WHAT HAVE WE GAINED?

The President has recommended, what the South mainly desired, the Compromise measures which have received the sanction of Congress. The reply to our fellow citizens of the South has been prompt and decisive—First and foremost the South has secured the recognition and practical enforcement of the great doctrine of non-intervention [illegible] which she has been vainly asserting for a series of years, which she advocated when Missouri was refused admission as a State with restrictions which prohibited slavery—a doctrine which is incorporated every [illegible] Compromise since 1776, 20 flood by Mr. Clay in 1834, and which, against all a century [illegible] drew from Mr. Calhoun some of his most logical and forcible expositions of Constitutional rights and obligations. This salutary principle, which does not the authority of Congress to legislate [illegible] to exclude Slavery, has been the vital germ of [illegible] Those who were ever re- [illegible] the most zealous supporters [illegible] Such have been, and while in unison [illegible] must ever be, the only possible principles of safety, and under the present Compromise [illegible] Secondly, it is a guarantee [illegible] Territories shall become [illegible] admitted into the Union, with or without slavery, as their Constitutions may prescribe at the time of their admission. Here [illegible] concession we [illegible] Territories [illegible] Compromise annexing Texas [illegible] Mexico. He claims a large [illegible] the territory of New Mexico. He [illegible] [illegible] invaded. Come we do not [illegible] evidence to decide the dispute, but generously offers to Texas to pay her promptly [illegible] [illegible] of her pretensions—at the same time [illegible] a considerable chance of the Territory [illegible] Texas, in the opinion of many [illegible] Against this bill there [illegible] [illegible] object. It is purely and [illegible] [illegible] settled between the Federal Government of Texas. If the latter pos- [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
