PRINTED BY F. DELAUNOY. NEW ORLEANS: MONDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1830.

Mr. Editor.—The system adopted in this section of the Union, by persons invented with temporary power when a change of our Executive Pilots took place, was looked upon by every cool, deliberating, good citizen as a species of oppression—unlooked for, unmerited; in many instances indiscreet—insane, ungrateful. In the heat of blind political rage such vices are apt to stain this generally frail lump of humanity; they are irresistible only to the sternest stuff, and consequently will find some palliatives. True has at length soured our angry passions, and exposed to our view errors which it is not yet too late to rectify. We must be first to reason if a mere difference of opinion should have the power of banishing gratitude, the cherished, noblest pulsation of the human heart; and under the influence of feeling inseparable from our nature we cannot but deplore that blind zeal and mistaken policy, which has driven from a living, dearly earned from our country a meritorious native citizen solely for a Political opinion; with his country's earnest interests at heart, but with an imaginary error of the head; in fine for having an opinion, and firmness enough to declare it. In this peculiar situation stands Capt. Wm. Blunt, a former subordinate Officer in the Custom House of N. Orleans. In the vicissitudes and changes of life, after measuring three score and ten years, with a sound mind and good constitution, the turn of fortune's wheel, two years since, threw him, once more, into the arms of his country, with the expectation that she would receive his services for his future support. But humanum est errare; and when power is exercised, with prejudice for a counselor, reason is placed hors de combat.

Accidentally took up a paper titled the Mirror, which two years since contained a brief sketch of Capt. Blunt's career in life, and the inducement for his introduction into the Custom House by our former esteemed Collector. It was written by one of Capt. Blunt's associates in times of peril, an extract from which here follows: "The many respectable applicants must submit with patience to the choice this gentleman has made of a man to fill the office of Guager—and attach no political motives to the gift; as it is an adopted principle of our government, to reward the services of our surviving revolutionary Patriots. Captain Blunt, the present incumbent, was attached from the cradle, during our struggle for independence, marshalled to the field and sold—"there's the oppressor's host, which must be vanquished ere we breathe the air of Frenchmen." He is a native of N. H.—A true blooded Yankee. While pursuing his studies, in '75 '76, he was compelled to follow his father, and face our common enemy. Was, though young, assistant in the Commissary department, in the rear of our army, at the capture of General Burgoyne; was, at the siege and defeat at Rhode Island, attached to a volunteer troop of cavalry; commanded by the patriotic John Langdon, (afterwards Governor of N. Hampshire.) Captain Blunt then embarked on board the Continental ship of War Ranger, in which ship he continued until her surrender at Charleston (S. C.) with our Army and Navy, May 12th, 1780.

There he was exchanged and joined the ship Royal Louis, mounting 20 guns, which continued a cruising ship until her capture by a superior force, while in the act of manning her prizes. Falling in with the fleet bound to Quebec and Halifax, Blunt's fate was to be thrown into a Prison Ship at St. Johns, N. F. crowded with French prisoners and vermin; and there suffered to lie nine months; thence redeemed, he embarked on board the ship St. Tammany of 20 guns.—Cruising on the West India station, was attacked by a superior force, and, after a dreadful carnage, carried by boarding. He was once more, by this mishap, a prisoner at Basseterre, St. Kitts; and while there, with five others, desperately attempted, at the dead of night, and succeeded in cutting out a sloop, then on the eve of sailing, and under the guns of the Port. Two cutters gave chase, with an incessant fire, until they reached the island of St. Eustatia, a neutral port, and under the protection of a Dutch 64, then lying in the roads. From thence he made his escape to his native land, and while in the act of embarking on board the ship America, under the command of the Chevalier Paul Jones the peace was ratified. Capt. Blunt then retired industriously to his domestic pursuits, without a fee for his services of five years—he reared and settled a respectable family, and at the commencement of our last struggle was an active and useful magistrate in the county of Hancock, now state of Maine. War breaking out at this period, this section of the country was left a prey to our ancient foe. Capt. B. immediately repaired to his country's standard—struck to it during the victorious tug of war; and at the close of it was attached to the Flying Squadron, commanded by the brave Decatur, which changing its original destination, afterwards sailed from New York, and paid all the tribute due from a free people by vengeful thunders in ears of the Algerine barbarians.

Persuading still, and full of enterprise, soon after the cession of Florida, Captain Blunt built the first vessel of magnitude that had been built in the Territory—named after the first Delegate, Gen. Call—navigated her himself as a packet, until his unfortunate shipwreck and total loss on the coast, and after 30 days suffering, in want of wholesome food and water, was humanely taken to the Balize by the Branch Pilots, Silva, Pollock & Co. In this extremity, he came to one of the considerate faithful public officers of our government,—produced the testimonials of many respectable characters, and solicited once more an opportunity to serve his country. Mr. Chew has placed him in a situation where we presume he will prove satisfactory to his patron, and beneficial to the service.

The sentiments expressed in our introduction to the above extract, and the liberal feelings which the whole man naturally excite are in accordance with, and reciprocated by very many of our respectable Ship-Masters from the different sections of the Union by many Merchants of high reputation, and many estimable private citizens; all of whom would rejoice to see Capt. Blunt reinstated, considering it an obligation on our country. A friend to Justice.

York 585, Boston 929, Providence, N. L. 384, Portsmouth, N. H. 462; together 12335 bales, making an increase of stock of 2789 bales, and leaving on hand, inclusive of all on ship board not cleared on the 6th instant, a stock of 47723 bales, less the amount lost by fire in the enclosures of Messrs L. Tessier and Co. on the 3d inst., and which we neglected to ascertain until too late for press, reported to be less than 200 bales. We postpone the deduction to our next sales have been very limited this week, and the market less animated than would have been anticipated from the previous business. We have, notwithstanding, by advice, advanced a shade on Louisiana and Mississippi choice, and prime Tennessee and N. Alabama, as well as quotations in the Liverpool classification continue the same.

TOBACCO.—First quality—Small sales have been made at from 4 3/4 to 5; arrivals are tardy and operations consequently limited. FLOUR.—No alteration in prices save for that quality, call it shipping. Sales $4 25. POKE.—Mess, inspected, $9 a 11; asked and looking up. BACON.—No change, save in hams, which meet better sales at 7 & 7 1/2. FISH.—Mackerel No. 3, reduced to $4 last sales, for other numbers former quotations are continued. Salmon.—1 gallon keg advanced a shade, 75 a 90 cents. SHIP CHANDLERY, IRON, &c.—Our quotations have been examined and corrected by acquaintances in the trade; we refer to them without further comment. HAY.—Scarce and in demand. Cargo 1 1/4 a 1 1/2 ct. WESTERN PRODUCE, generally.—Where specific remark has not been made, remains without material alteration; though from information, we say that prospects appear at this moment rather more animated than they were last week, owing no doubt to diminution in arrivals and a disposition to export, more than noticed in our last.

ORLEANS BALL ROOM. THE Administration have the honor to announce to the Ladies, to whom they are accustomed to send invitations, that in future the Masked Balls will take place on every Wednesday and Saturday of each week.
