THE NORTHERN MAIL arrived through yesterday, bringing the latest dates.

THE BITTER-ENDERS.

It was Mr. BENTON, we think, who upon the advent to the Presidency of John Quincy Adams, swore that his Administration, though pure as the angels in Heaven, should be put down. The oath was fulfilled, we need hardly say by what vile process of foul libel, slander, personal vituperation, forged and fictitious charges and constant excitement of the public mind. The Adams party, now almost universally admitted to have been conscientious, just, upright and patriotic, was prostrated, and with the accession of ANDREW JACKSON began the new and baleful era of Locofocoism.

Something like the machinery employed to "put down" Mr. ADAMS, is the system adopted by the Locofoco faction to destroy the popularity of Gen. TAYLOR, and to impair public confidence in the capacity and integrity of his official counsellors. Locofocism swoops at TAYLOR like a falcon pouncing upon its quarry. Nothing is too low for its assault; nothing too horrible for its raving and malignant scrutiny.—It began immediately after the inauguration, by a universal yell of reproach at the event of a few unworthy and needlessome office holders, and that by a score of its discordant vociferation it has corrupted ever since to strike. It matters not that a great reform is and incontrovertible success been inaugurated, that scarcely one out of the number of Locofoco functionaries has been dismissed, and that the party opposed to the present Administration is still in the enjoyment of more than half the public offices of the country—the cry of proscription is maintained, undiminished in tone, and with a shameless disregard of the solemn precedents established by JACKSON, VAN BUREN and POLK, who dismissed one out of every Whig in office, with as little ceremony as if he were an unborn knave or fool.

It cannot surprise any that the vituperation and reproach should produce some effect, and that those who look no further than the surface of society into the current of events would not fail to sweeping accusations, probably believe that Gen. TAYLOR has removed every Democrat in the land. It is one feature of successful warfare to keep the real fighting and plans to itself, to impose for truth. The true policy of the opposition is to conceal the movements and worthless to take upon. This, however, cannot be taken upon the declaiming party papers by Locofocoism, for the accomplishment of its objects. It was long ago proclaimed that whatever may be the future ought wise, the Administration of Gen. TAYLOR was to be opposed and flattered. To carry this determination into effect, nothing more is needed than the energy and entire incorruptness possessed in perfection by the leaders of the opposition. With these endowments, and the aid of such powerful auxiliaries as the Administration of the hour affords in opinion, training and the chances of changes against it, nothing is left to others to do but to follow. Leaders regulated upon the slenderest and most slavish evidence. If one of these miserable standards be effectually destroyed, another is forthwith substituted in its place. There is no hesitancy or reserve allowed. The war is carried on upon wholesale principles, and characterized with savage ferocity.—Take a few examples.

The Northern Democratic press denounce General TAYLOR and his Cabinet as disorganizers and traitors to the cause in the Senate, and the Administration of CASS and polk, because the latter refused to remove Secretary WALKER, and the former declined to remove Secretary CRAWFORD, who were in office and vindictive. Mr. CLEMENS are perfect scapegoats for Locofoco wrath. One member is charged with appropriating the public moneys to the enriching of his family and connections; another is accused of violating the fundamental principles of the Government by paying out large amounts without authority of law, all are vilified and berated as goodness knows what, in under and unexpressible. Resolutions are introduced into Congress for the very purpose of subjecting these gentlemen to the ordeal of investigation of Committees composed of a majority of their political friends, and justice, sentiment is forsworn of and justice and good faith outraged by all journalistic and Congressional perquisitions and official incompetency. This is a mere in an outline of most unreprovable course pursued by the Democracy to crush their unrelenting hatred of a Whig Administration. Should it ultimately succeed, will not be the first observation of the world with which a dishonest party can boast—sick and debase the country, and its history will form a fit sequel to the narrative of the atrocities men employed a quarter of a century ago for the settlement of a similar dispute. We believe, however, that the people are better informed now, and will more readily fathom the base views of those who seek to over throw the administration, only to secure a reversion of its offices to themselves and their retainers. We entertain no unfounded confidence in the justice and discriminations of the American people to suppose that they will be long led away and practically deceived by such transparent and designed artifices.

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.—We read in the Red River Republican of the 27th April:

For the last two days we have had very severe showers of rain, which has been of great advantage to the crops. The river has risen some but about five inches, and is still on the rise; the pressure this, however, is caused by the late rains.

INSOLENT DECISION.—The Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts have decided, in the case of Moses Jordan vs. the Fall River Railroad Company, that the company is liable for a trunk full of stolen and lost such valuable articles contained in it may be considered connected with personal wearing such as a watch and chain, and for no such things as may be considered necessary to the traveler for traveling expenses, but not for large sums of money or merchandise thus carried, unless specially notified.

THE FUNERAL CEREMONIES in honor of Mr. CALHOUN were to take place in Charleston on the 26th April. The preparations were on the most extensive and imposing scale.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN SAVANNAH. We learn from the Republican of the 25th ult., that about early hour of the morning a fire broke out in a wooden range, corner of Jefferson and Congress streets, owned by James McIntyre and leased to W. B. Hale and others. The flames extended to the adjacent buildings with fearful rapidity, and a large amount of property was consigned before the engines could be got to work. The Republican gives a list of the sufferers, to the some twenty-eight in number. At half past 1 A. M. the fire was still burning, though it was then under control.

LATEST FROM HAYTI.—The schooner Odlo arrived at New York on the 21st; with dates from Port au Prince to the 31st March. His Imperial Highness, Faustin I. still delights in show and parade. He every morning rides around the city, attended by the Governor some of his principal officers, and a body guard of dragoons, and the citizens receive his black majesty with uncovered heads, as he passes.—He has forced (with but few exceptions) all the young men of the place to become soldiers; and it is reported that he shortly intends to attack the Spanish portion of the island. Faustin has purchased two more large brigs, which he intends to convert into vessels of war, viz: the Danish brig Otto and a Swedish brig. The business of the island appears to be improving. There was a great deal of logwood in the market, and coffee had begun to come into Port au Prince in large quantities.

TELEGRAPHED TO THE BEE.

New York Markets.

NEW YORK, April 27.

Business in Cotton to-day is moderate—all parties waiting for the steamer. Week's sale 13,000 bales.

Treasury Notes 116 1-8 premium; Sterling Exchange 9½.

The steamship Ohio, for Chagres, had sailed with 400 passengers.

SECOND DESPATCH.

BOSTON, April 27.

The U. S. ship Ohio has just arrived. She lost five officers and eleven of her crew, while coming from Rio.

THIRD DESPATCH.

NEW YORK, April 29—6 P. M.

No tidings of the steamer. The Cotton market is quiet, waiting advices. Other things unchanged.

Serious Accident.

WAR's two houses, the one on Broadway and the other on Water street, fell to day, burying some eighteen persons in the ruins. The loss of life is not known.

FOURTH DESPATCH.

BALTIMORE, April 29.

No steamer yet.

The steamer Anthony Wayne exploded near Vermillion, Ohio, yesterday. She had 80 persons on board, about 40 of whom were killed.

☞ The National Intelligencer of the 23d says: The mortal remains of the late Mr. CALHOUN were removed from the seat of government yesterday morning, for their final resting place in his native State, under the large and honorable escort, and in conformity to the arrangements mentioned in our paper of yesterday.

The steamer which conveyed them was arrayed in mourning drapery, and had her flags at half-mast. When she reached the Virginia landing, where the railroad commences, the funeral party was met by a committee of gentlemen, headed by the Hon. JOHN Y. MASON, from Richmond, deputed by the Governor of the State, and one from the town of Fredericksburg, headed by the venerable HUGH MERCER, also, by a very handsome volunteer military company from the latter city, accompanied by a fine band of music.

The remains of the lamented statesman were conveyed to the shore, and deposited in the car appointed for them, followed by a procession of the invited committees, and under military escorts and solemn music; soon after which the train proceeded on its way.

The melancholy occasion was marked by a most sad and touching coincidence. On Mr. CALHOUN's journey to Washington last December—he was, among others, accommodated by the Hon. Mr. HILLIARD, his excellent wife, and his interesting and most promising son, a youth of seventeen years. Yesterday that interesting youth, accompanied by his bereaved and deeply afflicted parents, was borne back to the South a corpse, in the same conveyance which bore the corpse of his late distinguished cousin-traveller. They came together and together returned—but under circumstances how sad, and how different from what either then imagined!

GREAT NEWSPAPER PRESS.—In the press lately invented by Messrs. HOE & CO., on two of which the Philadelphia Ledger is printed, the types are adjusted around a large cylinder, at every revolution of which, four small cylinders connected with it, give off four impressions on the paper. They are now building for the New York Sun, a press with eight of the small cylinders, which will give off eight impressions at a revolution; so that as now appears, it will produce eighteen impressions in an hour. The machinery moves with the sheets, so it requires a person at each cylinder, to put them on.

DR. WEBSTER.—The Boston Transcript, speaking of the anonymous epistles to the State and city authorities from various sections of the country, relative to Dr. Webster's trial, says:

"Persons at a distance can have but little idea of the unanimity of sentiment here, or of the loyalty of our population to their constituted rulers, to think that all the methods they adopt to turn the current of popular feeling, or to prejudice the opinion of our jurors, will have the slightest effect upon those who are the sworn ministers of justice, in the State of Massachusetts."

CONFESSION OF A MURDERER.—Two gentlemen, E. F. Howe and N. D. Hubbard, write to the Hartford Times from North White Creek, Washington county, N. Y., that there is a man in that section who has made a full confession of the old gentleman's death, which was cruelly murdered in Litchfield county Connecticut about nineteen years ago, has considerable property in his possession, which he says he has about two other men were engaged with him, but he committed the act. A part of the money is in gold, which corresponds with the description of White's person at the time of his death. He was intoxicated when he committed the murder, but repented the statement afterwards when sober. A warrant has been issued for him there, and an officer is in pursuit.—Springfield Republican

RIO GRANDE.—We have received a number of the American Flag of the 25th April.

It is reported in Matamoros that a few days ago a sergeant, formerly belonging to the command of Don Vital Fernandez, and who was very much attached to him, proposed to purchase the guard in charge of the residence of the present Governor of Tamaulipas, Don Jesus Cardenas, and, under pretence of presenting a letter, prevailed on them to admit him to an interview with the Governor. After entering the chamber, he presented the pretended letter, and, then, in full view of the governor's own body guard, he drew a revolver and shot Cardenas through the heart, one ball entering the chest and the other the lower part of the abdomen. He then made his escape by another door. It is said that Cardenas is mortally wounded, although he was still alive at last accounts.

A MODEST YANKEE.—The following unique petition was presented in the Massachusetts Legislature lately, with much seriousness:—

"To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives—Sirs: I wish to have my name changed to that of Franklin Macy, instead of Stephen Macy, being a relative of the illustrious Dr. Franklin, and having a mind like his.

"Which your petitioner will ever pray,

"STEPHEN MACY."

The petition was accompanied by a historical statement from "Folger's Almanac."

☞ We are indebted, says the Charleston Courier, to the politeness of Capt. Corse, of the steamer Charleston, for a copy of the Georgetown True Republican of yesterday morning, from which we take the following paragraph:

GEORGETOWN, April 24.

THE WEATHER AND THE SEASON.—Until the last day or two, fires have not only been comfortable but indispensable to comfort—vegetation scarcely has put forth, and in fact everything around and about us indicate, and we may almost persuaded, that time has been by some means miscalculated, and that we are at least one month in advance of it.

We understand that planting generally is behind hand; and as on the length of the season very much depends the extent of the Cotton crop, we append this, the next, to the category of accidents upon which to predicate short crops and remunerating prices.

CALIFORNIANS RETURNING.—The Chicago Journal states that a number of California emigrants have arrived at Galena, on their way back to their homes, the fever having subsided.—They had proceeded as far as Fort Independence, where they found a multitude waiting for a change of weather so as to procure feet for their cattle, and thought the back track advisable.

GALE ON LAKE ONTARIO.—The gale on the 14th ult., is represented to have been particularly severe at Oswego. Several vessels were forced into the harbor, and one of them was somewhat injured by striking against the pier. She had on a cargo of flour, which suffered but slight damage; name not given. The air was cold, and the vessels and their rigging were covered with ice after the gale subsided. The Times says: "At the height of the gale the surf rolled into the mouth of the harbor in the most magnificent style. The huge breakers would strike against the pier and throw a dense body of spray nearly to the top of the lighthouse. So heavy was the surf, that sometimes the entire pier would seem to be submerged, when the huge breakers would leap against it passing entirely over into the harbor.

FIRE AT A CAMPHINE FACTORY.—Several persons badly burned.—A fire occurred at the Camphine and alcohol factory, No. 35 Ridge street, N. Y., on Friday afternoon, by which several persons were severely burnt, among whom were Capt. Fuller, the conductor of the factory; James Brinton, badly burned, and sent to the hospital; Mr. Slocum, severely burned in the face, back and hands: and Captain Tilley, of the 13th ward police, badly burned in the hands. It was feared that one or two of the sufferers would die. The cause of the fire was the upsetting of a tub of alcohol.

A little girl meeting a countryman with a load of slaughtered swine, dropped a courtesy. The rustic laughed, without returning the civility.

"What," said he, "do you courtesy to dead hogs?"

"No, sir," replied the little miss, "I courtesied to the live one."

[From the New York Journal of Commerce.]

To Myself.

FROM THE GERMAN OF KARL HAROLD.

Peace! troubled Soul,
Backed with dim Doubts, fierce Hate, and angry Strife,
That darkly roll
Within the breast like the angry Ocean's swell,
Given to Life
The furious aspect of a raging Hell.

The warring heart
Itself most injures in its savage aims,
For every dart
With fury hurled leaves a keen sting behind
That soon inflames,
And drives to madness the revengful mind.

Learn to be wise,
And cherish wishes loving, pure, and calm;
Be just, and prize
Life's many blessings as thy years increase,
And the sweet balm
Of tender friendship, love, and sunny peace.

This glorious Earth!
The many noble virtues of Mankind!
Have they no worth?
And is there not a better world to win?
Oh, for such mind
But strive to know thyself—no more to sin.

The old man weeps
When youth's bright visions store him in the face;
And, when he sleeps,
Remorse, in legel sighs o'er wrath and crime,
Rejected Grace,
And shattered prospects of the golden prime,

Then with great Love,
And perfect Faith gild thy remaining days;
And look above
For new-born strength, contentment, and relief;
Give God the praise,
And meekly bear thy woeful load of Grief. G. M. H.

THE SACO MURDER INVESTIGATION.—We noticed some days since the discovery of the dead body of a woman at Saco, Me., and the arrest of Dr. James H. Smith on suspicion of having killed her. An extra Main Democra contains the following on the subject:

The body was discovered last Saturday afternoon, April 13, between 1 and 2 o'clock, in a water course. A large brook crosses Storer st. On the eastern side of the street the brook passes between houses belonging to Mr. Brooks and John Gaines. The water course is some four feet wide and five or six feet in depth, the top covered with plank, which serves as a walk between the two houses. Passing between the houses, the brook crosses the street diagonally, beneath a massive stone covering. It became necessary to take up a part of the plank walk near the stone covering of the street, and beneath it was found the body of a female.

A writer in the Daily News says: "Without imputing any blame to the unfortunate commander of the lost vessel, it is to be regretted that he attempted to run through the Prince's Channel during such weather, as he unfortunately the case on Saturday night. At all times, we believe, it is deemed by mariners to be a delicate passage, but in an easterly wind, which throws an immense surf over it, and thick weather, its difficulties are considerably increased."

The ill-fated vessel had, it is believed, upwards of 250 passengers, of all grades, on board. Fourteen passengers got on board at Plymouth. Of these, seven were cabin and seven steerage passengers.

SURGICAL OPERATION BY DR. MOTT.—Almost Like a Miracle.—We find the following brief report of an operation by Dr. Mott, at the University, a few daysago, in Noah's Times:

A young man had a tumor growing out of one of his nostrils. It came in time to fill the whole cavity, and so extensively and firmly attached, that it was impossible to get hold with forceps, as is done with polypus. The worthy professor put on his considering cap, and studied out an operation; and then, to make all sure, he performed it on a dead body. Satisfied of its practicability, he came before he made a straight incision from the inner corner of the eye to the mouth, through the upper lip; then dissected the flesh from the bone, so as to turn all the fleshy part of the nose over upon the other side of the face. This done, he sawed through the bone, and by a nice piece of carpenter work, laid open the whole extent of the tumor. The tumor was now exposed, cut loose, and easily extracted, and the parts set well, without any disfigurement, but a line where the fleshy parts were re-united. This was an ingenious, bold, and most successful operation.

DR. WEBSTER.—The Boston Transcript, speaking of the anonymous epistles to the State and city authorities from various sections of the country, relative to Dr. Webster's trial, says:

Notice to Merchants and Others.

A SECOND Municipality Corset.—The body met last evening for the transaction of regular business, Recorder Baldwin in the Chair, and all the members present with the exception of Messrs. Shakespeare and Lawrason who are not in the city. A message from the Mayor was received, enclosing several bills passed at the late session of the Legislature, and directing the special attention of the Council to the same. They comprise the act providing for the consolidation of the debt—the act defining the rural and urban limits of the city, &c.—the act creating a Mayor's and Recorders' Court, and the act providing for the erection of Houses of Refuge for juvenile offenders. The Mayor also calls the attention of the Council to the condition of the streets, and recommends that the clearing and repairing of the same is but inefficiently executed, and hopes that the contractors will be made to perform their duty in future. The message also animadverts on the almost impassable condition of New Levee street, and urges the necessity of paving this great thoroughfare with square blocks. He
