

THE BELL

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1828.

ADMINISTRATION TICKET. DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES—INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

OUR PROSPECTS. Mr. Adams' re-election is now considered safe, even by the most timid of his friends.

Great Administration meeting at Philadelphia. A very large and respectable Town Meeting of the Friends of the Administration of the Gen. Government, convened, agreeably to public notice, at Philadelphia, on Monday, July 7, 1828.

Whereas, the right of free citizens to express their opinions of candidates for office becomes an imperious duty when the highest station in their gift is to be filled, and vital principles of their Government are in question; and whereas the friends of General Andrew Jackson, devoted to his elevation to the Presidential Chair, have organized parties in every section of the Union to accomplish this design; and, in the prosecution of their purpose, have invoked the aid of every sectional jealousy and private discontent; have endeavored to kindle into action the worst and most dangerous passions of our nature; to allure the ambitious; to overawe the timid; to impose on the unwary; to calumniate and proscribble all who oppose them; and to break down the present Administration of the Federal Government by violence and falsehood; and whereas, to prevent the ruinous and disgraceful success of such means, it is incumbent on every good citizen, attached to the order, character, and institutions of his country, to give voice and influence against them—

Resolved, That it is our duty and interest, as members of this great Republic, to merge all differences of minor importance in the paramount consideration of the public good, and the support of measures essential to the independence and prosperity of our country.

Resolved, That we have full and entire confidence in the ability and integrity of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS—and consider his re-election to the Presidency of the United States highly important to the interests and honor of our country.

Resolved, That we have seen, with deep mortification, as Americans, the bitter and unjust persecution of HENRY CLAY, to degrade him from the eminence to which his talents and services have raised him, and destroy his future usefulness and character.

Resolved, That, in our opinion, neither the education, the habits, nor occupations, of Gen. Jackson, have been of a kind to qualify him for the duties of the first civil Magistrate of our country; and that, whatever his military talents may be, his unfitness for the office of President of the United States is manifested by the whole course of his public life.

Some other resolutions were adopted, amongst which were the following: Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to all those citizens of Pennsylvania, who prefer the re-election of the present Chief Magistrate rather than the election of the Military Candidate, to WRITE, in their respective Counties and Districts, as Friends of the Administration, and, under such name, to co-operate in the ensuing elections—so that they may speak in one voice, in the choice of Inspectors on the 3d, and at the general election, on the 14th of October, and, also, at the Electoral election, on the 31st of that month.

Severe Rebuke.—The Greene county (Catskill) Republican, an able Jackson paper, thus speaks of the organ of the opposition party at Washington. U. S. Telegraph.—The paper published at Washington, under the above title, by Duff Green and Russel Jarvis, has no parallel for the scurrility of its columns, and the ferocity of its nature, in the history of our politics. And it is not a little remarkable, that so vile a thing, a libel upon civilization, and a disgrace to our country, alike destitute of vengeance and regardless of the denunciations and common courtesies of life, should have been adopted as the organ of the Jackson party, and receive the patronage of so dignified a body as the Senate of the United States. If the cause of Gen. Jackson, or any other cause, requires the base and humiliating means resorted to by this print, to sustain it, it would be unworthy the support of any honest man. But they are not necessary, and a wanton invasion of character to subscribe the interests of any party, will never be ascribed by the people. The cause of Gen. Jackson requires no such extraneous means, nor the aid of such a prostituted vehicle of vulgarity and impurity to sustain it.

The lady of Gen. Scott, with her mother, Mrs. Mayo, of Virginia, and her sister, Mrs. Cabell, embarked yesterday for France, in the new packet ship Charlemagne. Mrs. Scott, goes out for the final purpose of accompanying her mother on a voyage for her health. We learn that Gen. Scott applied for a furlough to make the voyage also, but his request was refused. We further learn that Gen. Scott has received an order from the President to repair to his post at Cincinnati, and resume his command. As this order comes from the President himself, who is Commander in Chief by the Constitution, no question of rank can interpose.

In the Charlemagne have also sailed His Excellency Vincent Rumpp, & lady. Mr. Rumpp returns to Europe, having completed the objects of his mission from the Hanatic towards the Government of the United States. He will reside, we understand, on the banks of the Lake of Geneva, at a country seat belonging to John Jacob Astor, Esq.

A five Toad in the Stomach.—The kindness of Mr. Hampson, surgeon of this town, has furnished us with the following remarkable account of the exigence of that disgusting reptile, a toad, in the stomach of a boy, named Butterworth, of Ainsworth, in this vicinity. The father of the boy (a lad about fifteen years of age) waited on Mr. Hampson on Saturday morning, with his son, and described his complaint. He had been much afflicted for three years with a severe gnawing pain in his stomach and left side, which was at times excruciating; and to use the boy's expression, "he was sure there was some varmint within him." Mr. Hampson recommended a course of medicine; one dose was administered on the Monday, and another on Tuesday; and, by the effects of the medicine, a large full-grown and perfect toad was voided. The boy took it into the house to his astonished parents, when, dragging its legs under its belly, it expired. It has nothing about it distinguishable from the common species of field toads. The boy was doing extremely well under such circumstances, and has since enjoyed sounder sleep than for the last two years.

A bloody affair took place in Lincoln county, N. C. on the 31st ult. A warrant was issued against Moses Bumgarner for assault and battery, on which he was apprehended by a constable named Henry Tarr: On their way to jail, Bumgarner contrived to get a knife with which he cut his hands loose and then stabbed Tarr in five or six places, so severely, that the physicians pronounced his wounds mortal. Bumgarner was secured; and will receive his trial at the next Superior court.

Antoine Malapar, a broker in New-York, having intruded himself into the wishes of the subscribers, was put out by the police, in doing which there was a slight scuffle. He has now commenced a suit for assault against Joseph L. Hays, William Harrison, and John Burnham, the officers in question, who have been bound over in the sum of $3000 to appear at the next Superior Court. He lays his damages at twenty thousand dollars.

Miss Honeywell.—This is an unfortunate, but wonderfully gifted lady. She is now in Albany. She was born without arms, but by holding the paper in her toes and the scissors in her mouth, she cuts with marvellous niceness, the most delicate work. There is now at the office of the Albany Daily Advertiser, the Lords Prayer, neatly cut in paper, with a precision and beauty which few persons with all their faculties, could approach.—Miss H. also performs fine needle work, and it is extremely interesting to see her manner of operating.—She pushes the needle through one side of the work, fastened on a frame, with her mouth, and on the other with her toes. She writes prettily with her toes.—N. Y. Eng.

The Weather.—Just before noon yesterday, a thermometer on the shady side of Court-street, stood at 95 degrees; another where there was a free current of air, was at 89. The wind soon after blow from the eastward and at 8 o'clock it stood at 73; 4 degrees below summer heat. A thermometer in an unshaded open place, showed 81 degrees from two to half past three o'clock. [Boston Patriot.]

"If it had nothing else, it will feed my REVENGE."—Mr. Joseph Boyd, advertises in the Nashville papers that a mare has been stolen from him, and says he "will give $500 dollars and reasonable charges for the mare, and ten dollars for the scalp of the villain." Is horse-stealing a capital crime in Tennessee, without judge or jury?

"Oh Love! what may'st thou emblem be?" A skunk of yam across a tree. Two young ladies recently divided a skin of yarn and hung themselves on a tree near Palmyra, Ohio, and "all fell love." Before they became acquainted they were discovered and restored.

The Paris West Tennessee advertiser has the hands ordered to be sold for taxes. Attached to the description of the respective tracts are remarks similar to the following:—Taxes eighty seven and a half cents, clerk's fee four dollars twenty cents, sheriff's fee three dollars, printer's fee four dollars. Here are eleven dollars and twenty cts. to be paid for the collection of 87 1-2 cents.
