THE AGENCY OF PORTO TO THE PORTUGUESE NATION. PROCLAMATION. "Portuguese!—It is time to avenge such vile crimes—such execrable crimes—so much perfidy and so many outrages...

Portuguese!—It is time to avenge such vile crimes—such execrable crimes—so much perfidy and so many outrages. In vain our magnanimous and legitimate King Pedro IV. rescued us from the slavery in which, for ages, we had been plunged...

King, and of his august daughter! Let us avenge these vile crimes—these execrable crimes—so much perfidy and so many outrages! But us defend our liberties, our rights, our religion, our property, and tyrannical power to wrest from us...

Long live Peter IV., our legitimate King! Long live Queen Mary II., our legitimate Queen! Long live the Constitutional Charter, legitimately given! Long live all the Sovereigns who maintain the legitimacy of Peter IV., of Queen Mary II., and of the Constitutional Charter!

Our legitimate King, at the solicitations of all the Governments, nations, because he did not know him, his Regent of Portugal and his Representative. He did not quit the Court of Vienna till after he had taken a most solemn oath to sustain the beneficent institutions which the great Monarchs had bestowed upon us...

"Scarcely did he reach Lisbon, when he translated his oaths and his promises under his feet. He surrounds himself with Ministers, as ignorant as they are fanatical—as wicked as they are hypocritical; he surrounds himself with the accomplices in his heinous rebellion of the 30th April, 1824, which had for its object no less than the dethronement of his own father, whom the Foreign Ministers saved; he dissolves the Cortes, he separates the Constitutional Officers and Regents of the various Military Corps, who had been faithful to their King, faithful to their legitimate Sovereign, and faithful to their country...

To arms, therefore, Portuguese! Let us put an end to many misfortunes! Let us sustain the right of our legitimate King, and of his august daughter! Let us avenge these vile crimes—these execrable crimes—so much perfidy and so many outrages! But us defend our liberties, our rights, our religion, our property, and tyrannical power to wrest from us...

Long live Peter IV., our legitimate King! Long live Queen Mary II., our legitimate Queen! Long live the Constitutional Charter, legitimately given! Long live all the Sovereigns who maintain the legitimacy of Peter IV., of Queen Mary II., and of the Constitutional Charter!
