"Gov. Adams' acquaintance with the conductors on the Rio Grande railroad saved him from paying fare or walksing into Denver the other day from Sedalia," said a fellow passenger. He had entered the coach at the station and when the conductor came along produced the pass he carries all the time, says the Denver Times.

"You do not have to attach revenue stamps to railroad passes,' ventured the collector of fares.

"'I know that,' retorted the chief executive of the state. 'What makes you suggest that I have attached stamps to my pass?'

" 'Because you have done so,' replied the conductor.

"I guess not,' answered the governor; 'I know better than that.' "Then look here. Who has had your pass?' and with this statement the conductor handed it back to the

"The face of the pass was covered with revenue stamps. They were sticking to it, having been attached by the dampness gathered in a sweaty pocket-

"The cigars are on me,' jocularly asserted the chief executive as he looked at the pasteboard.

'It's all right, anyway,' said the conductor, because I know you and know that this is your pass and have ies number. Were you a stranger, however, I could not accept it.'

"His excellency expressed gratification at the accommodating train emplaye and promised himself that he would soak the stamps off the face of the pass when he reached his home."

RED UNIFORMS HARD TO HIT. It Ros Been Proven a Fallacy The Scarlet Is Particularly Obtrusive.

Scarlet, it has always been supposed, was the worst color possible for the purposes of the battlefield, says the Army and Navy Gazette. It has been said so with such frequency, indeed, that nobody of late years has cared to dispute the fact. We owe it to some very practical experiments carried out in Germany that the question has now been put on a more satisfactory basis. A squad of ten men, two dressed in light gray, two in dark gray, two in scarlet, two in blue and two in green, were lately ordered to march across an open country. Their movements were closely watched. The first men to disappear from sight were those in light gray, immediately afterward the scarlet, then the dark gray and finally the blue and the green.

Here we have all well-worn theories upset. Experiments carried out on the rifle range showed that our national color gave the worst mark for the rifle. Twenty men, all good shots, were used for the purpose of the experiment. After they had fired a given number of rounds it was discovered that scarlet was far the most difficult color to hit. For every miss at the other colors there were three in favor of scarlet. We will not assert that these experiments were conclusive evidence in favor of our national color, but they certainly go a long way to justify its retention. There is much | THEY WILL NOT STAY IN LINE. to be said in these days of quick-firing ns in favor of a uniform which i difficult to hit, and in this particular scarlet undoubtedly will hold its own against all other colors.

HUNGRY EUROPEANS.

In China Their Only Variation from Pork and Rice Is Rice and Pork.

There was a painful lack of variety in our food. Men dying of thirst spend their last hour in thinking of iced champagne, sherry cobblers, cocktails and draughts of beer, whiskies and sodas, dead horses' heads or whatever their particular beverage may be. We gastronomically fooled ourselves to the top of our bent. "I think," one would say, "when we get to the Hotel de Paris to-night we'll have a nice little French dinner of six courses, with coffee and green chartreuse to wind up with." "Well," another would remark, "I should be content with some soup, a little fish, a slice of beef and some tart." "Chops and tomato sauce for me," murmured a third, oblivious of the fate that befell Mr. Pickwick. who had a similar desire, says Travel.

Then we would reach a slimy, begrimed village, creep into a smelling hut and make our dinner of pork and rice, or rice and pork when we desired to vary the menu. But one night at a spot called Tasping-Pu, when we called for the perennial pork we were informed that we could not be supplied. "No pork!" we exclaimed; "no pork in China? Why, Chinamen are three parts pork." Then we were told we were in a Mussulman village, where swine were an abomination, but we could have salt beef. We jumped joyfully at the salt beef, so called, though we knew perfectly well it was nothing else but stale, unprofitable, sinewy wild goat.

Big Silver Bowls. In one of the windows of Dalkeith palace there is a large silver bowl, dated 1702, over 2,000 ounces in weight, says the Pall Man Magazine. The royal arms are engraved upon it, as it was the property of John, second duke of Argyle, at one time ambassador to Spain. He left it to his daughter, Lady Mary Coke, sister to Lady Dalkeith. Four similar bowls are known to exist in Great Britain; they were formerly used for washing plates, knives and forks in the room during the course of a banquet. This bowl has since been put to better use, as it was filled with whisky toddy when the present duke came of age, in 1852.

L'ABBILLE

TO PREVENT COAL THEFTS.

'A Mine Owner's Clever Device to Protect Himself from Petty Pilferers.

The stealing of coal on railroads is a very active industry. In districts where railroad competition is brisk the roads find it worth their while to stand the loss due to thefts of coal from their cars. In other districts, where mines are scarce and a brand of coal is well advertised, the dealers will stand the loss. In other districts, again, as in the state of Kentucky, where mines are numeorus and the competition is heavy, the onus of the thefts falls on the mine operator. A large mine owner, who had to bear losses of this kind finally bethought himself of a practical plan of stopping them. He built a car consisting of an ordinary gondola car, covered by a sectional roof, divided into four folding doors upon each side of the car, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The doors are so equipped that they can be turned back, one at a time, or convenient for loading. When the car is loaded, the doors are locked and sealed by one operation. The car is then weighed and is sure of being delivered and paid for at mine weight. Protection is also thus given the coal from rain, ice and snow, and the train crew are not under the necessity of climbing over an open loaded car of coal in doing their work. The unloading is perfectly simple. The doors are thrown back, each in turn, as the unloading progresses. Should the car not be fully unloaded at night, the doors can be closed and locked by padlock, and it can be left on the track until daylight without fear of thieves.

SPAIN AND THE SPANIARDS.

What Causes the Insecurity of the National Status-An Indolent Race.

It is not true that the Spaniard is naturally cruel, declares David Hannay in the Pall Mall Magazine. The ferocities of which he has unquestionably been guilty have come from his unbusiness-like indolence. He lets trouble come from want of precaution in time, and it finds him unprepared. Then he falls into the rage of the indolent man who is aroused out of his indolence, and strikes savagely. Conduct of that kind proves his incapacity for government, and is seen at its worst where he has to deal with Creoles, who repeat his own faults in an exaggerated form, and with halfbreeds. For that reason, among others, he has lost his colonial empire. It would be a mistake, however, to suppose that Spain is decaying. The population has nearly, if not quite, doubled in the present century, and the country itself is infinitely better off than it was a hundred years ago. The loss of Cuba will be no evil for Spain, but a gain, for it will stop a dreadful drain of life and treasure. When there is no colonial market to think of, the immense resources of the country itself will probably be better worked. The mere mineral wealth of Spain ought to be enough to make it rich. If it has begun to understand the consequences of bad administra tion it may well be one of the most prosperous parts of Europe in another generation.

Feminine Failing That Arouse the Ire of the Patient Floor-

A floorwalker in one of the department stores says that the hardest thing there is to persuade a woman to keep in line. He says that his trials are beyond endurance on a bargain day when something is advertised for sale at a remarkably low price for a few minutes only, and only one is sold to a customer and the article is sold by but one clerk, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

"The women have about as much notion of the correct way of getting in line as a flock of sheep," says the floorwalker, whose name is withheld for "obvious reasons." "They huddle. There is nothing systematic about their movements. If one woman takes her place intelligently in line the newcomer in petticoats invariably tries to push ahead. It is a scheme that never succeeds, for the other women insist upon their rights. Every woman knows this, but this does not prevent her from attempting it. "When women are lined up before a counter I spend my time crying: 'Ladies, take your turn.' 'First come first served,' 'Please fall in line,' and so on. But it never has any effect. There are always a half a dozen trying to get in front of the woman at the head, and they always lose time, as the saleswoman pays no attention to them."

Extraordinary Kleptomania. One of the strangest cases of kleptomania ever brought to light was heard of in Paris. A certain lady had such a passion for smoking and for coloring meerchaum pipes that she had been for a long time stealing pipes of this description from shops. In the flat which she occupied there were found no fewer than 2,600 pipes, not one of which, it is believed, she had paid for. They were neatly arranged on racks, and 39 were well colored. The court before which she was indicted for some of the thefts would listen to no excuse, but sent her to prison for eight months.

STUMP PENCILS ARE MASCOTS.

Members of the New York Stock Ex change Superstitions About Lead Sticks.

"Talking of hoodoos and mascots," said a member of the stock exchange. reports the New York Post, "the boys on the floor of the exchange are as superstitious as a lot of sailors. If you don't believe it you look at the lead pencils they are using the next time you are in the building.

"You won't find a man using a long lead pencil. Why? Because a long pencil is a 'hoodoo' of the worst kind. They always cut a new pencil in half before they sharpen it. Some of these pencils acquire the reputation of being lucky.

Less than a week ago I came down without my pencil, which, by the way, is a lucky one-every memorandum made with that pencil results in a profit for me-and I borrowed one from a friend on the floor. He handed me a stump about an inch long, and said: 'You can use that; it's a lucky pencil.'

"Sure enough, I made two deals in the morning, and each netted me a handome profit.

"I was about to make a memorandum of some stock I had bought when my friend approached and said:

'Here, take this pencil and let me have mine again. I've lost on every deal since I loaned it to you.' "Sure enough, I lost on that deal and the luck went back to the owner of the have for you and forever afterward regard you as inimical. Some of them wouldn't take five dollars for a little piece of pencil worth considerably less than a cent."

CLEVER WAY TO OBTAIN GIFTS

Why It Is Not Quite Clear That Women Should Do This Sort of Thing.

Men, as a rule, do not desire to present handsome souvenirs to women who have been gracious to them, but women who intend to obtain certain things do not hesitate to maneuver, says the New York Press. An instance of this kind occurred recently, and in this way: Having accepted an invitation for a matinee, a charming girl found upon arriving at the theater that she had no fan. The air, to her, being intolerably stuffy, she insisted upon going to a shop near by to get one. She was accompanied by a man of the party, and after choosing a fan she had decided upon days before excuses followed about paying for it. What could the poor man do? He paid for the fan and swore at himself for being trapped. Within the next month this same charmingly innocent maiden obtained a handsome smelling bottle in the same way. But later on the two men discussed this af-

Are Seen En Route to the Shrine. What is called the "white train" left Paris the other afternoon from the Orleans railway terminus, says a foreign exchange. This conveys annually numbers of cripples and invalids on a pilgrimage to Lourdes, where they nope to be cured of their ailments through the miraculous agency of the Virgin Mary. The station presented an animated appearance all the afternoon. Touching sights were witnessed when sisters of mercy arrived, carrying crippled children or helping infirm and aged pilgrims to alight from the ambulance carriages. The "white train" properly so called, which is that conveying the most helpless invalids among the Lourdes pilgrims and the luggage van of which was surmounted by a white flag, left at 3:30 o'clock. These pilgrims, 300 in number, were accompanied by nuns and by professional and lady nurses. Other trains followed in the course of the afternoon and will continue to be sent off. It is estimated that 14 trains will be required in all, and that the total number of pilgrims at Lourdes this year will reach 50,000.

Heroism of the Doctors.

Heroic work was done by the surgeons at every engagement. A doctor vas one of the first to fall in the campaign at Santiago, the surgeon of Huntington's marines being shot in front of his tent at Guantanamo. In the attack on Santiago Surgeon Church hurried to the side of a wounded man of troop E, of the Tenth cavalry, and with bullets pelting all around him calmly dressed the man's wound, bandaged it and walked unconcernedly back, soon returning with two men and a litter to convey the sufferer to the hospital.
