THE DAILY BEE.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 12.

THE CAUSE AND THE REMEDY.

Now that the elections are over, the papers begin to inquire into the causes of the almost unbroken success of the Black Republicans in the North. The Democratic journals are sadly nonplussed. They seem indisposed to take a comprehensive and philosophic view of the event, and confine themselves to vague and general charges of treachery and dishonesty. In other words, the Administration press regards every man as a traitor who, while terming himself a Democrat, refused to support the regular party ticket. So that the men who voted for Haskins and Clarke in New York, and for Wharton in Pennsylvania, were recreant to their political faith, although in the districts in which these candidates were elected the Democratic State ticket received large majorities. The Black Republican papers exhibit in their way an almost equal narrowness of intelligence. They are full of exults in and triumph, and regard their success as an important proof of the progress of anti-slavery sentiment. Independent prints, we, have attributed by strong partisan prejudices, to appear to approximate the truth in their discussions on the subject. Thus the New York Sun has an article on the issue, which for the election, which contains a sound and correct inductions. We subjoin a passage or two:

The recent election in this city, and in this state, demonstrates the natural tendency of the popular heart to condemn dishonesty, fraud and intrigues, and it teaches politicians, as it ought to, that they would do well to heed. The success of the Republican party in New York State, on Tuesday last, is not so much the result of party organization as the consequence of the mistakes or misconduct of the Democratic National Administration. The Republican leaders are not loved nor confided in by a majority of the people of this State, and, had the Administration exhibited since the inauguration an honest, consistent, straightforward determination to respect and uphold popular rights, the vote on Tuesday would have been very different. Thousands voted not to endorse the Republicans as a party, but to condemn the Kansas policy of the Administration.

The Democrats who, from a feeling of loyalty to the old party organization, or from self-interest, have adhered to the Administration, fought a hopeless battle in this State on Tuesday. The weakness of their cause was the principal chief strength. How vehement party Democrats, not easily driven into revolution, feel, was shown by the vote cast for Horace F. Clarke, in the upper Washington ward, with full expectation of Democratic defeat. It was the Independent Democrats who secured Mr Clarke's election, and rolled up his majority nearly 3000 over the Administration candidate, in a district which, at the same time, gave Mr. Parker, for governor, a handsome majority.

There can be no doubt whatever that the course of the President on the Kansas question lost him the confidence of the North. Large numbers of Democrats voted against the Administration, not merely because it had failed to place slavery in Kansas as a slave State, for this would probably have been forgiven, but that failing in accomplishing that object, it proclaimed a fixed and immutable purpose to crush and ruin those of its former adherents who had dared to differ from its action. The attempt of the federal government to organize a reign of terror, which should destroy all independence to defend and obscurity, and elevate blind party servitude to the high offices of the republic, contributed far more to the late political disasters than any intrinsic augmentation of the power and prestige of Black Republicanism. Unfortunately, however, the mischief thus effected is almost irreparable. The Black Republicans are the beneficiaries of the administration and representative feud. The force and misguided policy of the President has enabled them to achieve important victories, increased their authority and arrogance, and filled with humiliation and misgivings every national man and friend to the Union and its laws. The ultimate consequence the evil is not as great as of antislavery had carried the North by the absolute growth and extension of its doctrines.

It is easy matter to win back those who have deserted the Democracy. Experience proves that politicians who once wander from the straight path of party fealty are little apt to return. Still, there is hope, because the principles and doctrines of doctrine separate them from the mass of the party. With a sound fate which is true to Democracy, while upholding individual responsibility and liberty, it has always that he cannot be terrified into subservience to despotism, and yet which is tender and true to the ranks of the party. It has always attained its exalted reputation for breadth, longevity, vigor of purpose, uniform talent, resolution, and invincibility, when popularity has stood the severest tests, and has aspired unwounded with the storm. In short, as STERNS A. DOUGLAS the National Democrat at the country expect to see the reorganization of break up and the underlying principles of Black Republicanism. The Democracy proper would quickly assume form, the anti-Lecompton Democrats would abandon their anomalous association, and rush eagerly to his support, with their reservations and patriots every where. Such a consummation has cause to be desired. It would be a blessing to the country. Hence we maintain that Douglas is the only man in the land who can reserve the Union from the danger of a purely sectional administration. It may be mistaken, which the Democrat would rather into be deserted. To place the question in a simple form we may say: The Democrats have only taken by the defection of the anti-Lecompton members of the party; Douglas, by ranging himself anti-Lecompton, will bring them back to Democracy; ergo, Douglas is the man for the place.

THE ORLEANS RACE COURSE.—There was a special meeting held last evening of the Board of Directors of the Orleans Race Course Company. The meeting, as we were informed, was a private one, and we are consequently unable to lay any report of the proceedings before our readers. A correspondence between Mr. Lever and Mr. Hamilton, secretary of the Treasury, on the subject of a subsidy for the Galway line, and the renewal of Messrs. Cunards' contract, is published. The latter says the extension of the Cunard contract was assented to in March last, before the Galway undertaking was mooted, but that there is nothing in it to interfere with the arrangements for the postal service via Galway. In his letter to the press, announcing the gratifying fact, Mr. Seward, secretary of the company, says: "This, however, though encouraging, must not be regarded as a permanent state of things, as it is clear there is a serious fault in the cable, while at the same time it is not at present absolutely clear that any except the most extraordinary (and to the cable, dangerous) efforts in the weather, more especially on this side, to overcome the existing obstacles in the way of perfect working. It is said that the company will probably send out one of Henley's new and powerful electric machines to Newfoundland. The shares rallied to £300 to £400, with sales at £305.

The London Times continued to attack Commissioner Reed for his part in the Chinese negotiations, characterizing him as the catspaw of Russia. The Times eulogizes the diplomacy of the Russian Minister, and says the treaty he obtained deserves to be ranked among the highest order of diplomatic papers.

Queen Victoria and the Court had arrived at Windsor from Balmoral.

It has been finally agreed, with the consent of four fifths of the stockholders of the Great Eastern, that the company should be dissolved, and that the cost of building and launching the ship, 800,000 pounds, should be drawn, the list of prizes, the price of tickets, &c., contrary to the statutes. Mr. Lassalle has commenced his proceedings to obtain back for his future appearance to answer.

APPALLING RESULT OF SONNAMBULISM.—A Father Murders his Child and Attempts to Arm—Both are Drowned.—One of the most awful results of sleep-walking of which we have heard for a long time happened last night in the Upper Ferry Landing during the night preceding yesterday. Friday evening a farmer named John Bryan, of Indiana, who was returning to some point in the Mississippi River with his wife, father-in-law and four children, came in on the Ohio and Mississippi railroad. Being in great haste to reach the Eastern Cities, he had obtained permission to stop for the night in a small room on the ferry dock, at the foot of the Carr street, between twelve and one o'clock in the night Bray arose, in his sleep, and taking his youngest child, aged three years, in his arms, actually walked from the room and into the water. The piteous wailing cries of the child, and the loud calls of the father for help, soon drew a number of persons to the melancholy scene from a point close on the levee. The frantic grief of the father for his child, and the incoherence and wildness of the manner, was described to be of the most heart-rending description. Before it generally could resolve on any means of rescuing the child from the water, it had sunk, to be seen no more alive. We have rarely been called on to witness a more appalling casualty.—St. Louis Intelligencer, 5th.
