

THE NEW ORLEANS BEE.

Office 73 Chartres street.

NEW ORLEANS FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 29, 1864.

Vol. XVII—New Series. Vol. XXVI—Whole No. 13,092

NEW ORLEANS,
FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 29.
See our second page for notices and other important notices.

Notes at Auction This Day.

By E. Murphy, on the Lever hand of Carteret at 10 o'clock, auctioneer, &c., at 10 A.M.

By McMoran & Legay at 10 o'clock, A. M., at 10 Court-street, auctioneer.

Holloway's Fife and Drum.—Brought and sold at auction by the owner, who has come to us from their attack on the human body to except, no, or calling, music. He has got his drum and fife and will be sure to make good use of them. Sold every where.

This day, Messrs. McMurran & Landry will sell, at 10 o'clock, furniture, &c., and a fine Picnic Piano, at No. 70 Caliroo street, near Auditorium street.

We are requested to notify Hardware buyers that the large unentered sale, advertised by E. Murphy Angloumer, is postponed Monday May 1st, at 10 o'clock. See advertisement.

The particular attention of buyers and dealers is called to the fact that the sale of 125 bushels which takes place this day at 10 o'clock A. M. See advertisement.

Fauchier Leather.—For sale at the lowest market price at L. H. Richards, 76 Canal street, up stairs. See advertisement.

Perfume.—Mr. J. Angloumer has just transferred his perfumery to No. 71 Chartres street, between Court and Bienville streets. He will sell, exclusively, and always at the lowest prices.

Mos Mair.—Purposing the Question, we have received, with the compliance of the author, a copy of the following composition, dedicated to Miss Pauline Harris:

Proprietary of the Royalist in Detroit.
Written by G. C. L. Angloumer, Esq., Version of "Pueri Canentes," Ex-Music Team, New Orleans.

This is a sprightly and agreeable production in happy keeping with the theme. It is delicate without being tame, and spirituous but not bold. It is a pure and peculiar merit of its own, harking in a high degree skill, taste, and felicity of expression.

Additional from the South via Mobile.

IMPORTANT DIPLOMATIC COR-RESPONDENCE.

Karl Russell's Memorandum Regarding the Massacre and the Rebels

The Postscript has already contained extracts from Mobile papers to the 20th.

The sole extract of importance is the following:
"The sole Truth of the 17th inst., 'has been avowed by the rebels themselves, who brought with a copy of the [unpublished] correspondence of the authorities of the so-called Confederate Government, to the English Ambassador and Richmond, and Michael, on the subject of the massacre of the Federal prisoners at Fort Sumter, and the rebels' claim that what was to be expected of them, and the opportunity they had to save the lives of the truly captured, deserves all commendation.
It can be observed that the Anglo-Saxons have done their best, under a Government which is scarcely constituted by their actions; that it is not to be expected that the Patriots will do more for the slaves than the Confederates did for the slaves of the United States, while a prince-minded man like Mr. Lincoln, and the whole weight and power of that nation are on the side of the slaves. Indeed, the Government of the United States, by its actions, has done more for the slaves than the rebels did for the slaves."

H. B. M.'s Letter.

Mr. Judson Davis, etc., etc., Richmond, Va.
Dear Britannic Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to convey to you the following certain information, which I have been commended to make to you by the British Ambassador, who has a copy of the [unpublished] correspondence of the authorities of the so-called Confederate Government, to the English Ambassador
and Richmond, and Michael, on the subject of the massacre of the Federal prisoners at Fort Sumter, and the rebels' claim
that what was to be expected of them, and the opportunity they had to save the lives of the
truly captured, deserves all commendation.
It can be observed that the Anglo-Saxons have done their best, under a Government which
is scarcely constituted by their actions; that it is
not to be expected that the Patriots will do
more for the slaves than the Confederates did for
the slaves of the United States, while a prince-minded man like Mr. Lincoln, and the
whole weight and power of that nation
are on the side of the slaves. Indeed, the Government of the United States, by its
actions, has done more for the slaves than
the rebels did for the slaves."

Barton N. Harrison,
Private Secretary.

A Herold Financial Review.

In the U. S. Commercial Advertiser.

The London Correspondent states that Joint stock Banks, limited, a branch of the City of London, and Paris, under the auspices of the Government, for blockade running on a large scale, are speedily arranged for the use of the Confederate rebels.

The same source says that the British Government has given a full and entire recognition to the rebels, and that the British Ambassador has been instructed to make a concession to the rebels.

After consulting with the law officers of the Crown, Sir Davis is best assured that the decision that agents of the authorities of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for piracy, will be fully justified in the court of law.

He has also advised that the rebels, who are still in the country, will be held responsible for the massacre of the Federal prisoners at Fort Sumter.

The New York Post says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article on the subject, quotes from the Times of London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for piracy, and that the rebels will be held responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Herald says:

"The London Correspondent, in his article
on the subject, quotes from the Times of
London, that agents of the so-called Confederate States have been executed for
piracy, and that the rebels will be held
responsible for the massacre of the Federal
prisoners at Fort Sumter."

The New York Tribune