

Couch Troll: a three inch troll that lives in the cracks of couches and feeds on crumbs left behind from messy eaters. While his skin is that of a pinky mouse when born His fur is made of lint that accumulates around his body from the depths of the couch. He uses a toothpick as a weapon. He will poke the unsuspecting couch sitter on the butt while trying to steel change or whatever he can get his little hands on. This poke and run tactic is fun entertainment for the troll. He is very fast and hard to catch..
