Democratic Festival

ON THE GLORIOUS 23d OF DECEMBER.

Pursuant to arrangements previously entered into by the general committee, the day was ushered in by the discharge of 100 guns.

At 11 o'clock the marshals of the day, and a large number of Democrats assembled in the public square, for the purpose of proceeding to the battle ground. The steamboat Walter Scott, had been procured and properly decorated, for the purpose of carrying out friends to the Battle Ground. On board of the boat were two pieces of cannon, which were discharged every minute, during the trip of the boat.

At 12 precisely, the company assembled on board the boat and after a most agreeable trip arrived at the place designated for the morning proceedings. After another trip—and also owing to the increase of visitors—after a trip by the Ferry Boat Jackson, Mr. Bernard Marigny, one of the orators of the day, addressed the multitude; it was one of the happiest efforts of our eloquent fellow citizen. It was listened to with intense attention, and the burst of approbation of the thousands who were present, was frequent, loud and long.

Mr. John R. Grymes, in pursuance to the arrangements, also addressed the people. We need only say that Mr Grymes reputation for eloquence and patriotism were fully sustained. The heart of every freeman present thrilled with the most intense sensations of devotion to the Democratic party and its venerable leader, when the orator pointing at the spot where the Hero had met and conquered the foe!—"20 years ago!" he exclaimed "he proved true as you then, he has ever proved true to you since, and though assailed by all the slanderous of a corrupt opposition—he has never deserted you nor abandoned those principles upon which we have placed our faith." We trust we will be able at the earliest opportunities to place before our readers the speeches of both the orators. They cannot but excite the interest and elicit the approbation of the Democracy of our country.

In the field, and also on the boats very fine bands of music were placed.

A number of ladies graced the ceremonies of the field and though the weather during the ceremonies was threatening yet our Democratic fair friends were not deterred from appearing to celebrate the triumph of their fathers brothers and husbands over a power which has threatened every thing near and dear to their happy country.

The company were brought back and landed in safety opposite the public square. The company were then formed in the public square, under the directions of the marshals of the day, and preceded by music, passed through Chartres street up to the Arcade, the place designated by the Committee for the Dinner.

The room, one of the most splendid in our country, is about 400 feet in length, lighted from above by a glass roof about 40 feet from the ground. The room can be entered from Natchez and Gravier streets. Two rows of table, had been laid the whole extent, sufficient to accommodate at least 1000 persons. The room was most splendidly decorated, and illuminated by gas, and variegated lamps. At one end was a splendid full length portrait of General Washington, over which were the figures 76, and the letter L, which were lighted by gas, and had a most happy effect—At the other end was the full length picture of Andrew Jackson belonging to Sidney Collect, over which were transparencies of Washington, Jackson, Carroll, Jefferson, and Van Buren, with appropriate mottoes. Flags of all nations waved throughout the room, evergreens, orange trees, and similar decorations, were tastefully arranged, and produced a beautiful effect. Bands of music were stationed at each end of the tables, in the galleries.

At quarter past 6 the company were seated under the presidency of the following gentlemen:

President—Denis Prieur. Martin Gordon, M Feldwyn, Gen Planche, J H Holland, B Z Canonge, Dr D C Ker, Pro. sidents.

B Marigny, M Gordon, jr. W Ballitt, Dr J S McFarlane, P J Triche, John Wheeler, N Hoey, P Doherty, W Christy, A A Sumrall, S High, John Wiley, J B Grymes, P Power, Vice Presidents.

The committee for procuring the dinner did their duty in the most satisfactory manner, and with the full approbation of all present. Abundance of the most excellent food graced the table, and wines flowed upon the tables from all parts but we are happy to say, that much to the dissatisfaction of the Whigs, no excess of any kind was committed, a feeling of unbounded joy, and hilarity pervaded the bosom of all. Speeches of an appropriate and patriotic character, were delivered from various points of the tables, for it was impossible for one voice to fill the room. The regular toasts were given in the following order and drank with the most unbounded applause.

1st. The United States of America. Music.

2d. The State of Louisiana: In the great Presidential elections she has been found on the side of Democracy; and she will appear again in 1836, in her right place. Music.

3d. The Army and Navy of the United States: They have always shown themselves able and willing to defend the interests and honor of the American people. Music.

4th. The President of the United States. He never met a foe of his country that he did not conquer. Whilst the Democracy of the Nation is led on by such a leader, the Federalist, the Nullifier and the Bank Monopolist, must never expect that success can attend their anti-republican and unconstitutional designs. Music.

5th. The Vice President of the United States: Although assailed, through all the channels of public and private abuse, no man has yet been able to discover a stain or fix a reproach upon the political or private character of MARTIN VAN BUREN. The Democracy of the United States will not fail, in due time, to confer upon him the highest gift in their possession. Music.

6th. The Day we Celebrate: Whilst rejoicing with our political friends throughout the Union, at the recent glorious victories, we cannot forget that this day twenty years the inhabitants of this city and State successfully repelled a foreign foe. Their deeds live in the grateful hearts of their countrymen. Music.

7th. The State of New York: She has nobly "fought the good fight." Music.

8th. The State of Pennsylvania: The coffers of the United States Bank could not corrupt her honest yeomanry. Music.

9th. The States of Maine and New Jersey. They have been tried, but not found wanting. Music.

10th. The City of New York: Let political traitors look to the next congressional election, and learn their reward. Music.

11th. Richard M Johnson, Wm Rives, Th H Benton, & H Tazewell, and John Forsyth: Their services in behalf of the republican party entitle them to its warmest gratitude. Music.

12th. France: The birth place of our venerated Lafayette to every old and respected ally. A nation to which we are bound by the strongest ties and predilections. May her chambers of legislation—the representatives of a great and chivalrous people—accord their approbation of the treaty intended to satisfy the just and admitted claims of an important portion of the American people. Music.

13th. The Ladies of Louisiana: They can never be forgotten in the festivities of the Democrats of this city and state. Music.

It was a noble sight to see so many hundreds of freemen rallying at one time, and joining with all their soul, their patriotic effusions. It was a night that will never fade from the remembrance of those present. They will all turn to the 23d December, 1834, as one of the most happy epochs of their lives. During the dinner hundreds of ladies and gentlemen passed around the galleries—overlooking the table—and it was admitted that the Hope Walk Celebration could not be offered in opposition to the thrilling scene before them. To see the strength and democratic voices of thousands joining in applause of the principles and measures of our venerable President, was truly a spectacle which inspired the most patriotic sentiments.

A large number of the fairest guests were present.

Col. Teague, Adjutant General of the army, were present as invited guests.

A number of gentlemen from the neighboring States, who had been invited, honored the company with their presence. [illegible] them from being present. A large proportion of the invited guests were present, but we are unable at this time to give an exact list. We shall take another opportunity to perform this agreeable duty.

[illegible] a bumper for toasts, after which the company [illegible]

At an early hour the company retired, and we trust all with a firm resolution to make additional exertions, if necessary, to ensure the permanency and success of the Democratic party.

In our next, we shall furnish our readers with the speeches delivered upon the occasion, the answers of invited guests, and the volunteer toasts, which we are compelled to postpone for the present.

We understand that an important and highly interesting case is to be tried in the U. S. District Court on Friday next. It is the case of Chicas vs. Gibson, late Collector of this port. Messrs. Carleton & Mazureau will conduct the defence—and Messrs. Bullard & Soulé will appear for the Petitioner. From the nature of the case, and the well known ability of the Counsel engaged, we have no doubt but that the cause will be ably and eloquently contested.

MOBILE, Dec 22, 1834.

FIRE.—The steamboat "Barry," lying at Dauphin street wharf in this city, discharging her freight of cotton, was discovered yesterday morning, about 3 o'clock, to be on fire in the hold. The alarm was instantly given, and the engines, with a celerity that does them all credit, (especially No. 3, which took the lead in time,) repaired to the spot forthwith. The fire had made such progress, that for a long time it seemed impossible to save the boat, and orders were several times given to tow her out into the stream, and leave her to burn, which orders were however as often countermanded. At length the untiring efforts of our firemen and citizens, brought the fire under subjection, and little after daylight quenched it entirely. The boat, it is believed, is not materially injured, as the fire was mainly confined to the cotton in her hold, and the blaze was smothered as much as possible by keeping the hatches closed fast. It is supposed between 40 and 50 bales of cotton will be lost, one half or all of which, insurance had been effected. There was no insurance whatever, we understand, on the boat. The fire is attributed, as we learn to accident, or to the carelessness of some of the hands, and not to design. The night had been damp and rainy, else there would perhaps have been a total destruction of all the cotton on the wharves below, amounting probably to 10 or 15 thousand bales, and also the wharves themselves, together with a great number of vessels and boats. We see not, therefore, in so great consternation and dismay at the calamity that has befallen us, as at the dreadful dangers from which we have so narrowly escaped.—Mobile Register.

Trial of the Convent Rioters.—The court opened this morning, and the evidence of Judge Fay was continued from yesterday and concluded. Messrs Fitch, Cutler, David Kelly, George R Barrett, John Kuhn, Richard Osborn, and George B Sisson, (a lad,) were the principal witnesses examined, none of whom swore positively to the identity of Buzzel, the prisoner. About 4 P. M., Henry Buck, the State's evidence, was called upon the stand and sworn positively to the identity of the prisoner, as being a leader, and related the particulars of the transactions previous to the main building of the Convent being entered by the rioters. The court then adjourned to 9 o'clock Friday, when the evidence of Buck will be continued.
