NEW-ORLEANS:
MONDAY MORNING, JULY 29, 1844.

The New York Evening Post utters a lugubrious jeremiad over the future of the Texas question in this State. The Post is the leading locofoco organ in New York, and is conducted with signal ability and with infinitely more decorum than most of the locofoco presses. Its remarks may, therefore, be considered with more attention than the frothy incubrations of the Plebeian, and other prints of the same kidney, generally merit — The Post says:

"On looking over the returns of the Louisiana election, as far as they have been received, it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that the make-weight of the Texas question, by which it was expected to carry the State in favor of the democratic ticket, has not had the effect which many anticipated. The whigs, it is true, have nothing to boast of; but they who thought that the Texas question would carry all before it, are disappointed."

That last line contains an emphatic truth. The Texas question was never urged upon the locofocos in this State with a commensurate ardor, and flung to with the zeal city of a bona constructor. They thought they were playing a sure card—that Mr. CLAY had essentially used himself up by not supporting Capt. TYLER's famous project, and that Mr. VAN BUREN being laid on the shelf, and Mr. POLK, an immediate annexationist, being nominated in his stead, the State would go by them by countless thousands. They miscalculated the intelligence and patriotism of the people. Texas no longer comes from our ranks armed as an interested speculation, and the people certainly be gotten in who do not see immediate annexation, a great political misfortune. In the district, immediately on the cessation of the young Republic, where it was expected that the question would assert all its force, it, the result shows a whig gain of over 400 since last year. Well may the Post lament this measure, by which the counsel of Mr VAN BUREN succeeded in driving that gentleman from public life, and in uniting a candidate who has led exactly Texas and the chivalry, can make no impression on the stalwart whig phalanx.

We do not agree with the Post in the views from which it draws the inference that a large portion of the people of Louisiana are not friendly to the immediate annexation of Texas. We believe that there is an overwhelming majority of the people of this State in favor of annexation, but we have no doubt a respectable minority are opposed to the consummation of the late treaty. At all events the people are not to be diverted from the great principles which divide the two parties, by extraneous questions forced upon them for the merest partisan purposes.

HERALDRY.—We are indebted to Mr. A. Tete, through the politeness of Captain Hart of the Steamer Brilliant, for some very handsome specimens of engraving on glass, the invention of Mr. Englehart in Germany, to which he has given the application of Hydrofluoric acid. The art is a novel one, but the experiment has been hitherto attended with great danger to the artist, which the present inventor has entirely guarded. The specimens alluded to are beautifully executed, and would appear to indicate a superiority over steel and other engravings; and we trust that in time its later will be superseded by the more common. Dr. Brigham's charge for engraving the arms of the discovery, in twenty lines of any French inscription or establishment.

☞ A letter to the editors of the National Intelligencer from a subscriber in North Carolina under date of July 11, says: "In the Old North State, where everything is going well, we shall certainly elect our Governor by a large majority, retain the Senate of Congress, and probably the Senate of the State. We look to see more battle and are using greater exertions than I ever saw them. They are met by our friends at all points, and frequently meet with overwhelming defeat, as did Gen. Saunders at Greenville, on his encounter with Mr Stanly."

☞ The Cedar Typonic of Iowa contains a letter announcing the removal of the seat of government from Iowa City to Le Grande Reeves, of Pennsylvania, at once gave to the locofocos. Gov. K was astounded and indignant when he heard the story, and declared that the squad so soon cut for the right hand as desert leading locofocos of principle." No matter, those whom he cursed him as a Palmer will not contradict it, but will be published abroad as the base-bred locofoco patriots.

The Locofocos are crowing over the pretended conversion of Messrs. Brown and Stewart in Maryland. Let us see. Mr. Brown was a Harrison Editor in 1836, but deserted the whigs in 1837. So he is a convert of seven years standing. Mr. Stewart is a genuine case. He voted against the whigs because they were Tyler men, when they carried the Baltimore city for the first time in 600 majority, thus demonstrating the extent of his influence.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.—The States which elect vote for President are Pennsylvania and Ohio. They vote on the Friday fifth preceding the first Wednesday in December," which is the 1st November. North Carolina is the last State which votes—it, on the 14th November.

GREAT LONGEVITY.—At Key West, a few days ago, a woman by the name of Tina Lewis died. She had attained the astonishing age of 117 years. She had resided on the coast for the last 30 years, and was formerly a slave in one of the British W. I. islands. Her faculties remained unimpaired to the day of her death.

☞ In Philadelphia, a few days since, two companies of companies—Calpine Fairlamb and Sanders—had a quarrel which terminated in blows. Rifle pistols were situated and bowie knives in the suite of $10 each.

A DREADFUL STEAMBOAT EXPLOSION.—The Baltimore Patriot contains a letter dated Rio Janeiro, May 25th, giving an account of a steamboat accident which occurred at that place on the 25th, attended with appalling loss of life. The following is an extract:—

"This city was thrown into great excitement on Saturday last by an occurrence which has claimed a large number of the inhabitants in mourning, and cast a gloom over the whole city. On the opposite side of the harbor, and distant about four miles, is a village, which numbers about three or four thousand souls, and where a number of the most respected inhabitants reside, as being more retired than in the bustle of Rio. Two small steamboats ply every hour during the day between the two places, so that the number of passengers are large, especially upon holidays, for recreation. Saturday was one of these days, and at four o'clock in the afternoon about three hundred persons were upon the boat from the wharf of the city, and the boat had just pushed from the moorings when the boiler burst with a terrific report and explosion.

"A friend of mine, who was present, represents the scene as the most heart-rending that the imagination can conceive. The boat was instantly enveloped in the smoke the shrieks of the wounded, the cries of the drowning, and the confusion of the moment, the most callous heart would have melted into tenderness. The number killed remains to be gathered as soon as possible and removed to a neighboring hospital—some with the loss of a limb, some dreadfully scalded—and upon numbering those on board there were found to be missing and in the house, besides those removed to private dwellings. There were fifty two ascertained to have been killed, and several persons are missing yet.

"Seven or eight have died since, and I am informed there are as many as twenty who are pronounced incurable, and will probably linger in agony for many days. The number of wounded who are still living, as far as ascertained, is about sixty five. This is the first accident of the kind which has ever occurred here, and has created much excitement. All places of public amusement were closed, and have not since been opened."

MELANCHOLY SUICIDE.—The body of Mr. T. M. Aspinwall, a highly respected and worthy citizen, was found yesterday morning in a secluded part of the back yard in the rear of Jordaineau street, on the East River, Brooklyn. In his pockets were three one ounce, and one two ounce vials, labelled laudanum. From the fact that every one of the one ounce vials which was full and from which he had in vain attempted to draw the cork with his teeth. His face was bruised, apparently by his fall. Mr. Aspinwall was about 50 years of age. He has left an amiable family and always enjoyed the esteem and respect of all who knew him. He appeared to be dull and low spirited of late, and was assisted by his family on Thursday evening. He was a regular communicant at St. Thomas' Church. No cause whatever can be assigned for the act.—N. Y. Courier.

THE OLD TRICK.—A letter from Mouth Chunk (Pa.) to the Philadelphia Pennsylvanian, closes as follows:—"Put down Tariff in every manifesto or the Tariff, and throw to the fur Polk, Dallas, Muhlenberg and Shunk to the fur Polk, Dallas, Muhlenberg and Harrisburg. Truly yours, CARBON.

Thus it is, that the attempt to deceive the people is to be perpetrated in "Polk and the Tariff" to be the cry in Pennsylvania, and "Polk and Free Trade" the watchword in South Carolina and Virginia! This is carrying out the locofoco doctrine, it will be late in politics. But an intelligent people are not to be so deceived. The Charleston Courier thus understand Mr. Polk's position:

"Mr. Polk's defense his principles:

All-democratic Tariff on the Tariff, the Bank and the Sub-Treasury, Annexation of Texas, the Southern to the Rio Grande, and the Northern to Fifty-four forty."

☞ We are honored in Boston Bowers, of the Sub Treasury, and Mr. Polk's position on the Texas question. Of the three propositions of the Democratic platform, the Tariff, the Bank and the Sub-Treasury, Mr. Polk is for the Tariff, the Bank and the Sub-Treasury.

ARRIVAL OF THE HIBERNIA.

Saturday's mail brought later advices from Europe by the steamship Hibernia, which arrived at Boston on the morning of the 17th, bringing the mail of the 4th instant, and 116 passengers.

The Cotton market in England and on the continent was firm, and prices fully maintained, with a slight advance in Liverpool the business has been large, and American sorts and Surats were fully one-eighth of a penny higher.

By the Caledonia steamer from Boston which reached England on the 29th, intelligence of the ratification of the Texas treaty was carried out. Although anticipated, the news was received with satisfaction, as removing a cause of possible difficulty.

The Corn Law debate, on Mr. Villier's motion for a committee, after lasting two days, was terminated by a rejection of the motion—in other words, by affirming the existing Corn Laws, which virtually exclude foreign wheat and flour—by a vote of 328 to 124, majority for direct protection for England's Agriculture 201.

The Bank bill had passed through the committee on the House of Commons, substantially as proposed by Sir R. Peel.

The principal intelligence brought by the Indian mail of the 30th May, relates to the state of the Punjab, which appears now to be more distracted than ever. A bloody fight is stated to have taken place on the 7th of May, between Heera Singh, the present Prime Minister and the party of the sons of Ranjeet Singh, who are opposed to him, led on by Jitur Singh, a bold ruinable rebellion. In September last, when Ajeet Singh had murdered the then King Sher Singh, and he was himself slain in a fight with Heera Singh, who avenged the death of his father, Dhean, by ordering all the family of Ajeet to be butchered. One boy 9 years, was allowed to live, and an uncle, named Jitur or Utter Singh, escaped into the Sikh states, protected by the British. After seven months' residence, he went back on the 20th of April, and joined the party under Cashmera Singh and Peshaura Singh, both sons (though of minor ranks) of old Ranjeet Singh. They proceeded to attack Heera Singh, and a bloody conflict took place, in which Heera is said to have been wounded. Jitur Singh was considered by some of the partisans of Heera as being supported by the British, and then they saw how he threatened to invade the territories of the latter, to revenge themselves on those who countenanced the proceedings of Jitur Singh.

The ill-restrained movement of the notorious Akbar Khan on Peshawur has not been place. The position of his father, Dhost Mohamed, was by a-means safe. factory, his age, his infirmities, and the complicated state of the affairs of Cabul, would it was thought, induce him to resign his sovereignty into the hands of one of the royal branches.

The news from Persian states to the 16th of May — the Chiefs—Nejeef was still encamping on the plains of Mesopotamia, with his army, which had been increased to 20,000 men. Ameer Khan, the Governor of Bagdad, was collecting a force of 17,000 of them would attend, each having an armed attendant.

The Bengal troops had arrived at Shikaur, where they were making arrangements for be using themselves—Gen. Hunter was expected there from Ferozepore.

In the first three days of May, 1,000 men from the Queen Dowager against the British, and the Regent established there, for a mission and a threat had been given to her on the part of the Sirdars, that unless Jowahir Singh was put to death the Sirdars would depose him. The ancient regent was therefore obliged to consent, and the people were satisfied, for an accident police had been arranged by the British officers. The ancient regent was murdered, and the Sirdars, who had been called in by Heera, and who had taken possession of by the troops from Shoon and Jeanghur.

The succession of all by the British to the throne of India is inevitable, as it was going to turn out in the Maratta war.

The other parts of India were tranquil, and expected to be so during the rainy season.

From China, dates up to 10 in April—but they furnish little of interest. The English papers compel us to remark that "American drills and other manufactures and a vent where Hennis goods cannot. For all kinds goods the market was dull."

FRANCE.

The most important item of intelligence is an outbreak between France and Morocco. The circumstances leading to it are thus related.

The most interesting portion of the intelligence received from France since our last publication relates to the affairs of Algeria and Morocco. The Emperor of Moro co, on receiving the report of the defeat sustained by his troops, disavowed the conduct of their commander. It appears that another attack was made by the French army in an entrenched camp on a position, which is Guernsey, the son of the Emperor was engaged in negotiating with General Bugeaud, a spot as all three questioned a signed with French caption the Ouled Mourah. The attack was made by the French troops, and the Moors, without the knowledge of their chief. The conference was of course, abruptly interrupted, and the French being taken by surprise, at first retired in good order, they in the end repelled the enemy, and inflicted a severe loss on the side of the enemy. More than 300 are dead on the field of battle, not including those carried away by the defeated. On the side of the victors 30 men were wounded and killed, amongst the latter a young officer of great promise, the son of Gen. Rapatel. The affair well out, it is said, create much further difficulties, as it was the spontaneous act of the leader—Between the negotiations was interrupted, the French demanded that, for the future, Morocco should be furnished at Abd el Kader, who was to be in no manner responsible for the acts of the Emperor. The demand was refused, after long discussion, to refer the matter to the decision of the diplomatic body.

According to a letter from Algeria of the 30th, Abd el Kader had been joined by numerous adherents, and had collected an army of 12,000 men, with which he intended to invade the territories of the Emperor, to revenge themselves on those who countenanced the proceedings of Emir Abdel.
