COMMERCIAL.

THURSDAY EVENING, July 3, 1856.

There has been a fair amount of business doing this week, considering the advanced period of the season, and prices have been generally well sustained for our leading articles, such as Cotton, Sugar, Tobacco, Molasses, Flour and Grain. In Pork, an advance has taken place, which is also the case with Bacon, Lard and Provisions generally.

COTTON.—Arrivals since the 27th ult., 1,[illegible] bales. Cleared in the same time for Liverpool, 4,[illegible] bales, Havre, 1,[illegible]; Vera Cruz, 4[illegible]; other ports, 7[illegible] bales; making a reduction in stock of 5,[illegible] bales, and leaving on hand, including all in the presses and [illegible], and on shipboard not cleared this day, a stock of 43,[illegible] bales.

The week now under review has been one of inactivity and quiet in the Cotton market, the receipts being too insignificant, and the stock too small and poorly assorted to admit of any transaction of magnitude, or to allow of the assortment of most of the orders for Europe, or for the North. Under these circumstances, we have to report for the week's sales of only about 2[illegible] bales, including 8[illegible] on Saturday, 1,[illegible] on Monday, 1,[illegible] on Tuesday, and about 5[illegible] yesterday and to-day. Prices have been irregular, but generally quite firm, especially for the better qualities, and we repeat our previous quotations as well sustained. The recent accounts from Europe have produced no effect here, the market being so small as to render the market comparatively independent of all foreign influences.

TOBACCO—The large operations of the previous week having much reduced the stock on sale, and the receipts having materially fallen off of late, holders have been generally setting higher prices, which has had a tendency to check the demand, and the sales of the week just closed have not exceeded 200 hhds. Prices as above on last quotations have occasionally been paid, but we retain them for the present.
