Stories are written in relation to real life characteristics. From observance, and creative thoughts, ideas have been developed to a suitable plot conveying various emotions, moments, and scenarios.

The Wisher's Well

Four compassionate and aspirant teenagers, Yuna Lee, Joben Saito, Alec Burley and Amporn Srisai decide to travel for two weeks to four countries in Southeast Asia. They don't know which country they will travel to. Each of them makes a wish.

It's a gamble and they pick up a chit randomly, just like opening a fortune cookie. The fortune cookie may bring them to tinsel town or may tickle the spirits for a reality check. It's fascinating to know which country brings a new story and what each teenager discovers from traveling to that country.

Is taking a break before University a good Idea? Was their location right for them? Could they live the moment with ease or did the sensation of regret unveil a dark secret? Each country picked randomly is just like craving for a boon from a wish well, which may or may not be fulfilled. Dive into a thought and make a wish. Which destination you choose is a secret that promises you a miraculous experience.

Maples: Rejuvenating Cocktail

Ryan loves photography and would do anything to capture life on celluloid. Ever since he was a child he was waiting for certain answers from his uncle about his parents. After he broke up with his girlfriend, Melina, he was withdrawn and got entrapped in a web of uncertainty. His life, he thought, is a big question mark. In contrast, Ria, being an orphan feels terrible with the way her step-sister, Simmy treats her. The only liking she has in her life is dentistry. After attending a seminar in Singapore, she meets Shawn. They date with utmost passion, but face a bumpy ride ahead.

Days pass by and Genelia is counting hours when she would complete her double undergraduate programs to establish her dream project. She gets so involved that forgets that loving someone would not be too bad. She ignored the simple feelings of intimacy because of her failed relationships. Alternatively, working and making money make Miguel so ambitious that he was willing to travel all the way to India. He falls for the new, flawless internee, Alysia, and life starts to bare the reality of relationships. As time passes by, more complications arise and everything looks blurry.

With an unexpected network of unplanned rendezvous, the protagonists eventually meet at a party. The shock that ensues makes them wonder: what is going to happen? Will Ryan get over Melina and finds answers to his questions? How is Ria going to solve her problems with Shawn. Can Genelia trust her expertise to steer up her establishment to newer realms of business? What changes Miguel's mind from being a workaholic? Will a new love bug bite into the hearts of the characters of this story? Would love enhance their outlook towards subsistence?

Well, life is like a Cocktail! How each one of them fills up their glasses with tempting happiness is just a mystery. When the glass begins to be empty, they forget they need a refill - an alternative solution or a new compassion to reignite the magic of love.

The Wagging Tail of Bliss

The tail of sentiments wags differently for various people. The value for love can diminish and excess baggage can be experienced mentally and physically. The desire to let go of unwanted thoughts becomes the sole purpose. Happiness is experienced in installments when genuine compassion is being slaughtered with deceit.

Dian moved to Vietnam to expand her business as a wedding planner. Tiya Gupta is a Veterinarian and after working in Bali for about three years, she opened a clinic in Vietnam and India. Gisele Gilbert, a creative jewelry designer moved to Vietnam too, to expand her business empire. Something common about them was Vietnam and the hidden excess baggage they all felt absorbed in.

Career had taken its pleasant ride leaving a triumph in each one's life. However, love had taken a U-turn because of the appalling wagging tail of bliss which left unwanted memories. The new friendship between the ladies geared up a new getaway trip where each one promises to live life as it came and embrace the elements of zeal once again.
