By the steamer Phoenar, which arrived yesterday morning from St. Louis, where she left on the 26th, we learn that the steamer Chieftain had arrived at St. Louis from Galena, with the last of the women and children from that place, all the mining business having been suspended .-The Chieftain reports that a detachment of eighteen men, commanded by lieutenant Hamilton, had been cut off near Fort Clark, and that three entire families in that neighborhoo! had been massacred, with the exception of two young women, who are supposed to have been captured and carried away alive. Fears were entertained that the Winnebagoes would unite with the Sacs and Foxes, in which case there would be upwards of 3000 warriors in the field. The Phoenix brought no papers. The particulars which we publish in another column, are from the St. Leuis Boscou, received by the western mail of yes orday. LATEST FES M MEXICO.

By the schooner Emperor, which arrived here yesterday morning from Tampico, which port she left on the 25th ever inundating the teading world. ultimo, we have received our files of the Tampico Gasette to the day of sailing, inclusive, from which we learn the interesting intelligence that on the night of the 12th the army of general Calderon, which was besieging Vera Cruz, raised the seige and marched into the interior. This fact this tyler on Rock River, at the Prophet's Village. is announced officially by general Moctezuma, who commands at Tampico, and whose proclamation to that effect is published in the Tampico Gazette of the 22d.

We learn further from a gentleman who came passenger in the Emperor: that intelligence had been received by the latest mail from Vera Cruz, that general Santa Anna had the Gen the on Bock River, near the camp of the In sent a detachment of 200 cavalry in pursuit of the fugitive army of Culderon, and would, with an army of 1200 discipanied troops, together with many new reastits, set out immediately on his march for Mexico. This intelligence is also confirmed by a letter from a respectable merchant of Tampico, which we give below.

Colonel Mejica, formerly charge d'affaires of the Mexican government at Washington, had serived at Tampico, charged with a special message from Santa Anna, the object of which, it is said, was to accertain the state of the city and its means of defence. Ten thousand dollars, sent suited by superior numbers, put their assailants to by Santa Anna, to pay the troops, had been received at great deal of expense and trouble.

The brother-in-law of Santa Anna, who was here a few weeks since, came passenger in the Emperor.

Extract of a letter from a respectable American merchant to his friend in this city, received by the Emperor, dated "Tampioo, May 25, 1832.

"Times brighten on us. The invading army at Vera Cruz has rused the seige and refrented; and Santa Anna is in full pursuit. On the receipt of the news sering tim, -of our friends No. 11, a great number has aiready come in, and the whole division is to march on Monday up the country. Sants Anna says in his letter to col. S. that he will be in Mexico in eight days from this date. Jahapa, Puebla, l'erote, &c. have prenumeed in favor of Santa Anna, and rumours are affant that Mexico is also in his favor. All goes well. Migom is kicked out, and Pricto is administrator in Two rail-road cars ran foul of each other on Thursday night, and such was the violence of the concussion, that one of the horses was thrown to the distance of fifteen feet, and the shafts of the two cars s'attered to pieces. We neglected to mention that the Emportum resppear ed on Thursday, under the editorial direction of colouel G. W. Boyd and Charles W. Sl. aumburgh, esquire. To do so at the present moment affords undoubted evidence of the perfect sincerity with which the new editors will advocate the cause they have espoused. One of our morning contemporaries announces that the Hudsen sives broke up on the 14th ult. (May!) We had well nigh been caught in the same anachronism, by the receipt of a Baltimore paper of "March 17th," in which the particulars, summed up by our contemporary, are detalled at length, and which has doubtless reached us by the way of Kamskatka or Nootka Sound. We must all be greedy for news, and ought to be excus d under present circumstances, for laying violent hands upon anything that has happened since the days of Noah's flood."

It gives us pleasure to learn that the amateurs who per formed at the Orleans theatre for the benefit of the Male Orphan Aslum, will re-enact the same pieces, on Sunday evening, for the benefit of a poor but meritorious widow It is to be hoped that many of the readers of this side of our paper, whose presence we witnessed on the former oceasion, will again yie'd to the impulses of charity and encourage the young gentlemen in question in their efforts to soothe the afflictions of a desolate widow.

An instance of uncommon precocity was mentioned to us this morning. It was of a young girl in this city, of shout four years of age, who, without greatly exceeding the size of girls of herage, exhibits all the puberty of one of twenty. Louisiana against the world!

The Philadelphia Gazette droje a tean over a remarkable hen, which died lately at Wilmington. It had four legs and four wings, but could neither walk nor fly. It was an apt illustration of the Jackson and Van Buren, and the Cathoun and Clay parties of our republic, which manage effectually to prevent the march of public affairs as to nder them either walkin: or flying. Such hens ought to can system combined with nullification

Governor Hamilton, of South Carolina, whose term of office is about to expire, has just been elected brigadier general of the first brigade of the militia of that state. The anticipation of a resort to force in resisting the tariff, has induced this singular step. The corps wished a leader upon whom they could rely in the impending crisis. Gov. H. is to be succeeded in the executive chair by Mr. Hayne of the senate. South Capolina is evidently placing herself in an attitule of defiance of the laws of the union, and the Haynes, the Hamiltons, the McDuslies, and Harpers are not men who are likely to shrink from a purpose that is evidently resolutely determined on. The consul of the United States at Barcelous has addrassed a letter to the commander general of the province of Catalonia in Spain, in which he makes the warmest acknowledgments for the kind and hospitable treatment extouded by the captain of a Spanish vessel to the captain and whole concerns had been conducted—and demonstra crew of the American brig Luvincible. A great contrariety of opinion has always prevailed, as the propriety of reading novels. Many individuals, onit unjustly and opprossively upon contractors and pust ment in literature, have contended that they desipate the energies of the mind, and unfit it not only for serious etc. dies, but for the rule collisions of Ma. They way in which novels have the greatest effect to nischief, is when the principal personages have, mixed up in them, virtues and vices in undue proportions, and with such art that the mind is dazzled, and the distinctness of its perceptions confounded. Many instances of fictitious histories that are extremely permicious in this respect, might be adduced; but we will only mention the productions of Fielding, which are still read with avidity, and those of Bulwer, the heroes of which can still charm, although, like Byron's Corsair, they are characterized by "one wirtue

" But we are writing an essay when we only latend to call attention to a series of useful works published by the prothers Harpers of New York, under the title of "The Family Library," which are calculated, in a remarkable degree, to blend instruction and amusement upon the same page. The last of the series is entitled "The eventful history of the mutiny of the Bounty, by John Ranow, secretary to the British a imiralty," in which the particula of the settlement of Pitcairn's Island, as well as an ac count of its present condition, are related upon the an thority of original documents on file in the admiralty. of fice. They average about three hundred and fity. The force of the Indians, according to the most authentic information, varies from five to seven hundred. We saw recently in one of the newspapers, some very judicious remarks with regard to the propriety an necessity of attaching to every American steamboat, several smaller boars, which would be rendered of in-inediate and indi-pensible service in case of a disaster by fire, or the explosion of a boiler. The recommendation is most sound and cogent. The nightest glance at the situation of the passengers in these vessels, in a moment of accident, will suffice to show, that any thing which will remove them from the immediate cene of danger, and convey them safely beyond its inthence, is not to be held in disesteem or passed lightly by. The recent calamity of the Brandywine is fresh n the public mod; and the present therefore is an opportune moment to enforce the absolute, necessity o precautionary measures against such distressing mis hapa. It is painful to think what inevitable des would await the travellers in any of our stranboats on such large bodies of water as the Chesa eak Bay, or Long Island Sound, should the craft take fire, or the boiler collapse. Escape would be beyond the dream of hope; and the rush into the little narrow, spare boat which hangs at the side of the large one, would be an sability. On Long Island Sound, or on Loke Ontario under ordinary circumstances, a boat of that description being in the least degree overloaded, could not live, even in the common ground swell of these waters.

Some objection might, at the first glimpse of the anh ject, be made to the inconvenience of appending super lous boats to the large steam craft of our sound and rivers. It might be supposed that they would be umbersome, and retard the progress of the vessi whose safety they were calculated to ensure. On rivers perhaps the may have some weight; but on wide waters, none. There is a sufficiency of room on bays and sounds, for passing any cost; for veering and tack-ing, and all the play which a steamboar needs. But, when a bost is on lire; when the rapidity with which the spirit of steam impels it onward, adds inconcerv able fury to the devouring element, what, on such unstes of waters, can rescue the passengers from said den death,' but the instantaneous launching and man-ging of those smaller life boxes, which should be suffi e ently numerous to remove all the travellers, without

This subject, in our opinion, is a serious one; and deserves to be earnestly considered. Deserters of the kind we have hinted at, have of late years increased; and people read of steamboat accidents now-midnys, al most without emotion. Familiarity with their details, has softened in the imagination the horrors of the real my; and thus, we conclive is an indifference begot in matter, which argues tittle for the public safety .-We should be content if some able mind can be induced to reason with the public on so important a theme from the hints which in a hurried manner, we have now thrown together .-- Phil. Much credit is due to the chairman Mr. Grundy, and the other members of the post office summittee, for their minute and inhorious investigation into the various post routes contained in this bill, being about seven hund ed in number. The beneficial effects which will be derived to the public from this measure connot be estimated boo highly, when it is recollected that mail accommodations will be extended over twenty thou and six hundred miles, in addition to the hun dred and ten thousand over which the mail is now transported-and this will be done from the resources of that department alone, which, during the Lat session of congress was denounced, by the opposition, as insolvent and totally bankru t. We hope to be able in a few weeks, to lay before mr readers, the two able and eloquent speeches of Mr. Grandy, while the bill was in progress, upon the proosition to repeal the pastage on newspapers, in which he gave a full and satisfactory account of the true condition of the department, and the manner in which its kindness and attention were afterwards menifested towards of the large printing establishments in the castern of or of the country, and the consequent increased power ties, to influence the politics of the Nation.
