It was however pleasing to find that every member was disposed to 'assume a virtue if he had it not;' and that when Mr Sparks volunteered a prelude to the harmony of the meeting, all ecemed to feel that debate was unnecessary; that public opinion had at length demanded morality in legislation; and that the cup of hitterness—filled with the tears of the widows and orphans of runed gamblers-had already

It may be necessary to state that the owners or immediate occupants of the houses wherein gambling tables or banking games are detected are liable to the penalties inflictad by the law; provided they are or could be aware of their being kept in their houses. The penulty is a fine of from 14 ousand cultura for the first offence; and from 5 to 10 for the second-with an additional favor of being confined in the penticultary from I to 5 years, at the discretion of the judge.

It appears that the recal of Serraner, the French minister at Washington, was long since determined on; and that the cabinet of France only waited a fitting opportunity. Previous to the debates in the cleambers on the American claims, Sersuries had written to Louis Philip (so says the Tribune of Paris), that the difference might be settled for 12 million Paris), that the difference might be settled for 12 million mind francs; and it is believed that a copy of this despatch being in colours more glowing than those I could find [1]. communicated to some influential members of the chamber, contributed greatly to the rejection of the bill last year. Even if our claims are adjusted by law, he will not therefore return to Washington.

To Counsponders -- We feel highly complimented by the remarks made by some correspondents, in relation to our course concerning Payne's theatrical benefit. One informs us that our opinions are those of most of his friends; that actors have too long suffered from mercenary speculations aided by the felly and credulity of the liberal or extravazant; and that a theatrical benefit is a very extraordinary rounds of manifesting respect or charity for a literary indisidual. of Mr Hon, the decision of the suprem court in the case of Gasquet & co. rs A Dimitry and others; the bill as amended by the house to incorporate the Louisiana Marine and Fire Insurance Company; and the act chartering the Citizen's bank of New Orleans, were referred to the judiciary committee with instructions to report forthwith.

The committee reported by bills.

Mr Hoa presented an act amendatory of the act to incorporate the Citizens' bank. It permits all the transactions of the bank to be managed by a board of 7 direc-

Mr REED is equally anxious to correct the error in the existing laws; but mavoiding Scylls, we may fall into Charybdis. He is opposed to hasty logislation, being wellaware of its evil commequences. He was not sufficiently intimate with the details of the bill, to understand its me rits. He moved therefore that it be printed.

Mr Hoa showed the necessity of immediately passing such a law; for the decision some supreme court in the case of Gasquet and company is positive, that all ren nciations made by married women of their vested rights are null. Should such a decision become known to those who have in bad faith disposed of their rights to a third person, who may have obtained them in good faith; perhaps not less than 9 out of 10 titles to property in this state may be cancelled, and those who may have fraudulently re sounced their rights may recover the property conveyed to those who considered the conveyance valid and obliga

The objections were waived, and the bill was passed. The set as amended by the house, to incorporate the Louisiana Marine and Fire Insurance company, was reported; and the amondments—one slightly altered, were

THE REPRIMAND, JOHN R GRYMES-

My dear sir, you were brought to this place, For an act which reflects on you all our disgrace. You came to this hall, about ten in the morning, And caned our good speaker without timely warning; And when he returned your rash blows with a bail, You twice shot at him: and so ourraged us all.

Our dignity must be maintained; -that is flat; And hence we have summon'd you here to learn what Must be done for the honor and credit of all, Such insults to punish—to shield too our hall. But you have protested that we have no law, That the state constitution presents not a flaw. Whereby we can punish or lawfully try For contempts of this house :- but that's all in my You have argued your case both with skill and success; And all have been pleased with your manly address,

Which bespeaks your high stalents of mind and of fame, An i almost excultates you wholly from blame. Yetruch was the evidence giv'n in the case-So plain and so palpable too our disgn ce, And that' in this hall where our duties are done That it cannot be deem'd cither folly or fun. Our sentence is 'guilty.' We cannot permit Trat you should such outrages on us come

And painful altho; it may be reprove, I beg leave to assure you that all disapprove Of such conduct in one whose condition is high Whose unrival'd eloquence none can deny.

You may go. Your good sense will suggest to you How improper it must be to come to this hall, Your chag in must be greater than I can conceive, (Perhaps greater than any of us would believe) For having infringed on the rules of this house, And added to insult the skill of your nous.

But mortified so, you may now leave the bar; And haste to your pleasures in law, love or war. The affair was consequently left among the unfinished business of the session.

It would be doing injustice to individuals attacked to the fire engine No. 4, not to speak in terms of the highest eliminorial time of the acryices which they so generously sendered at the fire on Wednerday anglet. When it is known that the scene of this fire was at the bayon bridge, that the read leading to it was almost impassable writhmed, that the night was a dark and most stormy bee, and shat sowishestanding all these acrious obstacles, those judinficults with a zeal worthy of all credit, actually draw without the sid of horses, their engine to the configuration, and their remained in the discharge of their generous duty statil after I o'clock at night: who, under such circumstances, can release from awarding to them heartful praise, and signaturely endeavor to prounte their advancement. Will any one doubt the proportely, yes the actual justice of exempling such citizens from the onerous duties of serving as jurymen, or in the unities corps.
