LA ABEJA.

NUEVA ORLEANS, 12 DE NOVIEMBRE.

COMUNICADO.

Nueva Orleans 10 de Noviembre.

El contenido de la carta de Madrid de 3 de setiembre (publicada en la Abeja de hoy) escrita al despota Fernando 7º por su amigo el lord Welington, uno de los primeros sostenes de los gobiernos absolutos, y por consiguiente enemigo declarado de la libertad y felicidad de los pueblos, nada ha sorprendido á los que conocemos la política maquiabélica del gabinete ingles.

El gobierno megicano está prevenido para no dejarse alucinar ni engañar con las falsas promesas del gobierno mas atroz que se ha visto, desde que ecsisten naciones civilisadas. Como los hechos son tan públicos, no me detengo en referirlos; pero sí en prevenir á todos los que aman la libertad, de vigilar siempre los movimientos de dicho gobierno, por que no ecsiste mas que para suscitar quejas entre las demas naciones; único modo que tiene de conservarse.

Welington manifiesta al tirano de Fernando, el sentimiento que ha tenido al saber que se habia efectuado la espedicion al mando del brigadier Barradas, por que no la creia suficiente para conseguir el objeto que llevava, que podria comprometer el ecsito de otra, y las personas que estaban de acuerdo con la metrópoli.

S. E. debe tranquilizarse sobre estos temores, por que el gobierno megicano sabe como ha de conducirse para no dejarse sorprender por el gabinete que solo aspira á la destruccion de las demas naciones, para conservar siempre ese dominio tan perjudicial á la libertad, al comercio, á la industria &c. &c. de los demas pueblos.

¡Cuando los soberanos de la Europa abriràn los ojos, y acabarán de convencerse, que el único enemigo que tienen y que se opone á la felicidad de sus respectivas naciones, es la Inglaterra! Este dia será el en que empesaràn á cesar tantos males como gravitan sobre la humanidad.

¡Megicanos! siempre he sido, soy y seré amante del orden, y de buena armonia que debe haber con las naciones que han reconocido la independencia y han hecho tratados de comercio con nuestro gobierno; pero al mismo tiempo es preciso que vigilemos mucho sobre los planes é intrigas que se traman, apoyados por los enemigos de nuestra libertad è independencia, (que ya los conoceis) que quieren imponernos otra vez el yugo tiránico y sanguinario del Neron Fernando 7º Tengamos union y sumision al gobierno que nos rige, y estemos dispuestos á sostener nuestra libertad: sacrificando nuestros intereses y vidas, para no dejarnos dominar jamas de ninguna nacion del mundo.

Tenemos unas cámaras, un presidente y un ministerio, (cuyo patriotismo está bien conocido) que adoptarán todas las medidas y providencias oportunas, para rechazar á cualquiera que intente invadir el territorio del Anahuac, como lo hemos hecho ultimamente con la espedicion española, al mando del ineptó brigadier Barradas.

Un Megicano.

MADRID 31 DE AGOSTO.

(Correspondencia particular.)

Los protectores del general Barradas acaban de recibir muchas cajas de ecselente tabaco Habano, que su protegido les habia remitido antes de su salida de la isla, á la reconquista de Mègico: nuestro gobierno cuenta ciegamente, y como cosa hecha, con la cooperacion de los tres generales megicanos(a) Santa-Anna, Garza y Amijo; este Garza es el mismo que aprendió y fusilo á Iturbide, y Amijo es un hombre de color.

Nuestros Apostólicos se lisongean de la influencia de estos generales en el pais, y la poca aleccion que tienen á Guerrero, someterá la mayor parte de las tropas megicanas á las banderas españolas; sin embargo lo que hay de cierto es, que tenemos á la vista muchas cartas de la Habana, escritas por personas respetables, y que estan perfectamente instruidos en los negocios de Nueva-España, y todos dicen unánimemente, que hay poco que confiar en la cooperacion de dichos generales, y que al cantrariopes de temerse que sus inteligencias con los agentes españoles, tengan por objeto alguna astucia, con la que quieran atraer la espedicion sobre el suelo megicano, para esterminarla completamente, y con tanta mas facilidad, cuanta que por sus consejos ha sido poco numerosa.

(a) Tal es el imperio de las pacionesq que ofuscando los sentidos, nos hace ver como realidades, ridículas y quimèricas ficciones.

VIVA LA GRAN MEJICO.

Veracruz. 25 de Septiembre.

Al fin ha triunfado el Pabellon Mejicano; y el estandarte y banderas de la Orgulloza espedicion llamada Egercito Real de Vanguardia se han dirigido en este dia á la Capital de la Federacion como parte de los trofeos militares recojidos en el campo de Tamaulipas.

Capituló el Ejercito Español, 6 por mejor decir firmó unos tratados que le cubriràn de oprobio y de ignominia. La historia mal cura en sus faustos un suceso tan grandioso proclamando á la faz del mundo el valor inmarcecible de los que pelean á pecho descubierto por su independencia y libertad, y las Naciones del orbe para quienes poco ha era nuestra República en este insignificante y tal vez despreciable, nos mirarán con el decoro y respeto justamente adquirido en el campo de la Gloria.

Los adjuntos impresos los impondràn de las circunstancias ocurridas de la Campaña que finalizó, y mi corazon al remitirlos no puede ocultar las afecciones que me causan los felices resultados que produjo el ejercito reconquistador del mundo.

Hemos tenido el gusto de abrazar á nuestro Santa Anna siempre tan generoso tan generoso y tan valiente.

THE [illegible]BER.

PRINTED BY F. DELAUP.

NEW-ORLEANS:

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1829.

From the London Times.—It is customary for a retired minister to demand from the king the entrée to his cabinet, and his demand is never refused. Conformably to this custom, M. Vatismenil, late minister of public instruction, solicited an audience. The King, on seeing him approach, addressed him in these terms—"Ah! are you here, monsieur? You ought to be satisfied: the liberal journals load you with praises. Sire, I cannot prevent them from speaking of me as they think proper. I am not indifferent to the expression of public opinion, but I assure your Majesty that I am quite a stranger to what the journals say of me. You have not done what you led us to hope from you, and your conduct as a minister has belied your previous behaviour. You have deceived our confidence. However I ought to tell you that you never possessed mine. To complete you nothing is wanting but that you should be elected by liberals." Sire, I hope the occasion may yet present itself of giving you proofs of my devotion; and I flatter myself I shall convince you that I have not been unworthy of your confidence. I came, Sire, to request the entrée to your cabinet, but after the opinion your majesty entertains of me, it is an honour which I must no longer permit myself to solicit.—And why not, Sir? You could come: this is a place where every body comes. But no, upon consideration, do not return till you shall be cleansed from the praises which you have received from the liberal journals." Thereupon the ex-minister departed. Figaro.

Extract from the N. Y. American.

The news of the arrival of Gen. Roth at Rodosto, on the sea of Marmora, is also brought from Odessa in an article of the 30th of August. According to the same authority, the commander in chief is to proceed by way of Araba-Bergas, on his march to Constantinople, keeping up a communication with Roth. The Russian fleet is also represented to have gained advantages of equal importance with those obtained by the army. Admiral Greigh has taken Iniadi, situated on the Black Sea, whence there is a tolerable road to Constantinople. It is said that Vice Admiral Ricord, now stationed before Tenedos, has received orders to support the operations of the army, and that as soon as he shall have received notice of the arrival of Roth to Rodosto, he will make an attempt to force the passage of the Dardanelles. This will be so much the easier, it is added, as the Turkish fleet is shut up in the port of Bujukdere. The same authority mentions that negociations are about to be opened, from which a happy result is expected, as the Porte has scarce any remaining means of resistance in Europe and Gen. Paskewistch is taking one after another its Asiatic Provinces.—However, it is said the Sultan is making great efforts to terminate the war without disgrace, using every exertion to excite the people against the Russians, while on the other hand, he is attempting to obtain an armistice from Gen. Diebitsch.

A Russian Manifesto has been issued in which, after mentioning the brilliant successes which have crowned the Russian arms, the obstinacy of the Turks in rejecting the conditions of peace offered them, and the consequent necessity of keeping the ranks of the army full, it directs that there shall be raised throughout all the Empire, with the exception of Georgia and Bessarabia, three recruits upon every 500 souls.

The Prince Milisch is making a circuit of inspection throughout all Servia. It is said that General Geismar has received a reinforcement of troops and is about to resume offensive operations on the right bank of the Danube.

The Journal du Commerce speaks of a report which had obtained circulation, and to which credit had been given by many friends of the French ministry themselves, that Messrs. La Bourdonnaye, Bourmont and Montbel would go out of the ministry, and that their places would be supplied by M. de Bellevme as Minister of Interior, the Duke d'Escars as Minister of War, and M. de Vatismenil as Minister of Public Instruction. M. de Courvoisier and M. l'Hussez will also give place, the former to M. Guernon de Raville or M. de Chantelauze, and the latter to M. de Rigny.

The Geneva Gazette suggests the propriety of establishing associations for the purpose of discountenancing the smoking and chewing of tobacco.

It is ascertained by an accurate estimate, that the pressure of the wind upon thirteen sails, when set, comprising the suit of the North Carolina 74, is equal to the weight of 20,785 pounds avoirdupois, nearly 10 1-2 tons. The number of square yards of canvass upon which this pressure operates is 26,022.

According to the latest advices received in London from Sierra Leone, that ill-fated colony was still in a most deplorable condition. The hopes of relief which were entertained a short time since have proved fallacious. The epidemic had not spent its fury at the time supposed; it was only quiescent for a moment, for it speedily returned with, if possible, increased malignity. Out of the few Europeans who were inhabitants of the place, twenty-three or twenty-four had been swept away; and in a place of the town in which the houses that had felt its baneful influence were marked with a black spot, that sign of woe and misery was lamentably frequent. Even the governor, with his staff, has left his residence in the town and sought a place of refuge in the barracks.—N. Y. Gaz.

The following curious paragraph, translated from a file of Bremen papers, by a gentleman in a commercial house of Baltimore, is communicated for the Patriot of that city.

"The Leeds Intelligencer of late date makes mention of an Egyptian Mummy, which was presented to the Philosophical Society in that city, by the late John Blade, Esq. and which has recently undergone a complete examination by that body. On unfolding the bandages in which the body was wrapped, there was discovered a copper plate with hieroglyphics engraved thereon, the interpretation of which made known the business and character of the deceased, and the time and place at which the body was embalmed. The time proved to be during the reign of Manasses the 5th, called by the Greeks Menophis of the dynasty of Manitch, and father of the renowned Sesostris. Manasses was the 15th of the Egyptian Kings, and ascended to the throne 1493 years before the birth of Christ; the body, therefore, lived contemporaneously with Moses: The engraving states also, that the deceased was an incense bearer, and secretary of the relics of the God Mandon at Thebes: which situation he occupied about 3000 years ago.

From the Norristown Register.

Parricide.—We have, this week, the melancholy duty to record the death of the venerable maj. gen. William Brooke of Radnor Township, Dalaware country, inflicted upon him by the hands of his son, Thomas Brooke. We have not learned all the particulars, and as he is under arrest, to be dealt with as a jury of his country may think proper, it would be unjust to remark further upon the subject. Gen. Brooke was a soldier of the revolution, and a firm friend to his country, in the hour of danger. He was a brave and a good man, and of high sterling worth and usefulness to society, the large circle of friends and acquaintances he has left on society.—After surviving the privations and hardships of the war of independence, and living to see his country prosperous and happy, he has fallen at the age of 83 years a victim to the brutal passions of him, who should have been the staff and support of his declining years.
