The Whigs who are desirous of joining the Delegation from the City of New Orleans to the Convention at Natchez, to be holden on Thursday the 5th September, are notified that a list of volunteers is open at the office of H. S. Buckner, Esq., 72 Gravier street, where they will obtain their credentials and every information as to the time of their departure and return, conveyance, price, &c.

30th August, 1844.

WHIG HEAD QUARTERS,

76 St. Charles street—Second Municipality.

A monthly meeting of the Second Municipality Democratic Whig Association will take place on Monday evening, September 1st, at 7 o'clock. Business of importance will be brought before the meeting, and the attendance generally of the whig is desired.

By order. C. W. CAMMACK, JOHN CALPIN, } Secretaries

GEORGE K. ROGERS.

The whigs of the First Ward 1st Municipality, have made an excellent choice in the person of Mr Rogers as their candidate for Alderman. He has been a resident of the ward, we believe since infancy; is intelligent, well informed, and perfectly competent to support the interests of this section of the city. Let the Whigs of this ward, which has never yet surrendered to the enemy, turn out on Monday and give him a noble majority.

THE ANTI-TEXAS LOCOFOCO MANIFESTO.

In the New York Evening Post of the 20th inst., is published the famous Joint Letter or Circular which Messrs. Bryant, Edward and others of the Locofoco party have transmitted to the leaders, throughout the Empire State, with a view to regulate their consciences and control their conduct in the approaching contest.—The document is one of considerable length. We cannot transfer it entire to our columns, but must content ourselves with a faithful summary of its views.

The manifesto begins by informing the Locofocos of New York that Mr Van Buren was rejected by the Baltimore Convention on account of his opposition to the Texas treaty, and that Mr Polk was nominated for reasons connected with the immediate annexation of Texas, and that the Convention adopted a resolution pledging the party to Annexation at the earliest practicable period. It thus asks, whether the Democratic party at the South ought to reject the nominations and abandon the contest, or support them, rejecting the resolution respecting Texas, and taking measures to counteract its tendency. The latter alternative has been preferred. But the Anti-Texas Locofocos are determined to support Mr Polk with a protest against his principles, and accordingly the Manifesto lays down the arguments of this protest very clearly and explicitly. The Locofocos protest against the resolution because it was an unauthorized act of the Convention (So, however, was the nomination of James K Polk, against which they ought equally to protest.) Even if the members of the Convention had had the authority of a majority of its constituents for its resolution, it would not, says the manifesto, have bound the minority, because it was not an exposition of any principle of the party, or of any measure which those principles require. This view of the subject is elaborated at considerable length and with great plausibility the manifesto declaring that its authors consider the resolution unjust and unwise and condemning it for the following reasons:

1st.—Because annexation would be a violation of our treaty obligations with Mexico, that country claiming Texas and being at war with the Young Republic.

2nd.—Texas has an enormous public debt which she is unable to pay, which must be assumed by the United States, or left, as it now is, a dishonored claim upon an insolvent State—either which alternative is alike to be deplored.

3rd.—Texas is a slave country, and received into its institutions, will claim admission into the Union with its slavery, its unequal representation and its requisition upon the free States. The authors of the manifesto protest that they are not abolitionists, but are not willing in their concessions to the South to go beyond the compromises of the Constitution. While thus protesting, however, they argue against slavery in Texas with all the zeal of the most rampant negrophilist. The following extracts speak for themselves:

"It is said that the Annexation of Texas will not increase the number of slaves. If it were so, it would not remove our objection—for the Annexation would still increase our connection with Slavery. Why should we multiply our relations with it, even if the sum total remains the same? If it were proposed to bring under the American flag all the slave communities of the world, would it overcome our repugnance to it, to tell you that the number of Slaves would not be increased.

"We are unwilling to give to any foreign Slave holding nation, these extraordinary and unequal privileges, greater than our own, which our forefathers gave to their brethren and companions in arms. A citizen of Mississippi, with five slaves, has virtually as many votes as four citizens of New York. If Texas ever comes into this Union, none of its citizens shall have, with our consent, more power than a citizen of our own State.

"But they err, who think that the Annexation of Texas will not increase Slavery and the number of Slaves. The Annexation is pressed upon us by a portion of the South as a new source of prosperity for Slave Industry, and a new guarantee to their Institutions.—Do they not know their own interests better than we?—Political economy and our own experience both teach us a different lesson. Slavery has increased in Virginia and the Carolinas since the annexation of Louisiana.—Slave breeding is always commensurate with Slave markets. Population expands with the means of its subsistence and the demand for its industry. To increase the market and the value of its population. No law of political economy is more certain."

For these reasons, the New York Locofocos declare that they are firmly and unalterably opposed to the Annexation of Texas, in any shape in which it has yet been offered to the American people. They advise—most strange and preposterous incongruity—that the party shall sustain the Texas candidate for President, but elect wherever they can, Anti-Texas members of Congress, so as to prevent Annexation, under all circumstances. That we may not be accused of garbling the language of the manifesto, we quote the concluding paragraph. It needs no comment, such ridiculous inconsistency; such a miserable, flimsy attempt to reconcile their support of a candidate nominated expressly because he was in favor of annexation, with their hatred of the measure, is of itself the most fitting comment that can be offered:

"How shall we separate the true issues from the false? How to reconcile the conflicting wishes and duties which the error of the Baltimore Convention has created, is the question which we have anxiously considered. We see no means of doing so, but to support the nominations of members of Congress opposed to this annexation.—The President can do nothing of himself if the two Houses are of a different opinion. To this point, then, we invite your particular attention. You can, if you choose, effectually counteract the tendency to annexation, by electing members of Congress opposed to it.—You are about to elect thirty-four members of the lower House of Congress, and a State Legislature that will elect one member of the Senate. If we might be allowed to counsel you at this crisis, we would do so, and earnestly entreat you not to falter in your support of the Baltimore nominations, but at the same time to nominate for those elections no man who is committed in this scheme—this unwise, unjust, un-American scheme of adding Texas to our dominions, without even a plausible pretext, with indecent haste, regardless of treaties and consequences, with its war, its debt, its slave institutions, and their preponderating political power."

"July 15, 1844."

TESTIMONY OF MR. BUCHANAN.

In a speech delivered by the Hon. James Buchanan, before the members of the Pennsylvania Democratic State Convention, in August, 1840, when speaking of the nomination of Gen. Harrison over Mr Clay, he says:—

"The whig party had in Mr Clay a candidate of whom they may have been justly proud—a man of a bold and fearless heart—a man of high and commanding eloquence, and a man of distinguished ability. Although opposed to his political principles, yet I have ever felt for him the highest regard."

Such, remarks the Newark Advertiser, is the uniform language of nearly all men who have been associated with Mr Clay in public life. We never hear such foul abuse of him from the Senators of the Republic, on either side, as disgraces the columns of the locofoco press, and which is echoed about the country by the foul mouthed retailers of slander, at popular meetings. Such men as Silas Wright, James Buchanan, Benton, McDuffie, R. M. Johnson, and their peers, uniformly speak of Mr Clay with every mark of respect for his virtues and services, and distinctly put their opposition to his advancement upon the ground of his political doctrines. It is reserved for the hireling scribblers and irresponsible noisy stump orators of the party—at once the shame and the scourge of the country—to detract from his merits and besmear him with their slaver.—Sensible people should remember this.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

RECORDERS COURTS.—Wm Purcell, who with his wife Cecelia, James O'Hara, and Philip Miller, was arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the murder of James Brown, was brought before acting Recorder Caldwell yesterday morning. Purcell's wife has been discharged, there being no evidence against her. O'Hara and Miller were admitted to give evidence. After a careful and patient investigation, from which it appears that a quarrel ensued between Brown and Purcell, at Purcell's house, at the corner of Gaiennie and Tchoupitoulas streets, on Monday last, after which a fight took place, when Brown received a dreadful beating and died soon afterwards,—the Recorder sent Purcell before the Criminal Court on a charge of manslaughter. Brown, it may not be amiss to mention, had been in a sickly state for sometime previous. O'Hara and Miller are under bonds for their appearance to give testimony before the Criminal Court.

Martin Hoyer, f. m. c., was sent before the Criminal Court, charged with being in the State in contravention of law.

John O'Connell was sent to the same place charged with stealing a pair of shoes.

Frank Shulter, for stealing a decanter, was sent to the workhouse by Recorder Genois, as a vagrant, for 15 days.

John McDonald, Venteura Gonzales, John Rogers and Michael Power, were severally sent down by Recorder Genois for vagrancy, and offending against the laws, by fighting and quarrelling.

Michael McLane and Mary McLane have been arrested by the First Municipality police, charged with keeping a disorderly house in Customhouse street.—Yesterday they gave bail for their appearance before Recorder Genois, when the charge is to be investigated.

DREADFUL ACCIDENT.—About 11 o'clock yesterday morning, as a drayman named Richard Langley, was in the act of raising the hatch in the third story of the store No. 21 Old Levee street, he fell through on to the ground floor, broke his neck, and died instantly. Langley was a native of Ireland. The Coroner held an inquest on the body, and a verdict of "accidental death" was returned.

NORTH CAROLINA.—Complete, but unofficial returns from North Carolina, make Graham's majority 3,423.—Hyde gave 220 whig majority, and Gates 26 locofoco.

The Native American Party of Philadelphia have nominated John W. Ashmead as their candidate for Congress from the Second Congressional District.

The Morning Chronicle—the abolition paper in Boston, edited by Leavitt, endeavors to prove that the Annexation of Texas will abolish slavery.

MURDER IN NEW YORK.—A colored man named Wm. D. Livingston was stabbed in the streets of New York on the 20th, and died in a few minutes. When perceived he was unable to speak, and could not mention the name, or give any description of the assassin.

The Locofocos, at their ward meeting in New York, on the 20th August, chose delegates in nearly every instance opposed to the nomination of Governor Bouck, and in favor of Silas Wright. This settles the business, so far as Bouck is concerned.

The house of Governor Fenner, at Providence was entered a few nights since and a considerable quantity of plate stolen. The burglars did not alarm the family, and went off leaving the door open and a light burning. It is supposed that they secreted themselves in the house before the doors were locked at night.

Hon. Alex. Ramsey has been nominated as the whig candidate for Congress in the Twelfth Congressional District of Pennsylvania, composed of the counties of Lebanon, Schuylkill and Dauphin. Put him elected by not less than 1000 majority.

A practical refutation of a locofoco calumny was furnished a few days since. There was, at Carlisle, Pa. one of those whig mass meetings of ten or twelve thousand which have become so common throughout the North and West. The gentleman who presided over the gathering was none other than the veteran Joseph Ritner, formerly Governor of Pennsylvania, whom the locofocos have unceremoniously claimed as a convert. We fancy they will hardly continue the claim, even with all their tenacity for sticking to a story, true or false.

PROGRESS OF THE CAUSE.—The Jackson (Michigan) Gazette publishes the card of John H. Nelson, Esq, renouncing locofocoism and all its works. The Portland (Maine) Advertiser of the 19th contains a letter from Mr. Benj. Gott, of Mount Desert, and another signed by Messrs. Charles Powers, James Colbath, Thomas B Willet and Guilford Goddard, of Brunswick, in which they state their intention to abandon locofocoism and vote for Clay. So we go, even in benighted Maine.

SHIPWRECK.—A letter was received yesterday from Pensacola, under date of the 28th instant, addressed to Messrs. J. W. Zacharie & co., stating that a large ship having on board about 1800 bales of cotton, bound from this port, had gone ashore on the beach some 30 miles to the eastward of Pensacola. Name unknown. The captain had arrived at the Navy Yard, whither he had gone for assistance.

We have more than once arraigned locofocoism at the bar of justice for stealing whig songs; but neither admonition nor remonstrance seems to have any effect. The Baltimore Patriot grows absolutely pathetic in its entreaties to the intractable locofocos to cease this filching business. It says: "There is no saying how far the locofocos will carry this sort of grand larceny—this stealing of whig thoughts for the benefit of Polk—but they go on as if they would stop at nothing. Why, it was only the other evening that we heard them "making night hideous" by endeavoring to set forth the praises of Polk and Dallas, in the good and cheering tune of "Old Dan Tucker." In the name of the venerable Daniel Tucker, whose bones must stir in their grave in Tennessee, at this degradation of his name and song, we protest against a further use by the Locofocos, of this emphatic, and, by prescription, exclusive whig tune. If there is any thing in ghosts, it may reasonably be expected that the disembowelled body of "Old Dan" himself will appear in the next loco meeting where the outrage on him is attempted, and make the songsters scamper."

POLK'S DUPLICITY ON THE TARIFF.

Mr. Rhett, the Leader of the Chivalry, bears testimony to the double dealing of the Loloco Candidate, in relation to the Tariff. In a speech delivered in Orangeburg, S. C., on the 5th inst, and reported in the Charleston Mercury, he said:

"Nothing is to be hoped from the Presidential election—Mr Polk has already been trimming his sails so as to catch the breath of both North and South. His profession in favor of a Revenue Tariff for incidental Protection—for protecting all interests, and his adoption of the Baltimore Resolution, are three gigantic humbugs, which might blind and would certainly betray us.—There is no redress to be expected from him."

Whig Speakers, confront the Locofoco Orators with this testimony from a witness of their own. [Richmond Whig.

A TRUE HEARTED VETERAN.—Many of our readers will recollect the story of the veteran patriot John Johnston, of Piqua, Ohio, who rode on horseback to Baltimore and back, at the time of the great Whig Convention in May. Well, last week there was a great grand gathering of the 'Miami Tribe' of Buckeyes at Piqua, which Mr Johnston was unable to attend in consequence of being called away by his duties as President of the Board of Trustees of Miami University.—And so he published a letter in the Register, apologizing for his absence, and full of encouragement to his whig brethren, on the cheering prospects of their cause. The letter concludes with the following characteristic paragraph:—

"During my absence my son John will take care of the Whig cause at Upper Piqua; the Latch String will be found out a great ways. JOHN JOHNSTON. Upper Piqua, Aug 3, 1844."

There was a curious case before one of the New York courts on the 20th inst. It was an action brought by a Mr. Jackson against Mrs. Joseph for the recovery of ten dollars. It appears that the man was paying court to a girl of whom he was enamored. The ten dollars were given as a fee to Mrs. Joseph to assist him in his suit, with the proviso that they were to be returned if the nuptials should not be consummated. The marriage was accomplished, but Jackson insisted on a return of the money, alleging that the fair go-between had rendered no assistance—that he, the plaintiff, had done all the courting himself. The defendant contended she had greatly assisted him, and that without her help the man would never have accomplished his object. The court finally, after a patient hearing, gave a verdict for Mrs. Joseph.

TAKE NOTICE.

We copy the following from the New York Tribune of the 21st inst:

"Bennett's Herald, it may be as well to inform our friends every where, who hear of it but do not see it, is sold out, body and breeches, to the locofocos for the campaign, and is busy in fabricating returns and falsifying reports to suit its new vocation. Having done its utmost to secure a victory to Nativism it is now doing all it can to defeat that party and redound to the advantage of locofocoism. All that we desire is that it should be fairly understood abroad, and not palmed off as a "neutral" paper, on the Journal of Commerce sheet is."

INDIANA.

By the way of New York we learn that the whig majority in the House will more than probably be eight or ten, instead of six as at first stated. The Senate will be a tie.

As our opponents are making considerable fuss over the popular vote, we copy for their benefit and for our whig friends, the following from an article in the New York Tribune upon the subject:

"And now as to the last clutch of our opponents—the Popular Vote. It will be impossible to make a perfect table, because the contest was not every where conducted on party grounds. Thus in Jennings county the candidates were all whigs; so in Perry, for all offices but Sheriff, so in several others. In Vigo all the candidates for members were whigs, and two of the volunteers succeeded over the regular nominees, aided by locofoco votes. In Washington, on the other hand, the volunteers supported by the whigs succeeded over the regular candidates. Ditto in Sullivan, where the member elect, supported by the whigs, is claimed as favorable to all the whig measures. But we presume in every such case the members chosen will vote the known sentiment of their several counties on all strictly party questions, as they clearly ought to do.

There are a few counties in which the locofocos gained in the vote—Dearborn, Parke, Franklin, &c.—in nearly every instance by heavy naturalization. Franklin has been changed from a whig to a locofoco county by a heavy German immigration, and will be gradually changed back again as the Germans become better acquainted with our language and political differences.—In Parke the locofoco candidate for Senator was a recent apostate from the whig party, and a desperate effort was made for him. He is defeated by 7 votes; the whig members succeeded by 14 and 15.

The following are all the counties from which we have full official returns, except those in which there was no party contest. In every instance we have taken the candidates on each side who appeared to afford the fairest test, though often the least favorable to the whig party.

This is just about the average ratio of increase on each side, except in a few counties where the newly naturalized vote is quite heavy. The loco majority last year was 2,013. Can we doubt that this has now been overcome, and that the State is now safe for Clay and Frelinghuysen?"

HON. GEORGE P. MARSH.

We have from time to time adverted to the extraordinary attainments of this gentleman—at present a whig member of Congress from Vermont. The following from a correspondent of the Boston Transcript gives a somewhat fuller account of Mr Marsh's talents and requirements:

While in Burlington, I had the satisfaction of meeting with that rare scholar, and excellent man, the Hon George P. Marsh. He is a resident of this town, and notwithstanding that he has given his time and talents arduously to the profession of the law, yet he has found time to lay up such an immense fund of learning, (more particularly as a linguist) that, though some years short of forty, his fame as a scholar is hardly surpassed by any other American. Mr Marsh's library is certainly a curiosity, considered as the collection and property of a private individual. It is divided into alcoves, each of which contains the works of one particular language—the Latin, Greek, &c., and all modern European languages—the mere enumeration of which, as acquired by Mr Marsh, would of itself be quite formidable. In the Northern tongues—those of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Iceland—there are books enough, of themselves, to constitute a good sized library. It was as author of an Icelandic Grammar—the first ever published in the English language—that Mr Marsh became known to the public as more than a common scholar. The novelty of the circumstances under which this singular work was composed and brought out—the author being a young lawyer, depending upon his profession for a livelihood, unknown to fame, untravelled, and almost isolated in a small inland town, with but a meagre collection of publications in the language, and them not of the best—and the fact, that under such circumstances, the only work of the kind in the English tongue, and that a highly creditable one, should be produced, took the public quite by surprise, and at once raised the author to a very enviable position as a linguist. It would seem that he has devoted many leisure hours to the languages and history of the Northern nations, and that but few men in this, or any country, are better acquainted with this kind of lore. He has just accepted an invitation, as he informed me, to deliver the next annual address before the New England Society in New York—the first after the celebrated effort of Mr Choate, which gave rise to the famous—or as famous—controversy on the question of "a church without a bishop." Mr Marsh has already been elected for one term to Congress, and is a candidate for re-election this autumn. No doubt is entertained of his success—and to defeat such a man, would be to banish one of the few pure and true men from the arena of blackguards, loafers and gladiators, which have been turned by worms into the halls of Congress. This from an anti-partisan.

GLIMPSES OF THE PROSPECTS.

Although the letter, of which the subjoined is an extract, is from one of the most intelligent and judicious citizens of Pennsylvania, and was not designed for publication, yet, as it indicates, as we believe, with prophetic truth, the issue of the Electoral election in that State, we trust that the writer will excuse our publishing it, omitting his name and place of residence. So much false information is industriously circulated on the subject, we desire that our readers at least shall not be misled by it, so as we see that our political opponents are likely to be:

"PENNSYLVANIA, ——, August 14.

"I am certain that many, very many, in this part of the country, who voted for Van Buren, will now vote for Mr. CLAY. I know of many such cases myself. Mr Clay will be supported by all who voted for General Harrison, and by many more. Polk will not get any thing like the vote in this county that Van Buren did.—This is certain. You may rely on it. I cannot be mistaken. To make this communication short, Mr. CLAY will, in my opinion, receive the vote of this State. I have taken pains to get information from all parts of the State, and this is my opinion deliberately formed and firmly fixed. I feel as certain of this State as I do of any other. Every thing works well, and I do most confidently anticipate the result I have above stated.

"Mr. CLAY merits the vote of this State, and he must have it. He has always stood by our interests firmly, when our own men abandoned them. This is a truth that the people now know and appreciate; and gratitude and strict justice demand for him a larger majority than ever General Jackson received at the polls in this State. This we cannot give; but we will give enough to secure to him her electoral vote. Mark this, and you will find it verified after the votes are counted.'

The following extract from a business letter, from a highly respectable gentleman residing some fifty miles from Richmond, under date of August 2, presents a view of the political prospect in Virginia upon which we place great reliance:

"Our cause in this region is, I think, advancing. At the last spring election the whigs obtained a larger majority in the popular branch of the General Assembly than ever before or since the present organization of parties; though, owing to the democratic ascendancy in the Senate, the majority is small on joint vote. We gain, I think, more than we lose by the Texas question. The matter is coming to be properly understood, and the peace and honor of the country and the permanence of the Union will, assuredly, be preferred even to territorial aggrandizement.

"Mr. Clay's chance to get the vote of Virginia is good, and, should my presentiments of the August and October elections be verified in the result, almost certain.—Yours, &c.

NEW-ORLEANS, TUESDAY NIGHT, August 28, 1844.

The general market is utterly devoid of animation, and so few changes have occurred, that the accompanying remarks are in substance a repetition of our last report.

The weather since our last has been clear, but remarkably cool for the season. We are happy to state that the health of the city is excellent.

To-morrow being the close of the year, we shall present to our readers on Monday morning, a succinct review of the operations of the past season, with particular reference to the leading staples of this market.

COTTON—Arrived since the 27th inst. of Louisiana and Mississippi, 1074 bales, (all new crop)—Tennessee and North Alabama, 9; Mobile, 77; together, 1160 bales; making the total receipts since the 1st of September, 914,606 bales, against 1,060,271 at the same period last year. Cleared, in the same time, for Havana, 50 bales—Baltimore, 386; together, 436 bales; making an addition to stock of 1082 bales; and leaving on hand, inclusive of all on shipboard not cleared this day, a stock of 17,980 bales.

Referring to our report of Tuesday last, in which we noticed the Cotton market as remaining in a drooping condition with a downward tendency, we have now to remark that the transactions since, although more extensive, have partaken of the same character, the disposition to sell being decidedly more marked than that to purchase.

The sales of Wednesday were 170 bales; yesterday 400, and to-day, 900, of which the greater portion was new Cotton, bought chiefly for England and France, with some straggling lots for the North. These operations enable us to establish a range of quotations for the new crop, and we furnish our figures for old cottons as the stock is reduced to about 1,000 bales, comprising one crop of 800, which will probably be off the market before our next report. The staple is beginning to arrive very freely, and the total receipts of the new crop now amounts to 4,073 bales, against 191, at the same period last year.

The business of the week has reached 1,630 bales, of which 1,100 were disposed off during the past three days and comprised in the following particulars:—47 bales Louisiana and Mississippi, new, at 7½c—100 do at 7¼c—37 do at 7c—16 do at 6¾c—94 do at 6½—64 do at 6¼—94 do at 6¼c—14 do at 7½—12 do at 6¾—22 do at 7 3/16—34 do at 6, 17 to at 7c—26 do at 7c—41 do at 7 1/16—35 do at 6c—106 do at 6⅛c—10 do at 6¼c—75 do at 6½c—72 do at —60 at 7½c—50 Louisiana and Mississippi old at 5¼—52 do at 6½c, and 100 North Alabama, at 5¾ cents ⅌ lb.
