FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

HENRY CLAY.

(Subject to the decision of the American People.)

NEW-ORLEANS:
SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 31, 1842.

NEW YEAR'S DAY.

Sunday being New Year's Day, no paper will be issued from this office until TUESDAY next.

THE SOMERS.

Without having any other reason for thinking the communication which appeared in the Madisonian, exculpatory of Midshipman SPENCER, who was hanged as leader of the mutiny on board the Somers, was written by the Secretary of War, than the internal evidence I heard of having been owned by one who had access to the documents transmitted to the government touching the affair, and the initial S, subscribed to it, we have taken it for granted that it was the production of no less a personage than JOHN C. SPENCER himself, the father of the unfortunate youth. We think it highly improper for a cabinet minister to take a part in the newspaper discussions of the legality of the conduct of Lieut. MCKENZIE, inasmuch as the question will doubtless be brought up for the action of the government—nevertheless much may be pardoned to the instigations of nature which prompted the Secretary of War to make out a case as favorable to the innocence of his deceased son as the facts, with a little stretching, would warrant. It appears from the communication in the Madisonian, that SPENCER was obliged to resign his commission to escape dismissal, but that the Secretary of the Navy reinstated him, upon what seemed to him sufficient grounds for such an act of leniency.

The fact that SPENCER was the son of the Secretary of War, and the circumstance of his having been continued in service by the Secretary of the Navy, after he had examined officers which required a resignation to avoid the odiousness of expulsion, would argue that the officer under whose authority the execution took place, will be dealt with in the strictest manner possible—the relationship of one member of the administration to the deceased, inflaming him gainst Lieut. MCKENZIE, and the character of another being somewhat implicated in the tragedy, inasmuch as the proof of SPENCER's utter abandonment would reflect upon the Secretary's conduct in restoring a warrant that was forfeited by acts of insubordination. Hence we think, that those who do not, upon what has already appeared, justify the conduct of the officer commanding, should be cautious in expressing themselves against him, as he will most assuredly meet with little indulgence from the powers that be.

Some persons have, upon reading the article in the Madisonian, taken up an unfavorable opinion of the conduct of Lieut. MCKENZIE, but then they should remember that the statements made in that communication are totally ex parte, and evidently written by one who has a greater desire to screen the memory of SPENCER from reproach, than is predicated of an interest and unassisted love of justice. The Madisonian correspondent has been the only person favored with a perusal of the official documents, who has made a public statement of their contents, and the facts culled from the papers in the Navy Department (if indeed the statements in the communication be facts,) were intended to put the worse face upon the affair for the commander of the Somers. It was therefore to be expected that a publication of the sort should carefully withhold any of the circumstances that made the necessity of the execution apparent.

The writer of the communication in the Madisonian says that "the only account we have, given by SPENCER himself, is, that 'it was a joke.' Such a suggestion is a burlesque upon reasonable defence. If a plan of meeting, concocted before the vessel left port and reduced to such organization as the one on board of the Somers seems to have been, be called a penal regret, it is one of those jokes that are not to be laughed at. The entertaining such an idea lessens the force of the argument adduced by the writer of the article in question, and shows him to have concocted it under a state of mind susceptible of the most incongruous impressions, and ready to regard as satisfactory, any excuse for the guilty parties, however few dots in itself and repugnant to the mass of circumstances that have been disclosed in relation to the transaction.

Since writing the above, we have received the Intelligencer, in which we find a paragraph, explaining the reappearance in its columns of the communication and the letter S. which confirms us in the opinion that it was written by Mr. SPENCER. We forbear further comment until the matter has undergone official examination, and its history made public.

FROM TEXAS.

By the arrival of the steamship Neptune, we have received our regular lines of Houston and Galveston papers to the 20th inst.

THE INDIANS.—We learn from a gentleman who arrived here on Friday, from Washington, that representatives from all the tribes of Indians, with the exception of the Comanches, have arrived at the Waco village, and are now ready and anxious to enter into treaties with the government. Representatives from the Comanches were hourly expected at the village. Houston, Dec. 20th.

After numerous attempts to break the quorum in Congress, the malcontents have retired from Washington to Austin, and a quorum being formed without them, the business of the nation is proceeding regularly. On the 9th inst. Mr. Scurry introduced a bill to repeal the Tariff and declare the ports of Texas free, which has been read twice. It will not however pass, and it is presumed that the duties will remain most part of the exception of a reduction on iron and salt.

Mr. Lewis has moved for the appointment of a Special Committee to draw up a bill providing for the protection of the western frontier.

No business of an important character was to be considered, until after the 20th. The Tariff, seat of government and census questions will then come up.

The army, numbering 800 men, under the command of Gen. Somerville, left the Rio Frio on the 25th ult. for Laredo, on the Rio Grande. The troops are said to be finely mounted, well provided and in excellent spirits. Gen'l. Somerville, in his report to the War Department, says that he expected to make forced marches, and to reach Laredo in five days. Our next news, says the Civilian, will probably be of battles fought and won.'

A duty is to be levied on all French wines imported into the republic from and after the fifteenth day of February next.

Major Riely the late minister to the U. S. arrived in Houston on the 22d inst., from Washington. He announces that the treaty between the United States and Texas, has been submitted to the Senate for ratification.

The papers complain bitterly of the total irregularity in the mail service between different and distant parts of the country. In many of the important routes it is totally suspended, and is regularly transmitted only between Houston and Washington.—From Matagorda and the adjacent regions no mail is ever received.

Information has been received from a gentleman residing in Victoria, that the Mexican settlement styled New Bahia, better known as Carlos' Rancho, was destroyed a few weeks ago by a party of volunteers from Victoria, under the command of Capt. J. Owen. It seems that the Mexicans in that settlement have all along manifested great hostility towards the Texians, and some overt act of treachery on their part, was hourly apprehended. The citizens of Victoria at length raised a company of about 120 men and encamped near the rancho. They then sent word to the Mexicans that they must have the place immediately, under pain of expulsion by force. The Mexicans took the hint and removed forthwith with their families to Matamoros. On reaching that town, they complained to the authorities there, who promised to send a detachment of soldiers to Victoria and punish the Texians. This was, however, an empty piece of fanfaronnade, for nothing has been seen of the Mexicans, and the Texians in Victoria, have continued unmolested.

MERCANTILE TRUE.—A merchant at Galveston, a month or two since, hearing that the Collector at Matagorda was taking the Exchequer bills at par, while the Collector at Galveston was taking them at only 50 cents on the dollar; shipped a cargo of goods to the port of Matagorda, and after paying duties to the Collector at that port in Exchequers at par, reshipped them to Galveston. By this speculation he cleared from twenty-five to thirty per cent on many of the articles thus reshipped.

It is rumored that the Apache Indians have renewed their depredations upon the Mexican settlements near Chihuahua. If the rumor be true, it will create a diversion in that section favorable to the army.

The steamboat Legitt, newly built and worth nineteen thousand dollars, was lost a few days ago between Velasco and Galveston, with a cargo of 319 bales of cotton, 59 hides and 2 bales of deer skins.—The cotton was mostly insured, and part of it was saved. The vessel a total loss.

THE RIVER opposite Bayou Sara has risen eight feet within two weeks.

METAIRIE COURSE—SECOND DAY.

Three Mile Heats.

The race over this course, yesterday, was any thing but an interesting one. The weather was cold, though clear, and a fresh breeze was blowing during the morning. The attendance upon the ground was slim, though better than the day before.

Kate Aubrey, Sarah Morton and Tom Marshall, were the entries, whom we have placed in the order in which they found favor with the public. Kate was the favorite against the field at 2 to 1.

Sarah Morton took the lead in each heat, kept the track and came home in hand, winner of both. Each heat was run in 6m. 35. Kate Aubrey, upon whom, the betting before starting was 2 to 1 against the field, was badly distanced in the second heat.

RECAPITULATION.

F. Duplantier's b. m. Sarah Morton, by Sidi Hamet, dam by Sumpter—5 years, 1 1

T. J. Wells' gr. c. Tom Marshall, own brother to Jno. R. Grymes—4 years, 3 2

D. F. Kenney's gr. f. Kate Aubrey, by Medoc out Grey Medoc's dam—4 years, 2 dis.

Time—6:35—6:3—track stiff and heavy.

We congratulate Mr. DUPLANTIER upon this result. His stable, with Gorge Martin at its head, we trust is destined to reward its spirited owner in a manner commensurate with the zeal and interest which he displays in matters connected with the turf.

To-day, the racing world is to have a rich treat, inasmuch as contend for the four mile purse. The reputation of these nags is inferior to none in America: Miss Foot has acquired fame from running some of the best races on record; and on Saturday last the very best ever ran in the United States. Reel is a favorite of Louisiana, and we venture to say that, as much money could be piled up upon her, as upon Fashion, were she here to contest the palm, with the little phenomenon. Every body will attend the Metairie to-day. A richer bill of fare was never offered to an amateur in turf matters.

[PRIVATE CORRESPONDENCE OF THE BEE.]

Havana, December 24, 1842.

The Spanish vessels captured by the blacks of St. Domingo, have been released by President Boyer, and arrived in our port a few days since. They consisted of the polacre Golondrina, Capt. Fabregas, and the barque Carmen. The facts in relation to this strange affair are these: The Spanish vessels were sailing at a short distance from the coast, when they were hailed by a Hayden corvette, and ordered to lay to, at the same time a blank cartridge being fired at them. On the refusal of the Spaniards to obey this order, they were attacked with shotted cannon. Being without the means of resistance, and at the mercy of the Haytiens, they lay to, and were immediately boarded by the St. Domingo corvette, their officers and crews taken on board the latter vessel, and the polacre and barque carried by the negroes into Port au Prince.—On their arrival the news was immediately despatched to President Boyer, who manifested great displeasure at the conduct of his navy, and ordered the commander of the corvette to be put in irons. In the absence of the Spanish Consul, the representative of France offered his mediation. Through his efforts the captains of the Spanish vessels were set at liberty, their vessels restored to them, and the sum of $2,000 awarded as an indemnity for 50 ounces of gold stolen by the negroes—reserving to the Spanish government to demand such reparation as the insult to her flag might call for. President Boyer has addressed a very long despatch to Governor Valdez, full of protestations of regret for this untimely affair, assuring him that he entirely condemns the conduct of the negro captain, and that he will neglect nothing to testify his friendship and respect for the Spanish government.—The expedition from Havana and St. Jago is still hovering near the coast of St. Domingo, and we are uninformed of the instructions given to the commander.

Yours, &c.

CONGRESSIONAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE BEE.

Washington, Dec. 20, 1842.

In the Senate to-day, the business transacted was merely of an initiatory nature, not calling for discussion. On an incidental matter brought up, the principle was recognised that the new rule excluding claims heretofore rejected, unless presented on new grounds, does not apply to cases in which only verbal reports had been made prior to the adoption of the rule.—The orders of the day brought up Mr. Benton's resolution of inquiry as to the grounds of information which the President had for the allusions to the Quintuple treaty of the Five Powers of Europe, in his message to the Senate last session, enclosing the adjustment of the British treaty. Mr. Archer said no further information could be obtained by the resolution than was already in possession of the Senate, as there was none to be had but that of the general notoriety of the facts. Mr. Benton wished to have the answer of the Executive, yea or no, there were, or there were not grounds for the allusions in the message. He did not care which the answer might be. The President had placed himself upon the thorns of a dilemma. If he answered that he had no information, but general rumor, he trifled with the Senate by insufficient reasons to induce it to adopt the British treaty. If he had absolute evidence of the ratification of the Quintuple treaty, he had yielded to the threats of the Holy Alliance that they would execute our laws for the suppression of the slave trade, if we did not do it ourselves; and when our honor would have called for resistance of such threats, he had induced the Senate to yield to them. Mr. Archer defended the course of the Executive in the matter, and moved to lay the resolution on the table. At the suggestion of Mr. King the motion was modified to a postponement of the subject till Thursday, and the resolution was ordered to be printed. The Senate soon after went into Executive business, and then adjourned.

In the House of Representatives, Mr. Gwinn made an unsuccessful effort to have the rules suspended for the consideration of a resolution calling for information relative to the mutiny on board the U. S. brig of war Somers. Mr. Everett called up his bill for the repeal of the bankrupt act, the question pending being on ordering it to be engrossed for a third reading.—The matter was debated for three hours, without being advanced, when a motion was made to recommit the bill with instructions to modify the law and include banks in its operation; pending the question on this motion the House adjourned.

Gov. CASS and his family have arrived at Washington.

☞ We thank the clerk of the steamboat Tippecanoe for late Red River papers.

HUNT'S MERCHANTS' MAGAZINE.—We are indebted to MORGAN, of the Literary Depot, for the November and December numbers of this sterling publication.

☞ The steamship Columbia left Boston for Halifax and Liverpool on the 16th inst. She carries out 22 passengers, 11,000 letters, and nine bags of newspapers.

NORTH CAROLINA.—W. H. Heywood (l. f.) has been chosen U. S. Senator from North Carolina both Brown and Saunders having withdrawn. We do not learn whether Mr. Heywood is a Calhoun or Van Buren man.

RESIGNATION.—C. DELAHOUSSAYE, Esq., one of the representatives elect from the Parish of St. Martin, has resigned his seat in consequence of ill health.—Mr. D. is a locofoco. The whigs have it in their power to fill the vacancy with one of their own party, whenever they please.

STRANGE SUICIDE.—A young man named Lorenzo B. Ames, at St. Albans, Vt., recently committed suicide by breaking a hole in the ice upon the river and plunging in. The fatal act is supposed to have been caused by grief for the death of a young lady to whom e had been engaged.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Robert Berkeley was tried for shooting at James Rafferty on the 24th ult., with a pair of pistols in a coffee-house in St. Charles street. Found guilty of assault and battery.

Charles Wessel, charged with assault and battery on the person of Christian Sans, a Protestant Minister, on the 12th inst, at the corner of Roffignane and New Levee streets. The Jury returned a verdict of guilty.

MYSTERIOUS LETTER.—An anonymous letter addressed to one of the authorities of the town of St. Martinsville, was found a few days ago on the public road near the town. It notifies the person in question that an insurrection among the negroes of St. Martins and the neighboring Parishes was to break out on Christmas or New Years' day. It is regarded as a hoax.

The West Feliciana Railroad is nowdn successful operation. The cars, propelled by an excellent engine, are constantly running between this place and Woodville, and judging from the quantity of cotton they bring here to be forwarded by our regular packets, together with the quantity of merchandise they convey away, we are led to believe the road is not only in successful operation, but the company is making money rapidly.—Bayou Sara Ledger.

☞ Having seen in several country papers that the sugar crops would be as bad this year as it was last, and being not of that opinion, we took the trouble to enquire of several planters in this Parish, who gave us the following statement of their two crops:

U. S. BANK NOTES.—

The Philadelphia Journal of the 17th inst., contains the following caution against receiving those notes:

Beware of the United States Bank notes at any price, until the result is known of a matter we will briefly explain. No mention of matters is necessary.—Judgment, it is known, has been obtained against the Bank of the United States, on its notes, to the amount of two hundred thousand dollars, or thereabouts. Of this amount a large judgment of over a hundred thousand dollars, it appears, has been transferred and with it the notes used.

Some of the notes having been presented last week at the counter, on payment of debts, they were refused on the ground, taken by legal advice, that these bills, like promissory notes when used, became merely a part of the record, while the evidence of the debt exists only in the judgment obtained. For once, it seems to us, that this bank is acting right, according to law; but that is not for us to decide.

It is not known that there is any distinction by which the public may know these repudiated bills.—It is therefore unsafe to touch any for the present.—We learn that a descriptive list was made of them in the judicial proceedings, and that the clerks are now busy in preparing it for publication. Until this is done, it will not be safe to touch them at any price.

☞ We call attention to the valuable collection of oil paintings advertised as open to gratuitous exhibition, at No. 67 Chartres street, shortly to be disposed of at auction.

☞ The attention of speculators is called to the sale for account of the United States Government of Clothing, Hardware, &c., at the Fabyan Fort, at 10 o'clock this morning, where great bargains will be offered by A. FERNANDER, Auctioneer. See advertisement in auction sales columns.

☞ We are requested to say that the sale of Hardware, Plated Goods, London Watches and Jewellery will be continued this day, at half past 10 o'clock, at 19 Royal street. The sale is under the charge of J. A. Beard, auctioneer.

☞ HAND'S SARSAPARILLA—Loss of appetite, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Costiveness or Inflammation of the stomach, all proceed from the same cause, being an unhealthy secretion of gastric juices and bile; these latter being in excess, produce nausea, oppression of the pit of the stomach, heartburn and nausea, irritations sometimes, and a variety of other proof of the same. Now it is known only to the medical profession, that Sarsaparilla is a powerful remedy to correct the above evils, and has been for the last 20 years, but the difficulty has been to get the relief to the afflicted. Hand's Sarsaparilla, after years of experiment, is entirely regardless of the medicinal properties, in its operation per se, assuming into the circulation those elements in contact with the germ or sense of disease, and thereby producing a healthy secretion by ordering the blood to every part of the body, and causing a general reaction, when health succeeds debility and disease.

For certificates of its cures, and copious testimonials, see advertisements in the different daily papers.

☞ Prepared and sold (wholesale and retail, and for exportation,) by A. B. HAND & Co., Druggists and Chemists, Granite Building, 373 Broadway, corner of Chambers street, New York.

☞ Also at wholesale and retail, for exportation, at their Southern Office, No. 128 Charles street, New Orleans.

☞ To be had also of NICKLES & Co., No. 46 Canal st, and of ANDREW OLIVER & Co., 211 Magazine street, and by druggists and merchants throughout the United States.

Price $1 per bottle—six bottles for $5.

☞ HAND'S SARSAPARILLA—Loss of appetite, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Costiveness or Inflammation of the stomach, all proceed from the same cause, being an unhealthy secretion of gastric juices and bile; these latter being in excess, produce nausea, oppression of the pit of the stomach, heartburn and nausea, irritations sometimes, and a variety of other proof of the same. Now it is known only to the medical profession, that Sarsaparilla is a powerful remedy to correct the above evils, and has been for the last 20 years, but the difficulty has been to get the relief to the afflicted. Hand's Sarsaparilla, after years of experiment, is entirely regardless of the medicinal properties, in its operation per se, assuming into the circulation those elements in contact with the germ or sense of disease, and thereby producing a healthy secretion by ordering the blood to every part of the body, and causing a general reaction, when health succeeds debility and disease.

For certificates of its cures, and copious testimonials, see advertisements in the different daily papers.

☞ Prepared and sold (wholesale and retail, and for exportation,) by A. B. HAND & Co., Druggists and Chemists, Granite Building, 373 Broadway, corner of Chambers street, New York.

☞ Also at wholesale and retail, for exportation, at their Southern Office, No. 128 Charles street, New Orleans.

☞ To be had also of NICKLES & Co., No. 46 Canal st, and of ANDREW OLIVER & Co., 211 Magazine street, and by druggists and merchants throughout the United States.

Price $1 per bottle—six bottles for $5.

☞ CAUTION—Be particular to ask for HAND'S SARSAPARILLA, and take no other.

P. S. The afflicted poor may be supplied gratis, by bringing a certificate of their need from the Alderman of the ward in which they reside, or from the pastor of the church. 231
