Jackson, right or wrong, with other chambe tipe equally outrageous and improbable!!

We have remetedly called, as our readers are aware, for the slightest testimony to establish these uniformed slamderwand calemnies. But it has been in vain. All the ustisfaction we can get is the repetition of the same stale accu estions, to which has been added in the yesterday's number of the Advertiser, some insinuations (what relation they have w the contest heaven alone knows,) about Gen. Dawsen having run through his property; his fondness for dress, and the belief expressed that if his claims were submitted to the ion of tailors, he would carry the thing hollow, to use the classic language of that paper! This is called "a fair and conuneration of all his qualities for office." The Adverticer hopes by noisy blabbering and disgraceful falsehoods to sture the common sense of the people, and make them dishelieve the evidences of their own senses. The cofammaity are not so easily cheated, and have their eyes open to the deception which the Advertiser would practice upon them. The arts and flummery of a squad of politicasters who are siming to monopolize in their own precious peras all the high places in the state, will be of no avail t fool and wheedle the people of Louisiana.

according to the rules of evidence, the Louisiana is bound iblish his assertions. Let him but show that one of the one charging Judge Dawson with nullification, is true, and he may save himself the trouble of going farther. That will end the contest. The friends of Judge Dawson, a large majority of the people of Louisiana, will abandon him the moment that charge is substantiated. not the Coulsians aware of this, and does he not desire end the contest without going over unnecessary gr .unds?-But, independent of this consideration, we repeat, that the Louisiana having made the charges has become, as to them, the plaintiff in this case. On him lays the burden of nr. of. And if he deep not establish the accusation he has made be forfeits all consideration to be heard or credited further. To reason upon assertions would be folly. Let ricors be brought to beer upon the contest, and we rackies to lead willing to ear to them.

The Argue adduces it vatiety of from that our candidate should not be elected governor.-We find nothing in them but the same old string of asser tions, which have been reiterated a thousand times before and which we find repeated again in the Louisiana of yes terday. We refer the Argus to our remarks in answer to the ma as being equally applicable to it.

One word, however, particularly to the editor of the A gus: we had supposed that from his experience as a journalst, he would not have followed so foolisted plan of sustaining its manifest sacrifice of principle. Let it take courage, remembering that hanksied piece of advice, that a had excuse is botter than some at all.
