REFORM PANACEAS.

There is no royal road to individual or public reform any more than to learning. Nor are all reformers who pretend to be such. It can only be effected by submitting to sacrifices, by recognizing and avowing the existence of the wrongs which call for correction, and by applying the proper remedy before we have arrived at the point when the case is beyond cure. It is not so much new laws that we want, for if the laws had been faithfully executed there would have been no demand for reforms. Nor is it change and experiment that are to bring relief. True reform must be built upon solid foundations, and be carried on in practical consistency with some definite and clear principles. Nothing can be idler than putting forth the mere empty declaration of what, on a superficial view, is asserted to be wrong, or it is imagined ought to be done. It is easy to talk loudly of abuses; less easy clearly and comprehensively to trace their sources, and to develope the true and practical modes of remedying them. Mere panaceas only end in disappointment, however honestly resorted to. It is important, then, that our citizens should not indulge in expectations which are not likely to be realized. We do not suppose that the financial difficulties of our city government spring from frauds upon the treasury of the character of those committed upon the people of New York city by Tweed and his associates. It is not probable that the committees appointed under the authority of the meeting of citizens at Mechanics' Institute to examine the books and documents at the City Hall, will discover considerable discrepancies or misappropriation of public moneys to the personal uses of those who are charged with their custody. The books of the corporation are doubtless all in order, and will disclose no transactions of magnitude evidencing an abuse of the trust reposed in the Administrators. If there have been unlawful or improper transactions it is not likely that a record of them has been kept. If there has been collusion with the city contractors we do not expect to find the evidence of it in the City Hall. In administering the affairs of the city, the forms required by the charter are likely to have been observed by the Administrators, and their measures will appear to have been adopted in accordance with law and with their own rules. It is not in that direction that we need look for traces of wrong-doing. We do not mean to say that expenditures in excess of receipts are valid even in form, or that evidences of indebtedness such as the certificates which are issued under the authority of the Council are binding upon the city. We think the municipal authorities of New Orleans have no power to create debts or put in circulation negotiable instruments such as we have named. It fosters speculation and enables public officers and their associates outside to tamper with the credit of the city, which could not have been the intention of the framers of the charter. We hold it to be the duty of the Administrators to keep themselves strictly within the limits fixed by the receipts into the treasury. What we mean to say is, that while the committees may find some extravagance at the City Hall, a clerical force too large perhaps and other leaks of a minor character, they will not be able to account for the existence of the debt by such discoveries. Undoubtedly if there had been any flagrant acts of misconduct on the part of Administrators they would have been detected and exposed long ago. We do not understand Mayor Flanders, or Mr. Lea's, or any one else, as making any such assertion. It is not in that way that the Administrators have whipped the trust committed to them. It is the system of government which has been at fault. The resources of the city have not been turned to the best advantage; far from it and the scale of expenditures has been established in accordance with the estimated receipts and with a view to a reduction of the heavy indebtedness resting upon our people, and the excessive taxation to which they are required to submit. The present government is not, it is true, responsible for the creation of the debt which they found to be in existence when they came into office, but they are responsible for their own acts. If they were not willing to carry the debt without adding to it, we may well ask why they undertook it. They voluntarily assumed the burden, and have no right now to complain of its weight, or to escape the penalty which the judgment of the community pronounces upon them. In government, as in war, success is the test of merit. The unsuccessful ruler is not suffered to make excuses for his failure. Public officers are judged by acts, not words. Why do not the members of the Council tell us where the root of the evil is, so that we may cut it up? If they are competent to govern the city, they ought to be able to point out the precise location of the disease and apply the proper remedy to it. But they are so far from doing this that they wish us to believe the Mayor has been croaking, and say they can manage to meet all liabilities and carry on the government during the coming year without increasing the debt and they contemplate large expenditures for paving the streets and other purposes. We are not so sanguine as Mr Shaw and those who concur with him in the view he takes. We should prefer some thing more tangible, more trustworthy than the mere opinions of the Administrators of Accounts, who it seems to us accepts the situation with more philosophy than we can apply to it. If the Mayor be a croaker, which we do not admit, or applies a magnifying instrument to the figures of the budget, Mr. Shaw seems to use a microscope for the discovery of the same figures. It is all cobweb do row with him.

As for the Administrator of Commerce he manifests a spirit of resistance to the proposed investigation which is unbecoming and inadmissible in a servant of the people. He seems to think that his acts are not for scrutiny but for unquestioned approval. Like his colleague the Administrator of Accounts, Mr. Remick would have us believe that the affairs of the city are not in so very bad a condition as the Mayor represents, and that if the policy of himself and associates were carried out, she would very soon be relieved. But it is evident to every one outside of the Hall and to some inside of it, that if a new policy be not adopted immediately and strictly followed, the case will be beyond cure. It is not so much a change in the form of Government, nor even a change of men although some improvement might be effected in both directions, but a change of course that is demanded.

COTTON ESTIMATE FOR THE WORLD.—The following is a Washington special to the St. Louis Democrat:

The following estimate of the supply of cotton from all parts of the world, for the year ending September 30, 1872, is from a most reliable source: Crop of the United States, 3,225,000 bales; supply from East Indias, 1,500,000 bales; Brazil, 500,000 bales; Egypt, 350,000 bales; from other countries, 250,000 bales; add to the above the excess of stock in European ports, 254,000 bales; excess in United States ports, 45,000 bales; in spinners' hands, 300,000 bales; making the total supply for the year 6,479,000 bales. Allowing that the consumption for the entire year will be at the rate of 195,000 bales per week, which rate can only be reduced by extremely high prices, there would be on hand at the end of the year, 399,000 bales.

JACKSON RAILROAD.—The mail train on the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad, making schedule connections with express trains to all points, will now leave at half-past five o'clock p. m. instead of 4:30.

New Sanitary Fertilizer Manufacturing Company.

In our advertising columns to-day will be found the charter of a company lately incorporated in this city under the title at the head of this notice. The purpose and object of the company are stated in the second article of the charter. It is the preparation, manufacture, introduction and sale in New Orleans, throughout the State of Louisiana and all the other States of the Union of all fertilizing compounds of any kind or material whatsoever, especially of those patented or to be patented by Henry C. Bull; also, the manufacture of the disinfectants, deodorizers, disinfecting closets and improved methods and appparatus for emptying cesspools, patented under the same name. The purposes and business of said company shall also be to make contracts with corporations or individuals for cleaning streets, buildings, public or private, and canals, and to manufacture all ingredients and chemicals necessary for, or produced from, the manufacture of fertilizers and of bone black for refining and other uses.

The officers of the company are: Dr. J. J. Castellanos, President; W. B. Koontz, Vice-President; Edw. S. Wurtzburger, Treasurer, and H. C. Bull, Superintendent.

The system of manufacture and application of the fertilizers and disinfectants is represented to us as being the best now before the public.

DISAPPEARANCE OF A. W. WALKER.—On Tuesday last the friends and acquaintances of Mr. Augustus W. Walker, of St. Bernard parish, were surprised by the announcement that he had disappeared from home, not having been seen or heard of since Friday last. There is some reason to believe that he may have committed suicide, letters written by him immediately before his disappearance, to members of his family and to his legal advisers indicating that such was his intention. Mr. Walker has been engaged for some years in litigation involving the possession and ownership of the plantation on which he resided, and a judgment final was recently pronounced against him by the Supreme Court of Louisiana. It is supposed that this misfortune weighed upon his mind and impelled him to terminate his life. Mr. Walker was a staunch Democrat, and took considerable interest in political affairs. He was always a prominent man in his parish, and we think served repeatedly in the Legislature as a Representative from that parish in the lower House. He was a man of decided ability and experience in affairs. He leaves a wife and several children. His body has not yet been found, nor is there any clue to it.

SOUTHERN HISTORICAL SOCIETY.—A monthly meeting of this body was held on Monday evening last in the Rooms of the Howard Association, Rev. Dr. Palmer, President, in the chair.

The Secretary, Dr. J. W. Caldwell, reported the condition of the treasury and read several communications from distinguished citizens of other States in answer to letters written by him in behalf of the society. One of these was from General Jubal Early, accepting the Vice-Presidency of the Virginia Branch Society, made vacant by the death of General Robert E. Lee. Another was from John S. Holt, Esq., of Natchez, Miss., author of "Abraham Page" and other works, thanking the society for the honor they had conferred upon him by electing him an honorary member. The Secretary also reported that arrangements were in progress for the delivery of a course of lectures in this city during the present winter, by distinguished orators, under the auspices of the society. Among the gentlemen who have been addressed on the subject are: Gen Early, Gen. Wade Hampton, Rev. Father Ryan and Rev. Dr. Palmer. The first of these lectures will probably be delivered in February. After transacting ordinary business, the society adjourned.
