The fashion, besides, is the Italian opera. The great stars on the artistic heaven are Mme. Lagrange and Miss Ada Phillips, the dashing diva of Boston; Signors Bagnolis and Amadeo, Mme. Lagrange, doubtless, is the first and unrivaled songstress, now that Jenny Lind has retired from the stage, and it would be superfluous to say anything more to her praise. Miss Ada Phillips, whose star rose at Milan, in Italy, has a contralto voice of the largest dimension, and her whole range, from the highest to the lowest notes, is equally pure and sweet. When she went over from Italy, where she received her education, to London, in order to sing at the Grand Opera, Johanna Wagner, a contralto of the first reputation in Europe, having heard her in "Romeo" and "Semiramide," declared that she gave up the idea of crossing the Atlantic, as she would find a rival in the United States not easy to be conquered. Then Miss Phillips came over to the United States, where she achieved many triumphs in the North, at Philadelphia, Boston and New York. But in New York it was almost impossible for her to play in one of her favorite parts. So often is the greatest talent injured by professional jealousy. an American lady remarked, lately, very truly: "Mme. Lagrange has a voice like a flute, and Miss Phillips like a bell, but both are of an entirely different style of singing." And it would be impossible to unite the flute and the bell together. Out of fifteen performances here, Miss Phillips got but two parts: in "Il Trovatore," and "Orsini" in "Lucrezia Borgia;" in both of which she was enthusiastically applauded. At a concert that the English vocalist, "Elliot," gave to the Lyceum last night, Miss Phillips sang an English song: "My heart is breaking," and two Italian airs, the last of which, from the "Lombardi," was applauded tremendously, and the Captain General himself contributed his share to the loud and long applause. She was called out four times, and achieved a well-deserved triumph, that her numerous friends felt and enjoyed with her. The freshness and purity of her voice, the nature and truth of her acting, the loveliness of her appearance, captivated all hearts, and our Spanish ladies exclaim the words, "Oh, como es bonita esta Americana Bitarrita!"

The opera, perhaps, may pay you a visit, but, we hope, in this case, that the Americans will oblige Mr. Maretzek to acknowledge the genius of their country woman, whose star is rising from day to day, in order to prove that the United States may produce nightingales as well as Swedes.

Jenny Goddard and his lady have returned from their trip into the North, and received permission to make several ascensions.

Our hotels are crowded, although the number has been augmented by several new ones. Lagrange, and most of the opera troupe, are staying at Le Grand's, Miss Phillips in the Hotel Cubano, where she is the centre one of the finest and most elegant circles every evening, where music and dancing are the order of the day. This largest of our establishments, with its many spacious and lofty rooms, visited by the American "tout monde" every year, is still managed by Mrs. Brewers, who treats her guests with an extreme hospitality.

A protest against the election of Hon. Simon Cameron to the United States Senate was offered in both houses of the Legislature on the 19th. It was postponed in the Senate, but in the House a motion to record it failed for want of a quorum voting on the question.

JAMAICA.—We have news from Jamaica to the 24th ult. In reviewing the resources of the island the Cornwall Chronicle says:

"A reasonable share of some kind would be necessary to reciprocate Jamaica from her present drooping and sickly condition, and nothing would sooner do so than some important additional staple of manufacture than sugar."

A schooner rigged boat had been boarded by the assistant harbor-master, five miles to the leeward of Barbadoes, and on which had been detected eleven sturdy Africans, in a state of nudity, and without water or provisions. It seems, from the account of one who could speak broken English, that they were emigrants who had left the coast of Africa for Cayenne, on a contract of service, but not having been well treated, they had seized the first favorable opportunity of putting to sea in a government boat. It is presumed something will be said by the French government touching this affair.

CHARITY HOSPITAL.

The report of the administrators of this noble institution is now before us. We learn from it that the income of the Hospital for 1856 was $92,162 03, exclusive of a balance of $19,889 15, and the expenditures amounted to $73,328 11, leaving a balance in the treasury of $8,423 07. The outstanding debts against the institution amount to $11,500. The admissions into the Hospital during the year 1856 numbered 9427; the discharges, 8598; deaths, 976. These figures contrast favorably with those of the year previous, during which the admissions were 12,192; discharges 9701, and deaths 2391. The difference is explained by the fact that the summer of 1855 was a healthy one. Of the entire number of admissions last year, 1369 were natives of the United States; 8045 were born in foreign countries, and the nativity of 18 was unknown. The obstetrical department reports 121 births during the year. In the catalogue of diseases treated in the Hospital, we find only 98 cases of yellow fever mentioned. The number of cases in 1855 was more than twenty-fold that figure.

The Vice-President of the Board of Administrators, Mr. J. A. Brand, invokes legislative attention to the uncertain and fluctuating character of the sources of revenue by which the Hospital is maintained. The first is the tax on foreign immigrants, which has gradually decreased from $71,000 in 1854 to $28,424 25 in 1856. With this immense reduction, it is evident that the usefulness of the institution will be seriously impaired, unless some additional means of support are provided for it.

The tax upon balls and concerts varies in amount. The action of the Council in closing low and disorderly balls, has cut off a portion of the Hospital revenue. Within the last few months, however, by the assistance of the attorney of the institution, a larger amount has been collected than within any previous year.

The court fines, formerly a portion of the revenue of the Hospital, have been, by a legislative enactment, directed into another channel, to wit: the payment of criminal expenses.

The report pertinently and forcibly exhibits the unnumbered blessings dispensed all over the country by the Charity Hospital, and points out the absolute necessity of establishing the institution upon a firm basis, by making ample provisions for any lack of means that a fluctuating revenue may demand. Improvements, too, of an indispensable character are needed, which will involve a considerable outlay. The report suggests the establishment of an Almshouse, which would usefully employ a host of paupers, whose only resources are mendicity or vice, and would thus remove from the Hospital a part of the burden now imposed upon it.

We deem it almost superfluous to add anything to the statements embodied in the foregoing synopsis. They are eloquent facts, and conclusively attest the importance of the Charity Hospital, its extreme usefulness, and the solidity of its claims upon the justice as well as the generosity of the General Assembly. We are glad to perceive that the Executive has not overlooked the value of the institution, but has recommended it in warm language to the favorable consideration of the Legislature.

HAVANA.

ARRIVAL OF THE CAHAWBA.

The U. S. mail steamer Cahawba, J. D. Butlin, commander, from New York, via Havana, arrived yesterday morning, having left the latter place, on the 17th instant. The Cahawba brings files of papers to the day of her departure from Havana.

There was nothing of interest stirring. The opera troupe were still delighting the good people of Havana, and would probably remain a month longer. They were reaping a golden harvest.

Exchange was more favorable. The new crop of sugar was coming in. The Cahawba experienced very heavy weather on her passage from Havana. She encountered a tremendous norther which lasted two days. On Sunday passed a large ship steering to the South and East.

The subjoined letter from our Havana correspondent furnishes an interesting summary of the news and other intelligence:

Our Havana Correspondence.

HAVANA, January 16, 1857.

It is rather long since I last wrote, but very little of interest has occurred, and even now I have not much to relate worth mentioning. Business is dull; sugar prices keep firm, and will take a rise again; exchange does not show a tendency to decline, and some brokers expect to see that on France at 14 to 15 per cent. discount. The only matter of some interest consists in a certain buccaneering. Banks are starting like mushrooms from the ground. Since the last enterprise with the "Banco Espanol de la Habana" has proved how easy it is to organize financial institutions, and what an enormous amount of money our island contains, other speculators have thought of executing the same ideal. Although generality it is known how unlucky the Spanish bank managed, having an amount of five million dollars cash on hand, without seeking to circulate a single note, it happened that the second cashier refused to give the bank price for $40,000 in gold to a merchant with whom the bank had an account current, (a proof of the ability of the directors,) which has been sold at the enormous premium of 50 per cent, and one said at that time. Two new banks have now started, the Union and Louisiana, and the second one, "Caja Comercial de la Habana," of T. Campbell & Co., with a capital of a million. Neither it has been up were, and subscriptions being closed, stocks were in demand at 20 per cent. premium yesterday. There [illegible] Lecheria that is made, it is [illegible] of the specie in bank in hand, and to be still buying up shares, in order to control the [illegible] one day or another.

The Election of the Pennsylvania Senator.

The Harrisburg correspondent of the Philadelphia Evening Journal gives the following account of the incidents attending the election of Gen. Cameron to the United States Senate:

THE CONVENTION.

The scenes in the hall of the House, after the meeting of the joint convention, were of the most exciting character. When the Senators entered and took their seats in front of the Speaker's desk, the hall was filled to its utmost capacity. When the Speaker of the Senate ordered the vote to be called, the stillness of the grave prevailed; not a whisper was heard; not a movement of any kind was visible. Every one, no matter how uncomfortable his position, stood still. This silence continued until the Clerk, in calling the names in order, had gone through with the list of the Senators and down into the list of House members as far as the name of Lebo, of Schuylkill, a Democrat. When his name was called, he voted for "Simon Cameron." This created a profound sensation.—Dunlap filled the ranks of Col. Forney's friends—there was no telling who else might bolt. In the lobbies there was a decided disposition to cheer among Cameron's friends just as soon as he had been among Forney's friends, when Johns, of Fayette, a Foster man, had voted for Forney.

When the Clerk came to the name of Manear, of York, and he responded "Cameron," the sensation deepened. The feeling was still more profound when Wagenseller, of Schuylkill, went over. As the Democrats have but five majority on joint ballot, these three votes turned the scale, and gave Gen. Cameron a majority of one. So many kept entirely into that the result was known throughout the House ere it officially announced by the Speaker of the Senate, that Gen. Simon Cameron was duly elected United States Senator for the full office from the 4th of March, 1857, for six years. But when it was made, a tremendous cheer went up, such as I never heard in a legislative hall. It was evident that, although the town had been crowded with the friends and adherents of John W. Forney for several days, they were outnumbered by the outside friends of the "Winnebago Chief," as the people of this vicinity delight to call Cameron.

Senator Browne, of the county, desired to enter a protest against the election, but after a great deal of excitement and discussion, the convention adjourned without permitting the protest to be entered upon the record. It related to the want of compliance in part, of the Senate, with the statute of 1855, regulating the mode and fixing the time of electing a United States Senator. That law requires that the Senate shall appoint a teller on the day before the day fixed for going into joint convention. He raised the point, also, that it required a majority of each House to proceed, and according to the construction the Senate had by its action, placed upon the law of 1839.

The convention finally adjourned.

During the proceedings, sixty-seven guns were fired in honor of the election by the Republicans of this borough. I suppose now, however, that the sorrowful crowd of people who have been here will quietly depart. Our borough will appear as if she had undergone depletion to-morrow morning.

The Democrats are very bitterly against the three members of their party who voted for Gen. Cameron. They charge them with having sold out the Middletown Bank, or at least with its issues. Such charges are usual upon such occasions. These men were, however, re-nominated by the old Cass men of 1848 and 1852, and have time and again been struck down by the Buchanan influence. They declare that they now have had an opportunity of revenging themselves upon the leader in a matter virtually dear to him, and that they have done so by electing his friend, the old schoolmate and playfellow of Cameron, and has been attached to him all his life. I refer to Mr. Lebo.

Our Mobile cotemporaries complain bitterly of the cold snap of Sunday and Monday last. The Advertiser says:

At 10 o'clock Sunday night the thermometer marked 14 degrees, fully fifty below the temperature at the same hour the previous night—and Monday morning, at 6 o'clock, the mercury fell to 12 degrees. This is one degree colder than the coldest weather experienced last winter, which was generally pronounced the coldest winter Mobile has seen for twenty years. An old settler remarked yesterday that he had lived thirty-five years, and never before experienced such severe weather in Mobile; but meteorological labors show that it has once, at least, been colder. In the winter of 1852 the thermometer at one time marked as low as 8 degrees above zero, a figure we have no ambition to see rivaled in this latitude.

Leigh Hunt says: "Those who have lost an infant are never, as it were, without an infant child. They are the only persons who in one sense retain it always, and they furnish other persons with the same idea. The poet, who gives life to a mortal, makes a womanhood, and suffer all the changes of mortality. This one alone is rendered an immortal child."

City Intelligence.

FIRST DISTRICT COURT.—The trial of George Thomas, charged with the murder of Michael Anderson, in the Pittsburg coffee house, at the foot of North Market street, on the evening of the 3d November, 1855, occupied this court all day yesterday. It was shown that Thomas and two of his friends got into a political quarrel with Anderson and others in the coffee-house; that Anderson beat Thomas, who, in his defence, drew a dagger and gave him a fatal stab. The jury, after an absence of ten minutes, returned with a verdict of acquittal. The prisoner was defended by Col. Field and S. L. Shack, Esq.

CORONER'S INQUESTS.—The Twelfth District Murder.—The inquest into the death of Patrick Gaggerty, adjourned to have some witnesses from the Lunatic Asylum examined, was finished last evening, but no verdict was rendered, owing to one of the jurors not being satisfied of Haggerty's guilt, because the only witness who swore that he did see the blade of the knife at the time it was used, and because there happened to be another man in the room at the time. The same witness, however, swore that a little son of the deceased, saw Haggerty make motions as if stabbing, and soon after saw his father's bowels hanging out; and this, with the dying declaration of the deceased, left no doubt upon the minds of the other jurors of Haggerty's guilt. The inquest will be continued, in order to give the extra-conscientious juror an opportunity of having the said third man examined and confronted.

Fatal Accident.—An inquest was held yesterday on the body of A. Wilson, a free colored man, native of New York, who fell from the staging of the ship Westminster, whilst carrying a sack of wheat on board, and broke his neck. Verdict according.—The deceased was 42 years of age, and belonged to the ship.

Sudden Death.—An inquest was held on the body of a slave woman, named Charlotte, found dead in a cabin in Common street, near Charity Hospital. Verdict, accidental death. Her clothes had caught from the fire-place, on Sunday last, whilst she was alone in the house. Her arms attracted the neighbors, who broke in and found her all in a blaze. She belonged to Mr. Shaughnessy, and was 42 years of age.

PRIZE FIGHT.—Pat Holton, Barney McKinney, Bob Forbes, W. Canton, and Pat Kelly were yesterday fined $2 50 each by Recorder Simonson, for belonging to a prize fight, in the rear of the Third District, on Tuesday; the first two being principals, and the others bottle-holders and time keeper. There would have been more heard of it, had not Kelly told it to Lieutenant Leggett confidentially as a thing too good to be lost. Lieutenant Leggett at once arrested the parties to the fight, and finding that his informant had acted as time-keeper, arrestedhim. A good joke, all round, of which the city is twelve dollars and a half better off.

STABBING AFFAIR.—A man named Michael Farrell was taken to the Charity Hospital on Tuesday night, from Robert Shoverly's house on New Levee street, where he was badly stabbed, in different parts of his body, by a man with whom he had a fight. Shoverly's family were alarmed at the noise he cut him, and yesterday Recorder Stith sent him to prison to await his result.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.—Recorder Stith yesterday sent Henry Schonard to prison for the First District Court for stealing about $60 worth of paints, glass, etc., from Richard Briand's shop, on Apollo street, on the 3d inst. He was sent to prison, not being able to give bail.

J. J. Williams was fined $10 for raising a drunken row in Spalding & Rogers's Amphitheatre on Tuesday night; and, as a dirk knife was found upon him, he was sent before the First District Court.

Francis Conio was sent before the same court, also for carrying a dirk knife.

Recorder Solomon sent George Parks and R. Meyers before the First District Court for assault and battery and highway robbery. It was shown, on examination, that they followed a sailor named Boyle, into Williams from the Louisiana Ball on the night of the 5th instant, waylaid him on the levee, kicked and beat brutally, and ripped his pocket-book from his coat. They were subsequently arrested by officer Roth, who witnessed Williams's chase of them to the door. The accused were of course sent to prison, to take their assaulted fellow-man, but was not on duty at the time of the robbery.

F. G. Gerstenberg and Mrs. Morrison were sent before the Criminal Court, for the whipping Mrs. Kross, and she for whipping Mr. Kross, at the same time, in the street leading to the corner of Gravier-street and Union-street, on the 17th inst.

FIRE.—A fire broke out yesterday morning in the residence of Mr. Burns, at the corner of Camp and St. Andrew streets. Fortunately it was extinguished before material damage was done.

HOUSE RENTS SHINGLES.—The Commissaries of the Vegetable and Trash markets yesterday morning seized at least then 1000 loaves of fashy bread, some being under weight and some not stamped, as the ordinance requires. It fried two thousand cakes, and went on to the workhouse.

In the Third District, 600 loaves were seized by the inspecting officer, Recorder Solomon had the bread sent to the St. Mary's Orphan Asylum.

DISCHARGED.—Wm. Granger and Joseph Frank, charged with larceny, were yesterday discharged by Recorder Fabre.

Christopher Kelly, charged with stealing clothing and money from E. D. Kennedy's room, on Fayette street, was discharged by Recorder Stith, as Kennedy failed to appear.

INSANE.—A free colored boy, named John Madison, was sent to the Insane Asylum yesterday, by Recorder Solomon. It was done at the instance of the boy's father.

FINED.—N. J. Hackney was yesterday fined $15 by Recorder Stith, for giving utterance to horrible language, in a horribly loud voice, on St. Charles street, on Tuesday night. James McBrian was fined $10 for abusing his wife and scandalizing his neighbors on Market street. F. P. Maller was fined $10, and Jane Johnson $5, for jointly raising a row on Julia street.

FENTRY.—Joseph Perez yesterday surrendered himself to Recorder Solomon, knowing that he was under order of arrest on a charge of perjury. Mrs. Rich, of Frenchmen street, accuses him of perjury, in having sworn before the Recorder that she kept a brothel. He gave bail to appear for examination.

ACCIDENT.—Policeman J. Gallbardy, in taking a drey to one of the pounds on Tuesday night, was badly hurt by falling from the drey, and one of the wheels passing over him. It was lobby he was not killed.

Messrs. Editors of the Bee:

GENTLEMEN—Allow me the use of your esteemed and valuable journal to thank the members of the PORTUGUESE BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION, and particularly their worthy President, Mr. Jose Davis, and Messrs. Louis Balzer, Frederic Dippel, George G. Roger, Francis Pessoner and John Wanner, for the very faltering present (a splendid) in the form of MEDAL, offered me, on the evening of the 20th inst., as a mark of respect for services rendered to the Association at the time I had the honor to preside over it, and to assure these gentlemen, and all the members of said Association, that I feel deeply grateful for this mark of esteem on their part, and will always endeavor to deserve it, whatever situation I may happen to fill in their Honorable Association; and that I have received thely estimable token rather as a reward for intentions that I had to promote the welfare of the Association than for any good that my humble capacity may have enabled me to perform, as I which their kindness has, perhaps, exaggerated.

Your most obedient servant,

ANTONIO VIEIRA, Ex President.

Faded Flowers.
It causes sad reflections to take up a bouquet, once shining in the sunlight, and gaze upon its withered leaves and faded colors. But how many faded flowers do we see in the great bouquet of humanity, morning, noon, and night, daily! Life has fled with almost the lightning's speed, and whose forms are sinking with premature decay. What a pity it is that all this might have been prevented! Twenty years ago, upon the vital parts, a simple preparation would restore them to health, to joy and to beauty. Such a preparation, for instance, as "Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which drives away despondency, strengthens the body and renovates the whole nervous system. It is recommended by physicians, and commended by all who have used it, sold by all druggists, grocers, and dealers everywhere.
