INTERVENTION BY RAILROADS.

Attention to the eloquent speech of Mr. [illegible] before the South Western Railroad Convention will be duly impressed with the [illegible] beauty of his peroration. The idea of [illegible] the principles of Republican freedom [illegible] the sword, but by the peaceful and [illegible] process of enterprise is eminently felicitous and strongly practicable. It is, moreover, [illegible] consonance with our institutions, [illegible] characteristic of our nation. The [illegible] agencies are hardy, adventurous and [illegible] acquainted with the pursuit, fell [illegible] the country abiding. They restlessly [illegible] to their industry, new channels [illegible] new avenues to wealth, [illegible] and science. The complicated mesh [illegible] with which they are rapidly [illegible] whole country, enables them to ac[illegible] these objects, gives stimulus and em[illegible] to their boiling energies, and must [illegible] prove a most successful and efficient [illegible] the extension of their political institu[illegible] Wherever the railroad passes, there fol[illegible] population. Every mile of its course [illegible] to view the race of the laborer, be[illegible] people by the off-shoots of the Anglo[illegible] race. Every depot starts a village, every [illegible] gradually into a city. Amer[illegible] Anglo-Saxon love of enterprise, Amer[illegible] to be realized upon the line of [illegible] has been found to flourish with [illegible] the spread of our country. Millions of [illegible] have found, or the vast solitudes of the [illegible] have been rescued from primitive desolation, made the sites of thriving towns, [illegible] civilization and a crown of con[illegible] career and more prosperous be[illegible] than the cities of law regulated life [illegible] sections of States, which but a [illegible] were the abode of the savage [illegible] the precarious shelter of scarcely sec[illegible] of wigwam men, hostile superior [illegible] their neighbors, have, by the magic [illegible] of railroads, become a cheerful [illegible] where schools [illegible] churches, where evidence [illegible] industry with others which boast the [illegible] and refinement of centuries. Take the Western parts of New York and Pennsylvania, take Michigan and distant Wisconsin, take Southern Ohio and Indiana, behold the marvellous [illegible] of the railroad in making the desert to blow [illegible]

Such is the glorious result of this policy in our own land. Extend its sphere of influence, and the fruits will be neither less certain nor less precious. Wherever the American plants his vine and rears the habits of the free republican, the love of freedom, hatred of tyranny, reverence for law, accompany and dwell with him. This would seem to be a part of the question, which he instinctively performs, without [illegible] it would repudiate. He emigrates to Ohio and Panama, and in the course of a year or two, the miserable hovels of the half-naked New Grenadian gave way to substantial and comfortable mansions. Roads are made, trade is built up, public order is established, and almost imperceptibly [illegible] American democracy transforms the useless and ignorant inhabitants into a civilized and prosperous community. He wanders to remote Oregon, and in a handful of Mexicans [illegible] secure a home amidst an [illegible] tribes of hostile savages. There his [illegible] and unquenchable energy [illegible] surge. The country becomes settled, [illegible] wealth explored and brought to light [illegible] institutions are established, the [illegible] emerges from its [illegible], and the new [illegible] is [illegible] almost with the briefness of a dream, assumes a respectable position among the [illegible] of nations. These are the triumphs of intercontinental [illegible] such as is contemplated by the railroads who are [illegible] by the seductive [illegible] of Kossuth or are aligned by deep [illegible] of our country. The [illegible] secret [illegible] of progress of the people [illegible] the [illegible] of inhabitants [illegible] beam contemporaneously, and subduing obstacles, [illegible] and error. These are victories too [illegible] for mere splendor, than those of the most bloodstained conqueror the world ever saw.

We can [illegible] with the light of reason and experience before [illegible] that when a line of [illegible] is [illegible] Pacific into close proximity with the Atlantic, every community [illegible] which it passes, will be gradually lash[illegible] and stimulated into the keenest of the American freeman. Central America will then become [illegible] the [illegible] of the world, [illegible] and will then [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] and will [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] nations. Ample consideration [illegible] proposed [illegible] with [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
