

THE DAILY BEE.
A. S. WHALEY & CO.,
PUBLISHERS.
Daily paper, one year $1.00.
Country paper, one month, 25c.
The paper is written in English, and is intended for the American market. It is published every day, and contains news from all parts of the world, and is well printed, making the news available to all.

OFFICE 88 CHARTERS ST.

THE DAILY BEE.

By Telegraph.

(TRANSMITTED TO THE NEW ORLEANS HERALD.)

FURTHER BY THE CITY OF WASHINGTON.
THE GERMANIC CONFEDERATION.

Movements of Garibaldi.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.
KOSKUTSKY PROCLAMATION.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the Prussian Federal Council, proposals were made to send a mediation committee to Paris.

The Emperor had issued an order to the Chamber of Deputies, which he had

signed, to the effect that the

French Government should be allowed

to withdraw its troops from the frontier districts, and to give up its

claims to Alsace and Lorraine.

Another proposal was made for placing all the frontier districts under the control of a commission.

A dispatch from the seat of war states:

"A week ago, a corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Tyrol, and a second

corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Rhine."

Garibaldi's Victory Over the Austrians.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the

Prussian Federal Council, proposals were made to send a mediation committee to Paris.

The Emperor had issued an order to the

Chamber of Deputies, which he had

signed, to the effect that the

French Government should be allowed

to withdraw its troops from the

frontier districts, and to give up its

claims to Alsace and Lorraine.

Another proposal was made for placing all the frontier districts under the

control of a commission.

A dispatch from the seat of war states:

"A week ago, a corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Tyrol, and a second

corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Rhine."

Garibaldi's Victory Over the Austrians.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the

Prussian Federal Council, proposals were made to send a mediation committee to Paris.

The Emperor had issued an order to the

Chamber of Deputies, which he had

signed, to the effect that the

French Government should be allowed

to withdraw its troops from the

frontier districts, and to give up its

claims to Alsace and Lorraine.

Another proposal was made for placing all the frontier districts under the

control of a commission.

A dispatch from the seat of war states:

"A week ago, a corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Tyrol, and a second

corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Rhine."

Garibaldi's Victory Over the Austrians.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the

Prussian Federal Council, proposals were made to send a mediation committee to Paris.

The Emperor had issued an order to the

Chamber of Deputies, which he had

signed, to the effect that the

French Government should be allowed

to withdraw its troops from the

frontier districts, and to give up its

claims to Alsace and Lorraine.

Another proposal was made for placing all the frontier districts under the

control of a commission.

A dispatch from the seat of war states:

"A week ago, a corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Tyrol, and a second

corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Rhine."

Garibaldi's Victory Over the Austrians.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the

Prussian Federal Council, proposals were made to send a mediation committee to Paris.

The Emperor had issued an order to the

Chamber of Deputies, which he had

signed, to the effect that the

French Government should be allowed

to withdraw its troops from the

frontier districts, and to give up its

claims to Alsace and Lorraine.

Another proposal was made for placing all the frontier districts under the

control of a commission.

A dispatch from the seat of war states:

"A week ago, a corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Tyrol, and a second

corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Rhine."

Garibaldi's Victory Over the Austrians.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the

Prussian Federal Council, proposals were made to send a mediation committee to Paris.

The Emperor had issued an order to the

Chamber of Deputies, which he had

signed, to the effect that the

French Government should be allowed

to withdraw its troops from the

frontier districts, and to give up its

claims to Alsace and Lorraine.

Another proposal was made for placing all the frontier districts under the

control of a commission.

A dispatch from the seat of war states:

"A week ago, a corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Tyrol, and a second

corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Rhine."

Garibaldi's Victory Over the Austrians.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the

Prussian Federal Council, proposals were made to send a mediation committee to Paris.

The Emperor had issued an order to the

Chamber of Deputies, which he had

signed, to the effect that the

French Government should be allowed

to withdraw its troops from the

frontier districts, and to give up its

claims to Alsace and Lorraine.

Another proposal was made for placing all the frontier districts under the

control of a commission.

A dispatch from the seat of war states:

"A week ago, a corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Tyrol, and a second

corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Rhine."

Garibaldi's Victory Over the Austrians.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the

Prussian Federal Council, proposals were made to send a mediation committee to Paris.

The Emperor had issued an order to the

Chamber of Deputies, which he had

signed, to the effect that the

French Government should be allowed

to withdraw its troops from the

frontier districts, and to give up its

claims to Alsace and Lorraine.

Another proposal was made for placing all the frontier districts under the

control of a commission.

A dispatch from the seat of war states:

"A week ago, a corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Tyrol, and a second

corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Rhine."

Garibaldi's Victory Over the Austrians.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the

Prussian Federal Council, proposals were made to send a mediation committee to Paris.

The Emperor had issued an order to the

Chamber of Deputies, which he had

signed, to the effect that the

French Government should be allowed

to withdraw its troops from the

frontier districts, and to give up its

claims to Alsace and Lorraine.

Another proposal was made for placing all the frontier districts under the

control of a commission.

A dispatch from the seat of war states:

"A week ago, a corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Tyrol, and a second

corps of 30,000 men

was sent to the Rhine."

Garibaldi's Victory Over the Austrians.

PROPOSED MEDIATION OF FRANCE.

(Telegraph from London to Quadrille.)

LONDON, July 1.—At the session of the