerfulness and decision to the mind, as health and vigor to the body. But the peculiar virtue on which its celebrity is based, is the facility and certainty with which it restores the virile powers, when they have been destroyed by disease, time, recklessness, or any of the numerous causes which terminate in the prostration of those functions.

In common with the generality of really good medicines, this cordial contains nothing of a mercurial or deleterious nature, among the many ingredients which compose it; but is, at the same time, so simple, yet so efficacious, that while it can renovate the prostrated energies of a giant, an infant may use it, not only with impunity, but with advantage.

The usages of society are unfortunately such, that, notwithstanding the benefits which would be sure to result from it, we cannot enter into an analysis of this inestimable cordial here, or publish many of the documents which have been received as vouchers of the blessings it has conferred on numbers of despairing individuals. But this we cannot forbear remarking—that it has been demonstrated that there is scarcely ever, if any such thing at all, as natural barrenness, or as natural imbecility of the procreant functions, in either sex; and therefore, that those evils are the effects of artificial causes, and may be speedily subdued and removed by the use of "Le Cordial de Lucine."

The Lucina cordial is also an indubitable cure for the gleet, and for the fluor albus, obstructed, difficult, or painful menstruation; also for the incontinence of urine, or the involuntary discharge thereof. It is likewise an invaluable and unrivalled medicine in cases of chronic eruptions of the skin, and in the dropsical affections of the aged.

For sale wholesale or retail, at 65 Poydras street. Price $4 per bottle.

SARSAPARILLA.

CONCENTRATED COMPOUND SYRUP OF SARSAPARILLA, AND PILLS.—Monsieur, Monsieur, it always improper with weak and delicate constitutions; suffice it, therefore, to say, that the highly concentrated compound syrup of sarsaparilla and sarsaparilla pills, will obviate the necessity of bleeding in nine cases out of ten, by purifying the blood.

The immense sale of this article has proved the fact, that health and long life are within the reach of all, and it is repeated again and again to be one of having the flush of life attracted.

Of all the unfortunate fashions in the medical science that of bleeding is the source to deplored. It has the merit of producing temporary relief, but its ultimate effects ever so pernicious. The relief momentary because it acts by diminishing sensibility, it produces torpor and weakness, and therefore ease; and consequently relieves those pains and symptoms, the causes of which it confirms and ultimately aggravates. No matter what pain is felt, it is in inflammation, and requires bleeding. No matter what is the constitution—the age, the patient must be bled; the pains remain or increase, he cannot draw his breath freely—and must be bled, again and again.

It has thus in wealth, folly, fashion or considered. It is supposed; months may pass in this way, the inflammation is relapsed; he is threatened with accumulation; he must be bled again; if he does not become consumptive he is very fortunate; the becomes helplessly debilitated, and requires years to repair these injuries, if he ever does. Perhaps he is sent abroad; the latter ceases to do its permanent effect; he recovers, more or less, and the climate gains the applause.

A patient, perhaps a delicate girl, is seized with influenza, she is bled and bled again, becomes worse, sinks, or falls into incurable consumption. Have I not seen it with my own eyes? Have I not seen her [illegible] under the lancet and never speak again? Have I not seen forty ounces of blood taken from a wretched, the bloated, dyspeptic patient, because his head was confused? Has his head not become more confused—has not more blood been taken, has he not become delirious, and was not his head shaved, blistered, iced and leeched, and did he not die in forty-eight hours! Hark to the voice of reason and experience ye who are now the friends of this fatal practice. Learn that it is in the blood all disease exists—not the blood which causes the disorder, but the impurity of the blood, in other words the impurity of the blood, a fluid highly acrimonious, and which is the cause of the different aches, pains, and splitting feelings the human body is subjected to.

Since the first introduction of the concentrated compound syrup of sarsaparilla and pills to the notice of the public, they have, in every case, fully maintained the high character they so well deserved. Patients who had for years drawn out a miserable existence, and many who had lost the use of their limbs by rheumatism, and paralysis, have been restored to health, strength, and comfort, after all the usual remedies had been found useless. Its astonishing and almost miraculous effects have also been experienced in the cure of nervous and rheumatic pains of the head and face, paralytic affections, contracted and stiff joints, glandular swellings, pains of the chest and bones, chronic rheumatism, palpitations of the heart, and difficult respiration, &c.

This celebrated syrup of sarsaparilla and pills, is entirely devoid of mercury, in any form whatever. For Chronic diseases, or complaints of long standing, an "alterative medicine" is one which effects an entire change in the system, without any sensible mode of action. It is to be applied to in almost all chronic or long standing complaints, with a view of rectifying the long accustomed abnormal action, and of substituting for it, the new and peculiar requirements of medicine itself, which must be made to harmonize with the operations of nature in health, so that after the use of the medicine for a period longer or shorter according to the duration of the disease and prospects of recovery, it may be laid aside and the health gradually become completely re-established.

After a long and constant consideration of the diagnosis to be followed in the treatment of the following affections, (some of which are regarded as the most fearful ills of existence,) we have at length prepared the compound syrup of sarsaparilla, and earnestly advise it to such invalids, for whom it is especially intended, as possessing all the curative principles that can be placed within their reach. The diseases which yield to the 'alterative' treatment, are those of a chronic form, and such as depend upon impurity of the blood, viz:—

Scrofula, or king's evil, syphilis, and all venereal diseases, mercurial diseases, brought on by the improper use of mercury, consumption, liver complaints, jaundice, ague cake, rheumatism, gout, scurvy, cancer, affection of the skin, as tetter, pimples, ring-worms, scald-head, itch, pimples on the face, &c. No medicine is more efficient as a 'spring purifier,' and to promote recovery after an attack of acute disease.

Sarsaparilla syrup, being one of the most popular articles of the present day—entering into the composition of almost every purifying medicine, and is often resorted to in professional and in domestic practice.

The sarsaparilla pills and syrup, have then been used with success in almost every disease, to which man is liable, and for bilious and liver complaints, with their many well known attendants, bilious, and nervous headache, pains and oppression in the head and ear, throat, sour risings, loss of appetite, wind, spasms, &c. they are acknowledged to be vastly superior to any thing ever before offered to the public. Sold wholesale at a full profit of body, they will prove truly invaluable, while as a generally family aperient in either sex they cannot fail to ensure general satisfaction.

GREAT SPRING MEDICINE.

For purifying the blood, and for the cure and prevention of many diseases, rheumatism, scrofula, salt rheum, &c.

Sarsaparilla.—Read, reflect, decide.—The virtues of sarsaparilla have been celebrated for more than two hundred years, during which time it has been in use at less repute. Every thing, however, depends upon the mode of preparation.

The highly Concentrated Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla is a preparation from the choicest Honduras sarsaparilla, and is incomparably superior to every other purporting to be made from sarsaparilla. It is manufactured by an improved chemical steam process, whereby the medical virtues only of the sarsaparilla are extracted, one bottle of which is made to possess the strength of one dozen bottles prepared according to the formula prescribed by the London, Edinburgh and United States dispensatories. It has the extraordinary virtue of this preparation, it has been introduced into all the principal hospitals throughout the United States and Europe, and is highly recommended by the physicians and surgeons of the institutions as possessing the entire virtue of the sarsaparilla in a highly concentrated form. As a testimony of the high repute in which this preparation is held by the medical faculty in general, the following gentlemen, distinguished alike for their talent and high respectability, have voluntarily testified to its unrivalled merits and virtue, in curing certain diseases, herein before enumerated.—Dr. Valentine Mott, Dr. David Hosack, Dr. T. Mitchell, Dr. W. McNeven, Mr. R. F. Benson, Dr. P. Gascales, Dr. Watts, Dr. Alexander Stevens, Dr. Wright, Dr. Post, Dr. G. Domledi, Dr. Francis Bird, Dr. Physic, Dr. Chapman, Dr. Chancing, Dr. Jackson, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Dewey, Dr. Hare, Dr. James, Dr. Horner, Dr. Coe, Dr. Magdin, Mr. Maval L. Rogers, Dr. Stillman, Dr. Hunt, Dr. Harris, &c.

The testimony of the above medical gentlemen, the proprietor hopes, is alone sufficient to prove its invaluable merits, as the most effectual purifier of the blood and renovator of the system ever yet discovered, as well as the all constitutional diseases the system is subject to, all of which are more or less caused by the impurities of the blood and animal fluid.

It will be admitted by every intelligent mind, that acute diseases are generally manageable upon physiological or intelligible principles in medicine.

When a disease becomes chronic, as it is termed, its character and treatment vary with the indications. Under these circumstances, the plain treatment cannot, in the majority of cases, be physiological, as the symptoms are no longer the true index of the disease. The condition of the disease has originated a variety of treatments and remedies.

The term empirical is applied in the treatment of chronic and inveterate diseases, for the above reasons.

Various combinations and prescriptions are employed to combat diseases of this character, but experience in the treatment of those of long standing has established a new system on its own merits, though not inseparable from a previous knowledge of anatomy, physiology, and all the branches, which constitute a thorough acquaintance with the theory and principles of the healing art.

That "knowledge is preferable to ignorance,"—that "light dispels darkness,"—and all medical diseases will yield to the treatment which has for its basis the sure foundation of science and experience, we think no one will pretend to deny. At the present day there seems to be some diversity of opinion among professional reasoners, as regards the medicinal qualities of the vegetable and mineral kingdoms, and their modus operandi on the human system.

In a legal point of view, we will admit the vegetable kingdom is more frequently put in requisition than the mineral; for in all desperate cases, which of course require desperate remedies, the prescriptions by law are invariably the application of mineral. Facts are stubborn things, and there are but few who will gainsay the propriety or utility of the practice. In medicine, however, the animal, vegetable, and mineral kingdoms contribute to the wants of science.

Ask any respectable physician—What is the most efficacious purifier of the blood? His answer will be—Sarsaparilla.

Suffice it to say then, if all the physicians recommend it so universally, what better evidence can we have of its invaluable properties?

Numerous certificates have been received and references can be given to hundreds of instances of the most remarkable cures ever performed by any medicine.

Sold, wholesale and retail, at 96 Customhouse street, New Orleans.

Those afflicted with rheumatism, scrofula, eruptions of the skin, swelling of the glands, mercurial diseases, &c. &c., may secure many advantages by applying as above.

From the attention which the proprietor has paid to the preparation of the Sarsaparilla, in its various forms, he flatters himself that he has succeeded in bringing its compound to perfection, and by using a different and more efficacious mode of preparation than that of any other manufacturer, can safely say, that he has produced an article, contained with medical properties of Sarsaparilla, in a more concentrated and efficient form, than any other production of the kind. He recommends the article confidently, to the attention of physicians, as the best preparation of Sarsaparilla which has ever been made, containing all the medical properties which belong to the different articles of which it is composed, in a concentrated form, that can not be deteriorated by time nor changed by the temperature of the atmosphere. The superiority which is claimed for this medicine over all other preparations of the kind, results from the peculiar mode in which it is prepared. We do believe we speak from experience, the great portion of the virtue of Sarsaparilla are dissipated or pass off in the form of vapor, when subject to decoction, or in other words, that too much heat is unfavorable to a concentration of its active principles. We have been led to this conclusion, from the many repeated failures which have followed its administration when prepared according to the formula of the books, and to the almost unvarying success when given prepared according to the present mode. This preference can not arise from, or be accounted for, on the ground that the materials have been better in some instances than in others, because we have repeatedly tried the experiment from the same article, and the result has always been, without exception as above stated. The preparation is, therefore, with great confidence, recommended to physicians as a valuable addition to the materia medica, possessing in an eminent degree, the tonic, alterative, and diaphoretic properties of the vegetables from which it is obtained.

The time, trouble and expense which this article costs, may be urged, and perhaps with some success, against its general use, but in reply we would add that one word, that such objections should not weigh when the life or health of an individual is considered.

Diseases to which it is applicable.—Scrofula, Cutaneous affections, rheumatism, and particularly that kind arising from the abuse of mercury; syphilis in its primary and secondary forms; chronic and obstinate ulcers, arising from a vitiated condition of the animal economy, inflammation of the bones and their vestiges, and many other forms of disease familiarly known to medical men, which are most generally on the abandoned, rather, and [illegible] and, not unfrequently, on the blood [illegible]

We know of no remedy better calculated to remove those affections than the concentrated compound syrup of sarsaparilla.

It has now been nearly three centuries since sarsaparilla was introduced into Europe, as a remedy for several of the above diseases, by the Spaniards, who at the time regarded it as a specific in venereal affections.

The sarsaparilla pills are always taken or recommended to be taken with the syrup.

These pills possess the extraordinary advantages of not containing calomel, antimony or any other medicines requiring the least confinement or alteration of diet, and by their judicious combination, they may be taken by persons of all ages, in all conditions and by both sexes, for any number of years, without the slightest injury to the constitution; they are therefore peculiarly adapted to persons of a sedentary or studious habit, who are unable to take the exercise necessary to produce a healthy action in the stomach and bowels, and who are consequently obliged to have recourse to cathartic or relaxative measures.

Any person affected with any of the following diseases are strongly recommended to try a bottle of the compound syrup of sarsaparilla and pills, which will be found effectual in eradicating the disease, viz: rheumatism, gout, fever and ague, cancer, leprosy, dyspepsia, king's evil, fistula, consumption, dropsy, St. Vitus dance, diarrhoea, jaundice, worms, stricture, menstrual discharge, ulcers, palsy, cholera, piles, bilious fever, indigestion of the stomach, deafness, whites, green sickness, immoderate flow of the menses, suppression of the menses, falling of the womb, tabing sickness, itch, ring worm, scalded head, asthma, liver complaint, nervousness, the scourge, dimness.

Sarsaparilla syrup and sarsaparilla pills or blood balls, recommended by every respectable physician who has a knowledge of the [illegible] of medicine.

1. The vital principle is contained in the blood.
2. Every thing in the body is derived from the blood.
3. All diseases arise from impurity in the blood.

From the blood all the solids are derived and nourished—all the other fluids are secreted—and all the substances appropriated to repair the injuries done to the body are supplied. The rudiment of the future heart, (and the circulating system,) is well known, precedes the formation of other parts of the body, and is visible for some time before any trace of the brain can be distinguished.

As the blood is the builder up of the body and the source of general health, so it is also of universal disease; but being fluid while circulating in the body, it is more obvious its appearance than any of the solid parts, which accounts for the difficulty of detecting any foreign or morbific matter which may be circulating with it. The morbid of fever are harmless to every other part of the system, and only become infectious when they reach the bloody. If the blood becomes once impregnated with a peculiar taint, it is wonderful to remark the tenacity with which it retains it, though often in a state of quiescence for years, or even generations. Hence all hereditary diseases, consumptions, &c.

Every germ and fibre of every part being formed and fed from the blood, and all communications to the body is cut off, except by the circulation, where else can any look to, as the seats of taints or predispositions to diseases, or for the causes of diseases itself.

If the blood be disordered, the individual organ which is the weakest suffers first and most, and gives the name to the disease.

5. Pain and disease have the same origin and may therefore be considered synonymous terms.

6. Sarsaparilla pills and syrup is the only effectual mode of purifying the blood, and eradicating disease.

It is evident that all those medicines which require preparation in the patient, and give cold if taken in rainy or cold weather, such as calomel, &c. do not assimilate to the body, and are therefore highly injurious to the constitution, and impair and stamp new qualities upon it. For the sarsaparilla syrup and pills, no preparation is necessary to prepare. They may be taken with advantage in any weather, or at any time of the year.

The simple theory—simple because true—is contained in these five propositions.

1. The sarsaparilla syrup and pills cure most of the diseases which admit of cure.

2. They remove from the stomach, liver and intestines the bile, making morbid obstructions to the free performance of their healthy functions.

3. They purify the blood by increasing the various excretions, and prevent diseases, by exciting the body more freely to mash the predisposing and exciting causes of disease.

4. The increase the action of the absorbents, by which all morbid growth are taken into the circulation, and are at once expelled from the body.

5. They restore the regularity of those processes upon which the formation and the circulation of the blood depend.

CAUTION.—The highly concentrated compound syrup of sarsaparilla and pills, or blood pills, may be obtained genuine at No. 96 Customhouse street, New Orleans, and at no other place.

MILES' COMPOUND EXTRACT OF TOMATO, the celebrated Substitute for Calomel.—The proprietors of this article having devoted nearly seven years, and expended a large amount of money, in experimenting upon the various species of the Tomato (Solanum Lycopersicum,) have at last succeeded in obtaining from that vegetable a principle which as a medicine possesses all the beneficial properties of calomel, and yet incapable of producing the deleterious effects consequent upon the use of that drug. The principle, (Sepurine) is a mild and efficient cathartic, and, as compounded, also acts as a tonic, diuretic, and diaphoretic. (See directions accompanying the medicine.)

Its particular action and use.

Its action upon the system is very general, no part escaping its influence; it is, however, upon the secretive and excretive, that its great powers particularly manifested; from this it will be seen to have a direct effect upon the biliary organs, and to be particularly adapted to the treatment of bilious fevers and other diseases where a torpidity or derangement of the secretions of those organs, the immediate and proximate cause of the diseases, and the various diseases that have attended its administration in liver affections, dyspepsia, and derangement of the stomach and bowels generally. Being diffusible in its operation, it produces a free circulation in the vessels on the surface of the body, accompanied by a gentle perspiration. It does not exhaust the drastic physics; still its action is perfectly safe, but with great benefit; this becomes in diseases of a low and typhoid form. It ought not to be too universally [illegible] and the [illegible] to lose, and to strengthen, the [illegible], if so good, and tend to invigorate the stamina of the constitution.

Its claims.

The proprietors do not claim for it universality, i. e. that it will cure all diseases, nor, on its introduction into a family, should the physician be dismissed, nor, on the other hand, would they have a family physician consider it to be necessary to suppress the better they are, however, that a timely resort to this medicine may be a great saving to those who have the expense and trouble of calling the aid of such physician, it being capable of preventing the disease incident to our country. In many long standing, or chronic diseases, such as rheumatic ulcers, and the various diseases incident to the stomach, it may be taken by persons at discretion and without medical advice.

Families advised to give it a trial.

Not only do families advised to adopt it as a family medicine, but those who are laboring under disease that Calomel has failed to remove; those who have seen and felt the deleterious effects of it, as well as those who esteem calomel to be the best of all medicines, and those too, who have tried every thing, (from the boasted cure-all nostrum purporting to have emanated from great foreign colleges of societies, down to the lunatic quack medicine of Dr. A. B. C. to Z,) all are invited to try this simple American article. It is not the intention of the proprietors to sustain this medicine by certificates and puffing, but by way of introduction to those places where it has not been known, it is deemed proper to show what is said of it where it has been known the past year. a2

NEW MEDICINE.—Dr. G. R. PHELPS' Compound Tomato Pills—(Entirely Vegetable)—A new and invaluable medicine for all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, morbid secretions of the liver and stomach. Also a substitute for calomel. As a cathartic in fevers and all bilious affections.

These popular pills being a combination of a newly discovered Alkaline substance, extracted from the TOMATO PLANT, with other vegetable substances which have been found to modify and diffuse its effects, are believed to be the best Alterative and Cathartic Medicine ever discovered. They have been extensively and successfully tried, and have received universal approbation for Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Bilious diseases, Gravel, Rheumatism, Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Catarrh, Nervous diseases, Acid stomachs, Glandular swellings of all kinds, Costiveness, Colic, Headache, &c.

As an antidote to contagious and epidemic diseases to prevent the formation of bilious and liver affections, fever and ague, &c. in those that reside in hot climates, and low and marshy countries, and the best cathartic that can be used for those localities. Seamen will find them an infallible remedy for the scurvy; and travellers the best medicine they can use to counteract the dangers of exposure in unhealthy climates. For ordinary family physic, they are universally approved, as the best ever offered.

The peculiar virtues of the tomato plant, have for a long time attracted the attention of the medical profession, and the public, and great interest has been excited to therefore development of its medical qualities to gratify—and presents his pills to the public, with the full confidence of their being the most safe and valuable remedy ever discovered. Numerous certificates of cures, from those who have taken them, and the testimony of several physicians, who have prescribed them, all concur to corroborate this opinion. The rapidly increasing demand for, and the universal approbation bestowed upon them, is an additional evidence of their merits and usefulness.

In presenting this article to the public, the proprietor was influenced by the hope, that a medicine prepared with much care, and with a strict regard to the chemical and therapeutic properties of its several ingredients, should take the place of the irresponsible medicines of the day, with which the country abounds—and from the favor already bestowed upon it by physicians and citizens, he feels justified in expecting this result.

For a full account of this interesting discovery, testimonials, mode of operations &c., are pamphlets, which may be had gratis of all who sell these pills.
