Valuable and Extensive Sugar Plantation and Slaves for sale.

BY BEARD, CALHOUN & CO., Auctioneers.

ON MONDAY, the 11th day of January next, (1847) at 12 o'clock, M., will be sold at Banks's Arcade, by consent of all the Brothers Law of Orleans, the following property and slaves belonging to the succession of the late Joseph Jausaud, of the Parish of Jefferson, deceased, to wit:

First, a certain Sugar Plantation, situated in the Parish of Jefferson, in the State, measuring on the Mississippi River, 1 arpent six inches and two feet front on said river, by a depth of forty arpents, except the upper arpent, which has a depth of eighty arpents and upwards; together with another tract of ground in the rear of said plantation, being the double concession thereof and containing ten hundred and eleven acres and two thirds, superficial measure; the two said lines of said tracts converging towards the rear, the lower line running South 40 degrees 32 minutes West, and the upper line running South 31 degrees 37 minutes West.

Together with all the buildings and improvements on said plantation, consisting of a brick sugar house and purgery, covered with slate; a steam engine and mill, and all the appurtenances necessary for making sugar crop.

There are on said plantation, mattresses, containing plant cane, which is supposed to be sufficient for planting 200 acres, and a large part of the land required for the next planting is already plowed.

The arpent of land on the upper line, which extends back more than eighty arpents, runs to a bayou by which the whole plantation can be drained.

There are on the place four dwelling houses, one of which is a large commodious family mansion, in perfect order, together with the amplest conveniences in the way of out-houses, comprising stables, kitchens, negro quarters, billiard room, and every thing necessary for a country residence.

Attached to the sugar mill are a saw mill and grist mill run by steam power.

Second, All the horses, mules and horned cattle employed in the cultivation of said plantation, as well as the agricultural implements, carts, ploughs, &c., and the sheep, cattle, horses and mares—the whole being sufficient for the cultivation.
