The may be looked upon as the proliminaries of an interesting devate. Yet we fear that debate and debate again, will be the order of the day until the close of congress. For, judging from appearances, and the proximate term of closing and is hereby authorized to name a fifth comthe session, it is not likely that the hill, which now occu- missioner, who shall be taken indifferently pies the attention of the senate, will pass before that period from cither of the said parishes. shall have arrived; and if it does not, at the present session, it will harden be necessary at the next. If resistance be made to the operations of the laws in South Carolina at all, it will most probably be done before the meeting of the missioners in causing the said line to be drawn, next congress, and then the crisis will have arrived, which shall be paid by both parishes, in an equal proit is designed to prevent. But admitting that, at this hour, portionit has already passed the senate, it will have to undergo a storm, in the lower house, full as violent as the one which it has encountered in the upper branch of our legislature. As there are now but eight days of the session remaining, there is no legitimate presumption that it can be passed by both houses, if it should be by either.

In the house, the tariff bill was taken up, on the fith of February. The question turned on the first amendment, reported by the committee, and proposing to strike out the word "worsted" hefore "twist and yarn," in the first section of the bill, which imposes a duty, on raw wool and wooll-n yarn, of 40 per centum ad valorem; and 4 cents a pound, to be afterwards diminished. The Senate proceeded again to the special order of the day, being the bill making further provision for the collection of the tevenus—

Mr. Webster said, he wished to interrupt the course of the debate for a single moment, in order to act one maker right if he could. Since a warm controversy was rising on this incasure, he thought it but proper that we should understand between what partice the controversy existed.

The American answered him, that difficulties had existed, for a good while, between the two governments, and that it was at longth thought, in America, be high time for the parties to come to a bitter understanding.

Tincline to think, Mr. Presigent, that war has broken out here, which is very likely, before it closes, to being the parties to a botter understanding. But the are the parties to a botter understanding. But the are the parties will be a very likely, before it closes, to being the parties to a botter understanding. Now, sir, let it be known, once for all, that this is an administration measure: that it is the Presidents own measure; and I pray gentlemen to have the goodness, if they call it hard names, and talk loudly against its frends, lot there attack it if they attack it is goodness. The honorable member from Kentucky, who spoke first against the bill, said he found in it another Jersey Prison Stap, Ich him state, then, that the President has sent a necessage to congress, recommending a renewal of the sufferings and horors of the Jersey Prison Ship. He says, too, that the bill smult of the slien and sedition law. But the bill is fragrant of no flower except the same which performs the merseage. Let him, then, say, if he thinks so, that General Jackson advises a revival of the principles of the alien and sedition laws.

The ho norable member from Virginia (Mr. Tylen) finds out a reasonable member from Virginia (Mr. Tylen) finds out a reasonable member from the other, the initiation in the President's. He says, two, that one of the sections is an English Rotany Bay law, except that it is much worse. This section, sir, whatever it may be, is just what the President's Missage resonanced. Similar observations are applicable to the remarks of both the honorable gentlemes from North Carofina. It is not necessary to particularize those remarks.—They were in the same strain.
