FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

HENRY CLAY.

NEW-ORLEANS:
SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 8, 1843.

So president is it's inclination to be on the right side of the political fence, that we are ready to bet ten copies of our forth-coming dictionary of a writer cocks against as many conockins, that several hundreds of our ci-devant Whigs will become very pawable Democrats, by the time next year, although several months may yet elapse before we can venture to range them under either of the standards of the present aspirants for the Presidency.—Republican.

There is little doubt that the mass of both political parties in this country are honest in their views and purposes, and sincere believers in the efficacy of the principles which they uphold. It is equally certain, we fear, that there are attached to the outskirts of both the Whig and Democratic parties a set of political mercenaries willing at all times to range with the strongest side, and always disposed to enlist for the benefit of the bounty. These men are unerring indexes of the political barometer. They watch the signs of the times and regulate their opinions and conduct by the predominance of party. They clung to the 1st offices in the patronage of the locofoco administration during the Presidential terms of JACKSON and VAN BUREN, and were loudest in their clamorous advocacy of democratic principles. Yet when the great political revolution of 1840 was progressing, these disinterested patriots were the first to disown fealty to the rulers under whom they had waxed opulent. They discovered with miraculous sagacity, that whig principles were the true conservative doctrines, and amid the shouts that made the welkin ring during that memorable contest, no voices swelled more lustily, no chaunts of jubilee and triumph rang out more sonorously than theirs.

It is of such that are composed the recreants to whom the Republican alludes. They are governed by the fleeting portents of the hour. Lustily did they cheer for JACKSON and VAN BUREN; loudly did they crow for HARRISON and TYLER; and now that they think they perceive omens of locofoco triumph, they are cleaning their throats for fresh hurrahs for CALHOUN, or VAN BUREN as the case may be. We know not how our opponents may stand affected towards these multiform and protean politicians, but for ourselves we can truly aver, that we part with them without regret. As allies they are dangerous—because selfish, unprincipled and hypocritical—as adversaries they are harmless, because dishonesty and deceit can never acquire the confidence of either party. It is better, in our mind, to continue in a minority than to conquer by the aid of heartless and hollow partizans who are willing to desert their friends at the very first blast of misfortune.

The sneers of the Republican against this scurvy crew, though well merited, nevertheless seem to us out of place in that journal, for it is emphatically of these mere panders to power, these sycophantic adulators of eminence that the mass (if the term can be applied to the meagre followers of the President) of the TYLER party is composed. Strip President TYLER of the patronage of the Government, take away from him the loaves and fishes with which he inveigles the hungry nades of all parties to his support. Place him in private life, and leave him only the claims of individual merit and public services to win the popular favor withal, and how many would there be who would pay him even the homage of lip service. Were he as Mr. CLAY, Mr. CALHOUN or VAN BUREN, CASS or JOHNSON, with out official means of enticing the mercenary, or public office to allure the corrupt, his cause as a politician would be obliterated from the memory of men. It is because of both may follow fawning" that we hear of assemblages of men (mostly office-holders and office-seekers) passing resolutions in his favor. The rapid promotion to office of the TYLER guard, headed by CUSHING and WISE, has encouraged others to purchase preferment by a sacrifice of principle, and the men that have been fulminated against the subordinate officers, who dare think and speak as freemen, have buckled together around the standard of his Accidency the Hessians of both parties, anxious to fill vacancies as honest men are decapitated.

But the Republican has forgot one thing in its calculation. The mercenary phalanx that joined the whig party in 1840, have long since gone back to the locofocos with their Major DALGETTY at their head. Most of these have ranged themselves under the Administration banner of that party, to be in the line of promotion, pending the election of the national convention. The whig party as now composed have little need to fear further desertion. They have stood firm, every man of them, under the attacks of the General and State Governments. They have passed through the hottest persecution and will not quail after having triumphed over the ordeal. They have seen the darkest hour of their defection—the rather has that may befall them.

The trials of the locofocos have yet to come. There is much tribulation in store for them, and not a few man whom they have taken to their embrace will stew amongst between them and be a curse unto the whole party. The President was a deserter to our party. He has deserted us in turn and taken with him the restless malcontent and venal intriguer. For the latter service, he ought to be thanked; for they are a festering sore to any party and will be the death of that to which they have gone.

The whig party has undergone a thorough purgation and it only requires organization to make it more compact and formidable than it ever was. We have no fa; nally disputes to reconcile, no sectional jealousies to soothe; we are united as one man and upon one man.—We are identical in principles and unanimous in the choice of a statesman to carry those principles into effect. Not so the locofocos. They have six Richmonds in the field and are composed of the followers of six leaders. Many of them hold opposite political opinions and each of them has more or less personal and sectional hostility to the rest. To reconcile these feuds is a super human task; none of them can be healed by appeal upon radical political differences and grounded in long cherished personal animosities. All six of them together, aided by a thrust, upon occasion, from a false friend and masked enemy, are scarcely a match for HENRY CLAY in twenty States of this Union. What will any one of them be able to accomplish, contending by himself, and against a party that has been purified by adversity and united upon principle? The locos have laid their day.

THE ELECTIONS.

The returns thus far, with the exception of the First District, (and even there we have not the full vote,) are singularly meagre and incomplete. At this moment it is impossible to say whether WHITE or LABRANCHE is chosen in the Second District, though we have little reason to doubt the success of the whig candidate. Enough is known, however, to assure us that the locofocos have also lost a large share of the most piratical looking men Cent. S ever saw.—N. Y. Paper.

HENRY ETTER, was examined yesterday before Justices Seymour and Stringer, on the charge of murdering Wm. Finn, on Monday night, and fully committed. The trial lasted from 11 o'clock until after 7 last evening. The defence was managed by Messrs. Lessens an Duncan, and the state was represented by Messrs. Walker and Sedgwick. Finn, the murdered man, we learn, was a man of reputable connection; his father, some years deceased, having been a citizen of Baltimore, (Md.) in his youth standing, a judge of one of the courts in that city. There are relatives of the deceased in this city, and his school mates and acquaintances.—Mobile Advertiser.

George E Ind, Esq. a constable at Hamilton, Canada West, attempted a few days since to arrest a negro charged with a rapid felony. He found him at breakfast and on being told that he was a prisoner, the negro ran for the woods and seized a stone, which he was about to throw at Mr. Ellicott, who was pursuing him. Mr. E., however, discharged a pistol at him, on the run, though he escaped at the time, was afterwards found dead in the woods.—N. Y Tribune.

☞ A poor fellow, says the Pittsburgh Post, a mad Wag, in Clearfield county, Pa., has got himself into a very foolish matrimonial difficulty. He attended a muster training, and at a "shooting party," he was married to him for his match ball, named Martha Stack.—After the party, Mr. Wise thought Miss Martha had no further claims upon him; but she thought otherwise, and acting on the remark in the play of "come, marry me, Francis," which runs, "I'll hold you to it on your bargain, and won't let you go," she has instituted proceedings against the poor fellow to make him acknowledge her as his lawful wife.

By order of the Board of Health,
S. W. WATERS, Secretary.

☞ The Legislature of Louisiana passed at the last Session a law requiring the Legislature of New Orleans to appoint a Board of Health, to consist of three members, one of which should be a practising physician, and that the Board should appoint a Health Officer, whose duty it should be to visit all vessels arriving from infected ports, and to prevent the introduction of contagious diseases into the city. The Legislature of New Orleans has neglected to appoint the Board of Health, and consequently the Health Officer has not been appointed. Under the law, the Health Officer is to be appointed by the Board of Health, and not by the Legislature of New Orleans. The Legislature of New Orleans has no power to appoint the Health Officer, and the Board of Health has no power to appoint a Health Officer, unless the Legislature of New Orleans appoints the Board of Health
