

By Telegraph.
RAILROAD CATASTROPHES.
LOUISVILLE, Dec. 8.—A regular train of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad was passing the town of Allenton, Ohio, this morning, when it was struck by a freight train. There were several persons killed and many injured.

NEW YORK MARKETS.
NEW YORK, December 8.—Four has advanced to 1 1/2. Cotton is quiet at 15. Corn is dull. Pork closed buoyant; mess is quoted at 16. Whisky active at 34 cents.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY.
The tragedy of the 23rd of November, says the Herald, was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY.
The tragedy of the 23rd of November, says the Herald, was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY.
The tragedy of the 23rd of November, says the Herald, was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY.
The tragedy of the 23rd of November, says the Herald, was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY.
The tragedy of the 23rd of November, says the Herald, was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY.
The tragedy of the 23rd of November, says the Herald, was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY.
The tragedy of the 23rd of November, says the Herald, was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY.
The tragedy of the 23rd of November, says the Herald, was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY.
The tragedy of the 23rd of November, says the Herald, was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind. It was a tragedy of the most extraordinary kind.