THE BEE.

Subscription—ten dollars per annum, payable half-hearty in advance.

The Bee has this day changed proprietors: the former Editor having formed a new partnership, considers it his duty to avail the public to express his gratification for the patronage which has been granted to this paper, from its first publication to this day. His great confidence in the activity and experience of his new associates, authorises him to believe that his patrons will consider this change as a new proof of the zeal he has always shewn to deserve their favors.

The journal shall continue to be published under the same title by Messrs. G. Bayon, Delaup & Duclerc, who have made arrangements in order that the paper be delivered as usual to such subscribers who have paid in advance, or to those who have not given notice to discontinue their subscription.—The new Editors fully impressed with the importance of the responsibility they have taken upon themselves, will use new exertions, by improving the typographical part of their paper, as well as by a more particular attention to the English side of it, which had in some manner been neglected—to deserve a continuation of past favors, they have ordered from the North a complete assortment of the newest types, which will enable them in about two months to enlarge the size of their paper, and print it on six columns.

In a commercial city of such importance as New-Orleans, the principal object of the editor of a commercial paper is to render himself as useful as possible to merchants—with this view, the editors having observed that, but one evening paper was published in this city, have concluded to make their's an evening paper, as soon as they will receive the types to enable them to enlarge its size. By publishing in the evening, the paper will contain a shipping list of all the arrivals and departures of the day and night previous, which is undoubtedly very advantageous to merchants; as it will not in the least impair the political and literary part.

The Bee not being formerly entirely devoted to commercial interests, the former editors has not availed themselves of all the advantages of their extended correspondence with the northern cities, France, England, Mexico, etc. but hereafter nothing shall be neglected under that head, and that correspondence added to the best papers of the principal commercial cities, will afford to the editors the means of giving correct intelligence of such transactions in foreign markets as might be interesting to the merchants of New-Orleans.

Such are the principal changes and improvements intended by the new proprietors of this paper, which has never pretended to enter in competition against its powerful rivals, but by the moderation and liberality of its principles, and which on that account has deserved the patronage of the public. The editorial part of the Bee being still confided to the same person, the independent principles which have always been advocated in its columns during the greatest heat of political discussions, shall continue to be the motto of the Editors, but as faithful sentinels of the public and of our sacred institutions—they will never hesitate upon all necessary occasions, to take an independent stand in favor of the rights of the people—they will not be the first ready to scrutinize at all times the official conduct of any public officer who might be wanting in the performance of his duties. Such however will be the principles on which the Editors will act; the public before whom they now offer themselves as candidates, for a continuation of the patronage heretofore granted to this paper, will soon be able to decide on the sincerity of their promises; and the manner in which they will fulfil them, is the only criterion by which they ask to be judged.

CONFLAGRATION OF MOSCOW.

BEAUTIFUL AUTOMATONS.

THE Ladies and Gentlemen of New Orleans and the Public generally, are informed, that for a few weeks on the evenings of Wednesdays, Fridays and Sundays, will be offered for their amusement, at Saint Phillip street Theatre an exhibition of ingenious and interesting Automatons, and the sublime spectacle of the Conflagration of Moscow!!! The exhibition will be conducted in the following order:

1st.—The little Bass Fiddler.

2d.—Maelzel's original Automaton Speaking Figures. One of these Androids, (the little French girl) will in the spectators, distinctly articulate the words "Mama, and Papa."

3d.—The Beautiful Automaton Slack Rope Dancers. One of these likewise, while on the rope, utters the French exclamation "Oh la la." These figures are very celebrated, and their astonishing and graceful feats have received the highest encomiums.

The whole to conclude with the conflagration of Moscow. This magnificent combination of the effects of design, machanism and music, illustrating the awful grandeur of an immense city wrapt in flame and a prey to the ravages of war. The invading armies of Napoleon are seen to enter; the inhabitants abandon the capital of the empire; the incendiaries with their torches pass among them—the bells are heard in every quarter, which, with the military French music the vollies of distant musketry, the roar of artillery, the tremendous explosion, the expansion of flames, &c, will present a perfect facsilime of the real scene!!!

Admittance—Boxes and Parterre $1 00. Second tier for free persons of color, 50 cents; gallery 25 cents—Children half price. march 10
