To the end of Trio imitate Anvil blows in \( \frac{3}{4} \) time.

Hissing noise of bellows.

I am the Jelly Copper-smith, No one from care is free; So long as I have cash, To while I mend the pots and pans, My sweetheart passes by, And peeps thro' the window. With when my long day's work is done, The moments quickly pass, I sing to my sweetheart.

I treat myself to keep, I am the happiest man on earth; And sing both loud and long. While looks so bright and shap, The sunshine of her glance makes me happy as a king, I empty many a glass, Thus day by day the hours roll by, To me dull care's a myth.

Each stroke of my hammer keeps time to my jovial song, I want no prouder title than The Jelly Copper-smith! La la la la la la la
