THE BEE.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED DAILY BY J. BAYON.

NEW-ORLEANS,
SATURDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 4, 1832.

The first daily mail came in yesterday at four o'clock in the afternoon. We have New York dates of the 19th, Baltimore of the 21st, and Charleston of the 26th ultimo. They mention the European arrivals later than the Charles Carroll and Columbia. The domestic news is unusually dull. So much the better. [illegible] nations, en un signe de tranquillité"—silence among a powerful [illegible] the greatest of [illegible]. They saith SAY [illegible] and [illegible] men.

[illegible] bill [illegible] the House of [illegible] taken up in the [illegible] read a second time, by unanimous consent, and referred to the [illegible] committee.

[illegible] for the relief of Frenchmen [illegible]gny, of the city of New Orleans. The following bills were read [illegible] and passed:

[illegible] confirming the claim of Maria Holliday to [illegible] land in the State of Louisiana.

[illegible] relief of J. W. Zacharie, of the city of N[illegible].

LAST [illegible] DISPATCHES.—The first volume of Walter Scott's works, edited under the personal superintendence of the author, has been received by Messrs. Bloomfield & Co. and is now for sale at their book stores in Chartres and Camp-streets.

LOUISIANA STATE BANK.

The Governor of Louisiana has appointed as Directors on the part of the State,

[illegible]	D. F. Burthe,
[illegible]	H. Landreaux Jr.
[illegible]	E. L. Bernard.

And the following ticket will be strongly supported as Directors on behalf of the Stockholders:

[illegible] Pariser,	[illegible] Reynes,
A. Chaumonnet,	C. A. Forstall.
[illegible] B. Lafontaine,	T. [illegible]
[illegible] Chabaud,	[illegible]
[illegible] G. Chaves,	[illegible]
[illegible] Lagupré,	[illegible] Gaillard.

COMMUNICATED.

Mr. Editor—In my communication of the 27th ult. my only object was to [illegible] the keepers of boarding houses [illegible] against the vile abuse contained in the publication in the Louisiana Advertiser of the 26th, over the signature of "A Friend to the Sailors;" but it appears to have made the "Real friend of Sailors, wince—and he has [illegible] over a specious one of "A Seaman, [illegible] to Truth." It is true, that the latter may justly claim precedence of the former [illegible] to [illegible] scurility; but the disguise [illegible] plete [illegible] genuine spirit is discovered in both; and I have no doubt that [illegible] know attached to the authorship of both productions, is due to one person. I have too good an opinion of mankind in general to suppose that there is more than one in New-Orleans so lost to every sense of moral obligation.

Neither of the pieces referred to, would receive any notice, were it not for the almost gratuitous act of using the signatures of "A Friend to a Sailor," and "Friend to Truth"—with a view to injure a class of men, who can prove, if necessary, that they have been the most efficient friends to seamen, and who have voluntarily contributed more to their relief and real benefit than any other class of society. [illegible] himself, the acknowledged father of lies, is [illegible] as having sometimes succeeded in doing [illegible] by actually assuming the semblance of [illegible] and truth; and it is quite possible that this humble servant of his Satanic majesty—this self-constituted censor—this calumniator of females as well as men—this "friend of truth," may [illegible] on producing similar effects, by a resort to the same means—but he is deceiving himself—there is too much virtue and good sense in this community, for any individual or particular class, to suffer by any thing which may be written against them, by wanton, who dares not even attend to own his proper name. I have not now time to add more, than that the substance of both the pieces alluded to, is totally false—but shall soon appear again as [illegible] in Persia [illegible] advices from P[illegible] which mention the commencement of the civil war in this country, to which we have before adverted. Abbas Mirza had laid siege to [illegible], having previously made prisoner of his father, Hassan Ulie Mirza, late Sovereign of Persian, and all his sons, except one, who succeeded in reaching Shiraz. The state of Persia is said to be in a most dreadful state.

Intelligence has been received from Spain, of the severities [illegible] Ferdinand. His attacks were [illegible] represented to be dangerous. The [illegible] begin to be alarmed and think of the [illegible]; for it has been remarked that at the death of St. Charles, the fate of the infanta Don Carlos, it had an influence quite unusual. It is already thought he will either be King or Regent.

Another Crossing the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, through France.—The French ministry have constituted a committee to [illegible] a project of law relative to the operation of establishing a canal to join the Ocean and the Mediterranean, by continuing the Canal Royal de Micy from Toulouse to Bayonne.

IRELAND, Dec.

A most desperate riot took place in Ar[illegible] near Galt on Sunday night last. [illegible] two hundred persons were concerned. The police were called upon to quell a fight that commenced in a new public-house, when the Sergeant and his party were dreadfully beaten. They were overpowered, and compelled to call for the military. Lieut. Jackson, [illegible] a detachment of the [illegible] very soon [illegible] their assistance. [illegible] took place. [illegible] soldiers rushed [illegible] the house [illegible] men, when the lights were instantly [illegible] and a struggle ensued in the dark. [illegible] alarming and dangerous character. The lieutenant and Serjeant were severely cut, but they beat the rioters; and at the point of the bayonet captured fifteen of them, who were [illegible] into Gort with [illegible] firelocks. One of the policemen's [illegible] nearly bit [illegible] nose. [illegible] report is current, that [illegible] the murder [illegible] of the 5th regiment, in the vicinity [illegible].—Limerick Chronicle.

By the ship Franklin, arrived from St. Petersburg at New York, we learn that on the evening of the 19th November, the Line of Battle Ship Port Champenoise, rear admiral Lhote, Capt. Bartenhriet, having just returned from a 3 years cruise in the Mediterranean, and on the point of hauling into the Mole, took fire and burnt to the water's edge; 225 souls perishing in the conflagration. The fire was said to have originated from a lantern being imprudently left open while sweeping out the magazine.

Advices from Venezuela, received at Philadelphia, go to contradict the report of the assassination of Gen. Bermudez, noticed a few or three days ago.

Copy of a circular letter addressed by the supreme Government to the heads of the different districts in the Republic of Venezuela, dated Caracas, Nov. 12, 1831.

To the Governor of, &c.

The 15th article of our constitutional law has opened the ports of Venezuela to the designers of every nation. The same laws that protect our own native born citizens, are now extended to them, and shall henceforth insure protection to their persons and property. It becomes a duty incumbent on Government, to enact the fulfilment of this constitutional decree, by every means within its reach; and, therefore, by the present circular, its agents are enjoined the strictest observance of its tenor, through the conviction that no measure can be more honorable or beneficial to the nation at large.

The present depopulated state of the country is a fatal obstacle to the proper development of its many resources, and powerful elements of prosperity. One of the first necessities of Venezuela is a speedy increase of population, the promotion of commerce and agriculture will be the natural consequence; and if this desired end be accomplished, the town is not distant, we may boast our prosperity, and may also boast of its rapid strides and extraordinary progress.

Many foreigners have co-operated with us in the work of Independence, and much foreign capital has been invested at our disposal. Time is, that we should manifest to them our sentiments of hospitality and fraternity; sentiments which, at the same time that they charm, illustrate the spirit of our laws, form also the basis of our national character.

With the present communication, the express orders of Government are, that you to operate, by every means in your power, in the accomplishment of the proposed object, which, besides being a duty prescribed by our constitution, by treaties with several states, and by the rights of Nations, is one also of deep interest to our national honor.

I remain, &c.
(Signed) NARVARTE.

CARACAS, Nov. 12, 1831.

Mr. Allen, supercargo of the William at Salem, from Rio Janeiro, informs that a report was current at Rio, about 25th Nov. received from Bahia, that the barque Leopard was lost about 1st Nov. off the river Jean Francisco, N. of Bahia. The wreck of the L. was occasioned by a mistaken position of her true longitude. The day previous to her wreck she spoke brig Nicolai, [illegible] New-York, Liss captain, of which was also mistaken with regard to his longitude. The wreck of a brig has been seen in the vicinity of the harbourhead. The crew of the L. was saved. Barque Leopard, Potter, sailed from Buenos Ayres, September 24, for Boston, with 200,000 ship hides, 5000 ox hoofs, 16,076 horns, 1149 dry hides, 190 salted do, 46 bales cut hides, 35 do wool, 20 do sheep skins, 15 do horse hair.)

Below, we present a copy of the reply of Lafayette to the letter from the corps of Cadets accompanying their contributions to the Polish fund. It is all that proceeds from the pen of this great and good man, wonderfully appropriate. It will perhaps be generally known, that in the [illegible] Americans, "the American Veteran" always [illegible] their language; so that the following letter is just as he wrote it:—N. Y. Gazette.

Copy of a letter from General Lafayette to the Corps of Cadets, dated

PARIS, Nov. 6th, 1831.

My Dear Young Friends:

While every opportunity charges my heart with new testimonies of what you are pleased to call filial affection, it is on my part with patriotic pride and paternal love that I have received your donation in behalf of heroic and now unhappy Poland.

Sad news from that illustrious part of Europe will have reached you not long after your sympathetic letter was on its way to us. But it is now more than ever, that the vanquished, although not sublime Poles, are in need of friendly assistance; the land of their [illegible] rather perish as a foreign land, than acknowledge their resistance as guilt, and submit to the yoke of a Russian depot. In the interim, not even during the struggle could it be so well employed, the contributions of the friends of true glory; that which is founded on the basis of independence and freedom.

An American Committee has, at my request, been formed in Paris, to assist in the discharge of the duty conferred upon them by the donors in the United States. We keep up an understanding with the National Polish Committee, that has lately been formed in this city, and with the French Committee, in order that the distribution be as judicious as possible.

It is from the monument which your predecessors had raised to Kosciusko on your classical ground of Westpoint, that the first succors to his countrymen have crossed the Atlantic; let us hope for the day when on that same monument the resurrection of Poland shall be celebrated.

Receive, my dear young friends the paternal affection and blessings of the American veteran,

LAFAYETTE.

APPLICATIONS have been made to me, relative to the introduction of slaves into the state of Texas; and at the same time the copy of a translation of the "laws to promote the colonization of the states of Coahuila and Texas," (printed by W. E. Woodruff, Little Rock, Arkansas Territory,) has been forwarded to me, in order to call my attention to the following note, added, I presume, by the printer, to article 46th: "By a supreme decree, dated September 29, 1829, slavery is abolished within the Mexican republic—but after due representations were made to president Guerrero, all the province of Texas has been excepted from the operation of the decree by the general congress."—Feeling that this note may have the effect of misleading persons who intend settling in the state of Texas, I consider it necessary to offer some explanation. The fact is, that, on occasion of the promulgation of the decree in question a representation was made to general Guerrero, by colonel Austin, and others belonging to his colony, stating that the business of the colony could not proceed without slaves—upon which a modification was made, exclusively in favor of this colony. Now this very statement shows, that the question is of slaves already in the country, and not of the introduction of others; and what further confirms this fact, and shows how clearly the provisions of this decree understood, is, that persons proceeding to Texas with slaves have found it necessary to introduce them under the form of indentured servants.—Nay more, even free persons of color cannot be admitted into the state, without coming particularly recommended; and even these are limited to two military posts, expressly selected, and at a distance from the frontier.
