

By Post Office, 10 a.m.—
In all our advertisements, give one week's notice before making any change or alteration. Advertisers are requested to furnish us with a copy of their advertisement, so that we may have it ready for insertion in the next issue.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 17, 1861.

DEMONSTRATIONS BY THE WEEK.

The members of the Bee are authorized to receive subscriptions to our paper, at the rate of $5 a week, payable in all cases to the owner themselves.

Soldiers at Auction To-Day.

BOSTON, April 16.—The auction of soldiers at No. 10 Cornhill, Boston, took place at 10 o'clock this morning. The goods were well sold, and the sale was a success.

By S. & C. Co., at 10 Cornhill, in their auction room, Saturday evening, No. 10 Cornhill, there will be a sale of soldiers.

SAVANNAH.

We can in some measure account for the overwhelming popularity of the march of the Southern army, and the support of the South, and the support of Fort Sumter. The people of that section were not by any means prepared for the speedy and complete triumph of the forces of the Central States. They had no idea that the slaves would be so prompt and courageous. Fort Sumter could possibly fail, but it would be but a formal military failure, opposition would be useless. They were very ignorant of the fact that in the course of the war, the United States would be compelled to be outside the border, and that Fort Sumter had to bear alone the brunt of General Beauregard's assault. When they heard that the slaves and the negroes had been landed thousands upon thousands in the rear, and that, too, in the teeth of the acknowledgment made by him in his message to the Legislature a day or two ago, that they were to be used as slaves, they were shocked, but not more than 5000 stood aside. It is easy to call spirit from the vast deep. Towns, plantations, could do it—but would they do it?

Howbeit, we think the South can afford to court a Civil War, it is ridiculous to brave, in view of the fact that we are threatened with such an effect by the slaves of the Confederate States, their race, and their institutions were naturally very great. We looked for some such demonstration as the telegraph has reported, that the slaves would be used as slaves, and we saw but a display of a few hundred, and escape as had been made in some instances. Think, for instance, of the valiant Executive, Governor Curtin, of Pennsylvania, who, in his speech, said that the slaves were used as soldiers—and that, too, in the teeth of the acknowledgment made by him in his message to the Legislature a day or two ago, that they were to be used as slaves.

It is easy to call spirit from the vast deep.

Broadways and Provisions.

BOSTON, April 16.—Richardson, Speer & Co., at 10 Cornhill, Boston, have a large stock full and with a declining tendency. Provisions are now at a standstill on the week of Fort Sumter.

London Money Market.

LONDON, April 16.—The Bank of England has reduced its rates to 1 per cent.

Europeans Political Intelligence.

Rome, April 16.—A minister of the French government has been appointed to the Legation of France at Constantinople. He is to be sent to the Legation of France at Constantinople.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—A general letter was sent to the members of the Convention, calling for a vote of confidence in the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received from Washington, saying that the Senate had voted to admit the new State of Virginia.

Virginia State Convention.

RICHMOND, April 16.—The Convention was in session with closed doors all day. A telegram was received