IMPORTANT NOTICE.—Dr. ALEX. LEON, surgeon dentist of the city of Paris, has the honor to inform the public that he has opened his office at Royal street, No 100, corner of Conti.

The greatest skill, and prompt attention will be given in the arrangement of teeth of those who will favor him with their confidence, in order to merit a continuance of public favors. Dr. L. has had a single object in view, which is to make himself useful to Humanity, and to the community at large, by the practice of his profession, and his constant study of the means of rendering it more perfect, and less painful than it has been heretofore. Dr. L. has also discovered a remedy for the toothache, which, in the short space of a few minutes, entirely destroys the nerve, and renders the operation of filling the tooth perfectly painless. This remedy is perfectly innocent, and does not injure the tooth in the least degree. Dr. L. has also discovered a method of filling teeth with gold, which renders them perfectly white, and which will not change color
