IMPORTATION OF ANIMALS AND ANIMAL PRODUCTS

Animal Diseases Act

In terms of the Animal Diseases Act (Act No. 35 of 1984), and the Meat Safety Act (Act No. 40 of 2000), all South African citizens may import animals and/or animal-derived products, which are considered to be safe, into South Africa. Importation is subject to compliance with the relevant import requirements, as stipulated on the veterinary import permit.

What are animal products?

Animal products or animal-derived products are made of or contain animal material. Examples are milk, cheese, meat, biltong, skins, furs, game trophies, animal feed containing animal material, vaccines as well as medicines made from animal material and laboratory samples of animals.

Import requirements

Certain import requirements have to be met when you want to import animals and/or animal products into the country. These requirements are aimed at preventing the introduction of exotic (foreign) diseases into South Africa. This is done in order to protect the national animal (and human) population, as well as our export markets. For certain products other government authorities have their own import requirements which must be complied to, for example meat is also controlled by the Directorate Veterinary Services, which will evaluate the slaughtering procedures and abattoirs of the exporting country.

Rules for importation

• Each consignment of animal and/or animal products for importation into South Africa must be accompanied by:

- An original veterinary import permit, issued by the National Directorate Veterinary Services
- An original health certificate, duly completed in English and in accordance with the requirements of the import permit, and signed (in blue ink) by the competent veterinary authority of the exporting country.

Please note: faxes, photostat, carbon or other copies will not be acceptable.

• All conditions of the veterinary import permit must be complied with and it is the responsibility of the importer.
