NEW-ORLEANS.

EDITORIAL.

Embarrassments has manifested itself among the partisans of Gen. Jackson since they gave him an invitation to pass the 8th of January in this city; that day certainly is the epoch of his military glory and which they attempt to make serve as the foundation of his civic fame: real military men smile at all this, but those who are intriguing in his cause pretend to receive it as their creed and wish to impose it, in spite of all reason, as a species of religion on their fellow citizens. The fact is, the 8th of January is a proud day for Louisiana and Louisiana, and whatever just reproaches they may have to offer against him, for his arbitrary conduct and for the libels he has been publishing against them for the last dozen years, it will do honor to their generosity to view him on that memorable day but as their conducter to victory. They ought, therefore, to pardon him the wrongs he has done them, but ought they at the same time to show him the full of his exploits and his excesses? and is it not extremely indiscreet in his partisans to drag the legislature into a measure deemed in-conscientious by all wise men of whatever party they may be.

Nevertheless, as Montaigne says, the Jacksonists have thought, "to hit the right nail on the head," by the invita-tion, which they know was not the re-sult of an unanimous vote of the legis-lature but of an accidental majority and in the transports, occasioned by their success, they forgot the most important part of the business, which renders the invitation illusory and reduces it to a common act of civility; we mean to hint at an appropriation of the necessa-ry funds! it is true that our legislators might have taken two views of the sub-ject, and finding that if their nomination imposes upon them the obligation of acting for the public good, it would not become them to expell the money of the people of Louisiana, when by act-ing so they would give offence to the great part of their constituents. But in fact, the appropriation does not exist, and we may, without risking too much, say that it never will exist; and here commences the embarrassment of the Jacksonists. They are putting subscrip-tion papers about, but these not having answered their purposes, they have ev-en gone so far, it is said, as to press the governor to call an extraordinary meeting of the legislature. We feel to what a pitch of audacity a party may be carried who dare demand of the execu-tive the means which are placed at his disposal but for the safety of the state. But is the arrival of a citizen, of a sim-ple citizen, let us ask, an event so un-common as to call for an extraordinary convention of the legislature? such a pretension appears to us to degrade the dignity of an assembly in which the first power of the country resides, and the convoking of it for the sole purpose of raising funds for the reception of Jackson would be recalling to us too coarsely the insolence with which that proconsul had already dared to disperse it.

To pardon but not forget, is the max-im that Louisiana should adopt, in a case where the welfare, perhaps the ex-istence of the country is compromised. In fact the violation of our most sacred rights, the Habeas Corpus act, and the liberty of the press, the insult offered to our legislators or rather to ourselves in their persons are powerful motives to exasperate those who feel for the digni-ty of a free people. However the nation-al glory and the saving of the city has militated in favor of our warrior, and indignation has not silenced the voice of gratitude. But what more can be asked? what more expected from the benevolence of Louisianians. Must Louisiana the better to seal his pardon call to her bosom him who clothed with dictatorial powers, violated its indepen-dence, deprived her for a time of her liberties and attacked her representa-tion! Well! the new sacrifice is effect-ed! the ouation is prepared for the hero! and without doubt his partisans satisfied with this extreme condescension will ask for nothing more. On the contra-ry, he proposes to impose upon our country, on the entire country, the dic-tatorial yoke, and for them, Louisiana spitten upon, her legislature and her laws trodden under foot, is but a step to the throne to which they would elevate a man whose contempt of all the duties of a true republican supplies the place of all the talents and all the virtues of which he is wanting.

Shall we then be less sensible of the affront offered to us than the other states are? Truth long stifled breaks out with double force among them and facts are brought to light; we have seen to what a pitch Jackson has abus-ed his military power among us, and we are indignant at seeing in every di-rection the calumnies that he has spread abroad in his private letters, against that Louisiana to which he owes all his renown. And shall we offer the servile and disgraceful spectacle of a people bending their knees to one who has op-pressed and Calumnized them. No, it shall not be so; the insulted honor of Louisiana will speak louder than in-trigue and will silence adulation.

TENNESSEE.—On the 15th ult. Go-vernor Houston delivered his message to the Legislature on the occasion of their assembling. In it the Governor strongly urges the subject of internal improvement by means of which great and valuable advantages may be obtain-ed at a moderate expenditure of the public funds. The chief obstacle ap-pears to arise from the difficulty in sel-ecting "such points of commencement as would unite public opinion in their favor." But he further remarks that "the time has now gone by, when the successful navigation of the Cumber-land is considered, by any portion of our citizens, as being exclusively bene-ficial to Nashville. The history and experience of the last seven years, has given ample testimony of the direct be-nerfit resulting to every county west of the Cumberland mountains." The U. S. Engineers, who have been for some time engaged in ascertaining the practi-cability of a Canal on the north bank of the Tennessee to surmount the obstruc-tions of the Muscle Shoals, have not yet completed their survey, but it is expect-ed they will soon complete it. In case the navigation of the Tennessee cannot be made easy, the project of connecting the waters of the Hiwassee with those of the Coosa is to be enforced upon the consideration of the Legislature, as the intercourse between East Tennessee and South Alabama is thought to pro-mise solid advantages to both. The disputed boundary between Kentucky and Tennessee is referred to, with a hope that the Legislature would take some definite measures on the subject. The Governor recommends to the fa-vorable consideration of the Legisla-ture, the settlers on the south of French Broad and Holston rivers, who are bound to pay the amount stipulated as the price of their land, according to the ordinary rules governing compacts, but would find it extremely difficult so to do. In closing he alludes to the cheer-ing prospect of a permanent fund in that state for the establishment of com-mon schools, and that the means of ele-mentary learning will no longer be li-mited.—Boston Patriot.

On peut, pour ainsi dire, assurer la même chance au Bureau Célèbre ci-dessus désigné, à ceux qui prendront dans les Loteries de cet Etat qui doivent se tirer sous peu.

PARISH COURT, for the Parish and City of New-Orleans—December 3d, 1827—

Present the honorable JAMES PARROT—Honorable Dias, f. w. of c. vs. François Dias, f. m. of c. her husband.—This case being called for trial by consent, on Saturday the 24th instant, and it being proved to the satisfaction of the Court, that the petitioner is justly entitled to the property described and claimed in her petition, viz: to four lots of ground with the edifices thereon, fronting Bourgogne, Orleans, and St. Anne streets, as marked in the plan of the City surveyor to two slaves, Mary and Rosalie, with her three children, Sylvestre, Mary Rose and Ade-laïde; and furthermore to a lot of ground with the edifices thereon, situated in Sa-burbs Marigny, and to a sum of nine hun-dred and eighty dollars and fifty one cents; It is ordered, adjudged and decreed by the Court that a separation of property do take place between the parties, plaintiff and defendant in this cause, and that the defendant shall first pay to the plaintiff the sum of nine hundred and eighty dollars and fifty one cent, and put her in possession of the property herein above describ-ed, and that the defendant shall pay the costs of suit.

(Signed) JS. PITOT, Judge. I do hereby certify the above, Dec. 4 J. OLLIVIER, Dept. Clerk.
