NUMBER 279.

PROBABLY NO CARNIVAL IN 1918

WAR LIKELY TO CAUSE SUSPENSION OF ANNUAL FESTIVITY

DECISION ALREADY REACHED

By Three Big Organizations, According to Rumor—Civil War Caused Last Abandonment

Plans for next year's Carnival have practically been abandoned, according to unconfirmed rumors yesterday. While the proceedings of the Carnival organizations are secret, and until announcement is made, nothing definite can be said, though it has been known for some time that many Carnival leaders would not favor the annual gaiety in the spring of 1918.

According to one report the three principal Carnival organizations at a meeting held a couple of weeks ago, decided to discontinue the annual celebration until after the war. If definite action has not already been taken, as is rumored, some such step certainly is in contemplation. Should the main organizations agree to this, the annual celebration will be eliminated.

During the Civil War the carnival was suspended. Now the country is again at war, and the leading spirits of the organization feel that it would be out of place to hold the festivities at a time when, more than probably, hundreds of Orleansians will be fighting in the trenches in France. As the plans for the annual event must be formulated soon after the preceding carnival, it is not unlikely that action has already been taken in the matter, as has been reported.

Definite knowledge of the plans will be awaited with much interest, as many residents of the city are identified either with the main organizations, or with smaller carnival clubs, who would be affected by any action taken. If it is decided to abandon the carnival for the period of the war, no surprise will be evinced. It is likely, however, that the first definite knowledge of the abandonment of the carnival will be obtained when the formal invitations fail to appear.

TEUTONIC SPIES MENACE AMERICA

Washington, May 29.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels, in making public Admiral Sims' report on the Germans' having knowledge of the sailing of the American fleet, said that the German newspapers published the information in Germany four days before the fleet arrived in England.

Administration leaders today declared that the German spy system menaces the nation. They exercise espionage on the government at Washington and are spreading a propaganda against the United States in South American countries, especially in Argentina.

RESEMBLES PRESIDENT, SO GETS BIG SALARY

Lafayette, Ind., May 29.—Paul Westphal's face is his fortune. He was night clerk in a hotel here for the meagre salary of $10 a week or so when a "movie" company discovered his striking resemblance to President Wilson. He will take the part of the nation's chief in a war drama for $250 a week.

BUYS BONDS WITH DELGADO FUNDS

OF WHICH $100,000 WILL GO FOR LIBERTY BONDS

NEW REGULATIONS OF MILK

Must Be Furnished in Glass Containers Securely Sealed—Bids for Equipment Opened

An investment of $100,000 in Liberty bonds and of another $100,000 in city improvement bonds is to be made for the Isaac Delgado Central Trades school fund. At a meeting of the city commission council yesterday morning a resolution was adopted giving the necessary authority for devoting $200,000 in cash to the two issues.

The Liberty bonds will net the trade school an annual revenue of $3,500 for thirty years, after which they are convertible into cash. In case subsequent bond issues are floated by the government at a higher rate of interest the bonds can be exchanged for the new issue. The city improvement bonds will net $1,000 annually, so that the revenue from the investments approved will be $4,500.

A new and more drastic milk ordinance was introduced at the council meeting to replace the measure previously offered. Under the new ordinance milk can be offered for sale here only in glass containers securely stoppered, when the quantity offered is less than five gallons, and in lots over five gallons the milk must be in sealed cans fastened with a chain and lock, or some similar device. Penalty for violation of the ordinance may be a fine of from $10 to $25 or imprisonment for from five to thirty days.

The ordinance is designed to stop the sale of watered milk. After milk has been placed in bottles and capped there would be some difficulty in adulterating it while it was in the delivery wagon. By compelling the milk dealers to bottle their milk on the dairy it would be easier to keep check on their operations, in the opinion of those responsible for the ordinance.

Bids were opened for the supplying to the public belt railroad of rails and angle bars representing a cost of close to $100,000. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company bid $13 per ton for 2,000 tons of rails, $41 per ton for No. 2 rails, to constitute 5 per cent, and $3.53 per hundred pounds for angle bars. The Bethlehem Steel company bid $10.8 per hundred pounds for 150 bars of angle bars. The bids were referred to the finance department.

NEGRO INTRUDER, PROBABLY INSANE

Returning home from work yesterday afternoon, Joseph P. Johnson, 2019 Burdette street, found a desperate struggle overpowered his back. Neighbors came to Johnson's assistance and the negro, who refused to give his name or make a statement, was turned over to Patrolman Landreaux, of the Ninth precinct station.

Mrs. Johnson, who is in delicate health, witnessed the encounter between her husband and the intruder. As a result she is confined to a bed. Her condition, however, is not thought to be serious.

Sergeant Southworth, of the Ninth precinct, is inclined to believe that the negro is demented. Gordon Ohara will be asked to examine him. He has been charged with entering the daytime with felonious intent.

When Johnson returned from work yesterday afternoon Mrs. Johnson was in the bathroom. He took off his hat and coat and walked into the back yard to take some articles of clothing from the lines on re-entering the house he saw someone in the second room.

Johnson called but received no answer, so he went in and upon investigation found the negro. When Johnson demanded to know what he was doing there, the black made a lunge at him, Johnson ducked and rushed upon his opponent. They clinched.

The negro was a powerful fellow. Johnson was able to cope with him. In the struggle he dealt the white man a blow on the back with his fist, which almost knocked him out.

While the struggle was in progress, Mrs. Johnson rushed into the room. She shrieked for help and tried to tear the negro away from her husband. Mrs. Johnson, being in delicate health, was unable to stand her strain and fainted, falling upon a bed.

This seemed to put more energy into the husband. With a mighty effort, he threw himself upon the negro, grabbed his legs and the black went sprawling upon the floor. The struggle was over.

Neighbors were attracted by Mrs. Johnson's cries. They ran into the house to find Johnson on top of the struggling black.

Mayor Martin Behrman, in a brief but appropriate address, referred to the duty devolving on this country of joining wholeheartedly with the ranks of democracy in an assault on the last stronghold of autocracy. The mayor's address was peculiarly appropriate in view of the fact that he has just returned from Little Rock, where he visited his son, Stanley, who is taking the course at the officers' training camp.
