MEDICAL COLLEGE.

Our citizens are scarcely aware that there has lately been erected within their midst an edifice dedicated to the science of medicine, which reflects credit upon the architectural taste of the builder and honor upon the indefatigable exertions and public spirit of the faculty. The building is now sufficiently advanced to be used for all the purposes of instruction, and we are glad to be able to state that a class, respectable in numbers and daily increasing, is in attendance. The college has been reared upon a vacant space of the state house grounds, and so suddenly has it been constructed, that it seems more a bright exhalation than the result of human labor.

The legislature last year granted permission to the professors to erect the building upon the public property—and although this boon was accompanied with discouraging conditions, they have pressed forward with the work until an edifice of good size and perfect arrangement bears witness to their perseverance and laudable enterprise.

This is the only undertaking of the kind that we remember to have been begun and brought to a successful issue by private zeal. Institutions elsewhere have been endowed by state munificence or corporate bounties. But the college in this city has been the work of the professors themselves, who have displayed a disinterestedness to the science worthy of all commendation. They deserve success, and will no doubt attain it.

The college building contains a common lecture room capable of accommodating several hundred students, a chemical laboratory and an amphitheatre for anatomical demonstrations more conveniently arranged than any we have yet seen. It contains likewise a medical museum, dissecting room, library and other necessary appurtenants.

We are glad to perceive that a number of medical gentlemen, unconnected with the institution, have displayed a liberality towards it, that merits praise. Dr. Dowler has made it a donation of a number of valuable books; Dr. Mackie has placed in the museum several anatomical specimens in wax, and Dr. Hope has made it a present of a demonstration table of great value. Other medical men intend to contribute to the collection, and we notice that Mr. John Claiborne has presented it with a splendid encyclopædia of great price. The donations added to the private libraries of the professors and such books, preparations and chemical apparatus belonging to the institution, make its means adequate to the ends of medical education.

Besides the advantages arising from the profusion of preparations, &c., the immense means enjoyed by the professors of teaching the science practically, either in respect to surgery or clinical practice, renders this institution deserving of patronage, and considering that it is the only medical college in the south-west it should be resorted to by all the students intending to practice physic in the valley of the lower Mississippi. The teachers are capable men and devoted to their profession, as their great exertions in establishing the school and liberality in erecting and fitting buildings fully warrant us in saying. They also enjoy the confidence of the citizens and faculty of New Orleans, and will, ere long, win a reputation throughout the south-west that will crowd the halls of the institution with students from this and the adjoining states. The school has already turned out a number of graduates, who are becoming distinguished ornaments of their profession, and with the increased facilities now enjoyed, we feel safe in saying that it offers a larger amount of inducements to the student than any other this side of the mountains.

ST. CHARLES.—Mr. H. Placide appears this evening in two of his favorite characters, viz: Grandfather Whitehead and Dulcimer Pipes. We need not urge upon the lovers of the pathetic and the humorous to witness these performances. Mr. Placide has already obtained a unanimous verdict of approval from delighted and enthusiastic audiences. In Grandfather Whitehead, his delineation of tottering senility, with all its moral as well as physical characteristics—its enfeebled and unsteady gait, its piping voice, its proneness to passion and tears, its doating fondness for children—is one of the most powerful and artistical personations we have ever beheld. Mr. P. has shown himself a consummate actor, and we doubt not that crowded houses will testify their appreciation of his merits throughout his engagement.

☞ The accusation of seduction, published in the Pencur, against the Rev. Napoleon Joseph Perche, is contradicted in yesterday's Courier in the following terms, by Mr. Emile Laviolette:

"He declares that according to the most exact and most scrupulous information of the French inhabitants of Louisville and of Indiana, he has learned that the documents that were submitted to him during the discussion that they had in the years 1840 and 1841, are false and erroneous. That the conduct of the ecclesiastic in question was most honorable in the different places where he has been employed. 2d. That the accusation that several persons have insinuated against the morals of that ecclesiastic, are without foundation. The Captain Jourdan has written to me, that the lady has not left her husband, and has united with her since my departure from Louisville."

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

RACES.—Col. Oliver arrived here yesterday from the West, and informs us that great sport may be expected over the Metairie Course this season.

☞ A person was yesterday arrested by the officers of the 1st municipality, charged with being implicated with Lee in the murder of Eliza Brown.

☞ John Walker and Alexander Miller, fugitives from justice, from the Missouri Penitentiary, were yesterday arrested by Lieut. Morel, of the 1st municipality police.

AMERICAN.—Burton, that prince of fun and farce, whose rich and exhaustless vein of humor causes "ribs of steel" to crack with peals of irrepressible laughter, personates Bob Acres in the comedy of Sheridan's comedy of the Rivals, and Gregory Thumbleroll, in the farce of State Secrets. In the latter character, we are told, he is inimitably facetious.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—The attention of the Court yesterday was principally confined to the trial of Simon Penard, charged with the murder of Madame Theriot, on board the ship Creole on her passage from Bordeaux, France, to New Orleans. After some discussion as to the legal qualifications of the jurors, a panel was finally completed and a number of witnesses examined. The testimony elicited was about the same as that developed before Recorder Genois at the preliminary examination of the accused. The court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning when the examination of the witnesses will be resumed.

☞ William Dunn was examined yesterday before Recorder Baldwin, charged with stealing seven pairs of boots from the store of Mr. Lyons in St. Charles street. In default of bail he was remanded to prison to await his trial before the Criminal Court.

CRIMINAL COURT.

The first case upon the docket yesterday was that of J. B. Poincy, f. m. c., for assaulting a white man with a razor. The jury found him guilty.

Joseph Berry, for assault and battery; acquitted.

The cases of Norman Shelton, for counterfeiting; Bernard Smith, for larceny, and Edward Palmer, for forgery were postponed, as the accused were not ready for trial.

The Grand Jury found true bills against J. B. Perault, for embezzling the funds of the Citizens' Bank, Reuben Butler Lee, for the murder of Eliza Brown, Bainbridge and Johnson for Larceny, and Schak for kidnapping a slave. The Jury ignored the bill against Augustus Barbee, accused of participating in the assault and robbery of young Converse.

The following cases are set for trial this morning:—Charles McKenna, for arson, John Dorman, John McLaughlin and Wm. Hagan, for assault and battery.

ARRIVAL OF THE CALEDONIA.

FOURTEEN DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

The steamship Caledonia, Capt. LOTT, arrived at Boston on the morning of the 21st, with the Liverpool mail of the 4th inst. She brought fifty-two passengers from Liverpool, left 3 at Halifax, and brought ten more from that port.

The Acadia, from Boston, arrived at Liverpool on the morning of the 25th ult, in ten days and nine hours from Halifax, and the Great Western arrived on the 1st inst, in twelve days and seventeen hours from New York.

On Thursday the 26th, a number of severe hail storms occurred in Liverpool and its neighborhood, which proved to be the precursors of a violent gale which lasted three days, and caused a great number of shipwrecks.

We are indebted to Wilmer & Smith's European Times for the greater part of our intelligence.

The advice in respect to cotton are not so favorable as per last accounts. The Liverpool market after receding 1-4d had recovered 1 8d on the arrival out of the Great Western, leaving it fully 1-8d below the previous quotations. The Havre market, as usual had jumped from one extreme to the other, and the advance of 8 to 10 centimes brought out by the last steamer, has been entirely lost.

From Wilmer & Smith's European Times.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 4.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

One of the most striking domestic events of late years is the result of the city of London election. It has astonished both parties. The commercial metropolis of the world has unequivocally declared its adherence to those principles of free trade which have been recently promulgated with such energy by Messrs. Cobden, Bright and others. London is now the head quarters of the League, and the friends of the defeated candidate found that the interference of this new agent, (in electioneering) so far from being resisted as an impertinence by the jealous citizens, was hailed by them as an ally. As it reflects the ministers' struggle in the House of Commons, the election itself is a bagatelle.

Ireland continues quiet. The country is extensively occupied by troops—in fact the whole available force of the British army has been thrown into it—the agitation has that subsided in tone, but equally effective in action, continues—the repeal coffers are swelled by thousands weekly—the much talked of Corn-law Hall has been opened—two or three men of mark have joined the movement just at the moment it became critical—and the proceedings against the agitators in connexion with the unhappy blunder of the government, short-hand writer, supporting the identity of Mr. Barrett, coupled with the present jury panel, and other matters, lead to the belief that the whole affair has been managed in an Irish way. The shortsighted Irish Secretary, Fitz is a total stranger in the country—was sent to Ireland to report speeches for the government, unaccompanied by any person upon whom he could rely for being acquainted with the personnel of the Repeal party, which that gentleman, according to satisfactory evidence, was not present. This blunder, which throws an air of ridicule over the prosecutions, has been so long and so well sustained, in no very complimentary terms to the "powers that be." It would appear, however, that the rumor which has been afloat for some days, to the effect that the prosecution would be abandoned, is not correct. The latest accounts from Ireland, which will be found under the proper head, state that the parties are preparing for their defence—that Mr. O'Connell will defend himself, and that Mr. Steele will compel the attendance of Sir Robert Peel, the Duke of Wellington, Lord Lyndhurst, and other distinguished members of the government as witnesses.

Since the above was in type, we have received the latest possible news from Dublin—to Friday night—We write on Saturday. In another column will be found Judge Burton's charge to the Grand Jury of Dublin, delivered on the afternoon of Thursday. The general tone is decidedly in favor of the charges which have been preferred by the government against Mr. O'Connell and the other Repealing Agitators, accompanied with other misdemeanors." As the Judge is what is termed a "constitutional lawyer," the tone of the charge has somewhat alarmed the Repeal party. At the time of the Grand Jury's being empannelled, it was believed the Grand Jury would find true bills against the parties, but not the least doubt existed that they would do so, from the fact—apart from other reasons—that the jury is composed of Protestant Orangemen, Tory in Politics, and strong reflexes of the Government. The announcement of the Judge's charge, however, has produced a startling effect on both sides of the Channel. Had the rumor, merely applied to members of the association, who is known to thirty-four thousand, it would not have excited so much wondering. But the rumor that "traitors" belong to the committee or executive branch of the Repeal Association. In the event of true bills being ignored, and the prosecutions abandoned, the incident, will ask for time to plead, and perhaps several days will elapse before the prosecutions formally commence. The number of Government witnesses is alarming, and the expense will be considerable. It is further stated that Government have additional evidence in the back ground, which will not be brought forward till the proper time. From the examination of witnesses, it would appear that Mr. Hughes, the author of their crack witness, Mr. Hughes, the short-hand writer, may break down, or have his evidence seriously damaged, from the blunder to which we have adverted, and which, if they are prepared with other evidence sufficient to sustain their case. The next packet will in all probability, carry out the result of the state prosecutions.

The famous professor of divinity, the Rev. Sydney Smith, is again in the field, with a pen as sharp and as keen-pointed as a rapier, denouncing American repudiation. He appeals to the British in a way in which he has been assailed by the American press, for his "petition to Congress" relative to the State debts of Pennsylvania, of which he is a holder. His present letter, is addressed to Pierce Butler, Esq. of Pierce Butler's Island, Georgia, and is given in another column, addressed to the Morning Chronicle, on the score of literary talent, a very finished composition, and, however much it may annoy the honest Republican, it has undoubtedly too much truth in it to sting. It will travel through every town in the three kingdoms, and form the subject of conversation in every circle—Pity that Americans, who, next to admiring the institutions of their country, ought to be proud of its literary character, do not take means to uphold the credit of both, abroad as well as at home—do not make some combined and systematic literary movement to wipe away a stain which makes them a byword and a reproach to the rest of the world. As with individuals, so with nations, honesty is the best policy, not merely with respect to the opinion of the worldly gain, but at a higher, self respect and moral dignity. The feeling which prevails throughout England on the subject of State indebtedness, is indeed strong, and

The Special Commission has been opened in Wales, by Mr Baron Gurney and Mr Justice Creswell, for the trial of parties connected with the Rebecca riots. The proceedings occupied three days. One of the leaders was found guilty, and sentenced to twenty years' transportation—the others to small terms of imprisonment. The punishments have all been mild with the exception of the principal offender.

The Queen has paid a visit to Cambridge, where she has been received by the learned gownsmen with every demonstration of loyalty. The University conferred upon her consort the honorary distinction of Doctor in Civil Law. The Queen visited the Fitzwilliam Museum, and the Botanic Garden, according to satisfactory evidence, was not present.
