

FOOD FOR THE POOR.

Sir Thomas Lipton Devotes £100,000 for Founding Restaurant.

A Mammoth Eating House Established in London Where Meals Costing from Half Penny to 4-1-2 Pence Can Be Had.

Years ago Sir Thomas Lipton, known in America as the owner of the Shamrock, declared that if he ever became rich he would help to supply good food at the lowest possible price to poor people.

The meals, which cost from a half-penny to 4 1/2 pence, consist of a hot meal, soup, steak, pudding and two vegetables, with a choice of pastry and tea, coffee or cocoa.

The governors reckon on a profit of three per cent. on the capital invested, which will be used in extending the work.

Hon. Charles Russell, Sir Thomas Lipton and Lady Fauld-Phillips are the members of the executive committee.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

The Happy End of a Romance in Which a Chicago Man was Concerned.

For nearly ten years Thomas Connors has lived in Chicago. He has been a thrifty fellow, and though the victim of a woman's whim, took the world philosophically, became a good mechanic and saved his money.

He had loved Margaret Fitzmaurice in the green isle many years ago, but in a moment of anger they quarreled and separated.

Eighteen months ago Patrick Driscoll, a wiremaker at Waterbury, Conn., fell in love with Miss Fitzmaurice, but she repelled his advances.

There was a great sensation several months ago when there was no bride at the Driscoll wedding, and the priest and the sexton and hundreds of people were disappointed.

Connors read the story in a Chicago paper in his lonely room in his boarding house, and he at once recognized the name of his long-lost sweetheart.

He wrote her of his unflinching love and his faithfulness during all the years of his absence, and asked forgiveness and reinstatement. He got both, and they were married at Waterbury the other day.

Great Enthusiasm Manifested at Baptismal Services in a New York Church.

A recent Sunday was a day of joy and jubilee in the Mount Olivet Baptist church. The fruits of five weeks of soul-stirring revivals were gathered.

Economical If Not Popular. A new fad has been started in the east, says the Chicago Times-Herald. It follows eat all their food raw, and make faces at the coal man.

TO DAWSON BY AUTOMOBILE.

Horseshoe Carriage to Be Utilized by Frenchmen in a Journey to Klondike.

E. Janne de Lamare, editor of the Klondike Revue of Paris, who has spent many months in the Alaskan gold fields, and owns claims in Atlin, arrived at New York the other day from Havre, with his brother-in-law, Raphael Merville, an engineer, who holds a French automobile record.

They expect to make the 112-mile journey from Lake Bennett to Atlin in one day. De Lamare says he has been over the road afoot, and he believes the automobile can be used on it just as well as a horse or mule-drawn wagon.

He expects to stay in Atlin two weeks and then start for Dawson City, about 650 miles away. He says he will not need a large quantity of provisions for this trip, as he is well known along the route, and can obtain supplies from camps and settlements.

Mrs. Hitecock, a woman Klondiker, who was also passenger on L'Automobile on her return to the gold fields. She hoped to accompany the Frenchman. Merville says he thinks the journey will be successful.

SALARY FOR SUBSTITUTES.

Postmaster Gordon, of Chicago, Favors Carrying Them on the Regular Payroll.

Postmaster Gordon favors the proposition to place the substitute letter carriers on the regular roll and give them a small salary. In a communication to Representative Mann in regard to a bill which has this end in view, after discussing that measure at some length, Mr. Gordon says:

"The number of regular carriers at this office is 1,270, and the substitutes number 198. The necessity for having so many substitutes arises from the fact that all carriers are entitled to 15 days' vacation each year. During their absence their places have to be filled by substitutes. As vacations so far as possible are given during the pleasant months of the year, it follows that more substitutes are required to fill the places of the absent carriers than would otherwise be needed.

"Again, during the heavy mails of the spring, fall and Christmas, it is necessary to have a force of trained men to supplement the services of the regular carriers. There is not the slightest doubt that the necessities of the service make it imperative that a sufficient force of substitutes be employed. There is no reason why these substitutes should not receive a regular salary, and one sufficient to keep body and soul together.

"I am in favor of reasonable provisions being made for the payment of regular salaries for the carriers and trucks, which is just as important. I trust some bill of a just character will receive the approval of congress."

HETTY GREEN GETS GOSSIPY.

Richest Woman in America Talks Pointedly on Interesting Topics.

Mrs. Hetty Green, the famous woman millionaire is again in Boston consulting lawyers. In an interview she expressed some candid opinions about lawyers, doctors and poor relatives—her own in particular—and discussed the Molineux case, the Paris exposition and Jay Gould's claim to fame.

She said she was tired of lawyers and believes that when a man cheats another too bad the Texas policy should be pursued—shoot off a leg or two, or blood-letting.

"I propose to live as long as I can," she said. "I've been sick and they tried to frighten me into thinking I had pneumonia. There are 700 relatives of mine now waiting for me to die, but I don't intend to die right away."

"After declaring that she wouldn't go to the Paris exposition for anything in the world, she switched on the Molineux case. "It makes me laugh," she said, "to think of Jay Gould's name being inscribed on a roll of honor in the Temple of Fame. Why, they can't do that if they try. The people whom Jay Gould has fleeced would tear it down and all the other names would want to be draped in crape. Mrs. Russell Sage makes me tired by the way she is putting Helen Gould forward and talking to her about her dear father." If Helen ever wakes up to know what kind of a man her father was among men it will be a sad day for her.

In a Mexican theater women always go bareheaded and the men wear their hats all the time the curtain is closed. During the performance they remove them. Frequently men rise in their seats and sweep the tiers of boxes with large glasses. It is considered something of an honor to have the glasses of a swell below leveled at your box. Smoking is permitted in all theaters.

PRANKS OF STUDENTS

Freshmen Dance on Peppercorn Floor and Go Cakeless.

Now the Sophomores at Northwestern University Made Life Miserable for First-Year Men and Their Ladies.

Saturday night a dozen sophomores of Northwestern university, at Evanston, Ill., decided that the freshmen should not be allowed to hold their social at Connor's hall on Davis street, and that it was not seemly for freshmen to dance. For five years the college authorities have done everything in their power to crush out any such class spirit.

To prevent the dancing of the freshmen a pound of cayenne pepper was sprinkled over the dance floor a half-hour before the freshmen arrived. Shortly after the class of '08 began to arrive. They had been warned that something was in the air, and before they had been in the hall half an hour they realized that it was so. Red eyes and vigorous sneezing was the order of the moment. The literary program which had been arranged was postponed temporarily and the janitor spread a carpet over the floor and the obnoxious pepper.

In the meantime the sophomores had been using the telephone and had hurried up the refreshments for the affair, the caterer thinking he was talking to a freshman. The ice cream and cake arrived, and the sophomores were waiting for the driver of the wagon. The driver became suspicious and refused to deliver the cream outside. When he was gone the "sophs" helped themselves to the cake intended for the social.

Later in the evening access to the cloakroom was obtained by means of a ladder, and several wraps were taken. A huge night robe was suspended from a dry goods store and J. C. Nussbaum's name was written across the front, he being president of the freshman class. Into this robe the wraps were bundled and a colored boy was hired to enter the hall and present it to Nussbaum.

BLACK FLAG OVER SCHOOL.

Protest by Students Against Attending Sessions on Saturdays.

Rebellion has broken out among students of South Bend (Ind.) high school, and there may be several expulsions. Superintendent Calvin Moon recently issued an order requiring students from freshman to senior to attend Saturday sessions in order to make up lost time on account of holiday vacations.

When people residing in the vicinity of the high school pushed aside their curtains the other night and looked out to make an estimate of the weather for Sunday, they were greeted by the unusual sight of a black flag floating from the flagstaff on the school building. In the center of the flag was a device representing a skull and cross bones. This flag floated from its lofty peak in protest against holding of school sessions on Saturdays.

It was hinted some time ago that the students were bent on expressing their indignation in some emphatic manner, but their plans were so well kept that they could not be frustrated, though the utmost vigilance was exercised. Entrance to the building was secured through a back window and, with the help of a "jimmy," several intervening doors were opened and a passage made to the roof of the building.

MUST HAND OVER MONEY.

Courts Decide That Hotel Man Is Not Entitled to $5,000 Fessed by a Guest.

A Boston lawyer of the name of Burdett has just won a curious suit against the management of the Grand hotel, Paris. About a year ago Burdett paid $5,000 in a closet of the hotel. He handed the money to the manager of the hotel, who promised to make inquiries for the owner. Some time after Burdett received $200 from the hotel manager, with the statement that the owner had been found, and that he sent that sum as a recognition of the honesty of Burdett. Suspecting the sincerity of this, Burdett made inquiries and found that the owner had not been discovered, and that the sum was still in the possession of the hotel. Burdett brought suit, which resulted in an order from the court for the payment of the remainder of the money.

INCREASED POSTAL RECEIPTS.

An Increase at Fifty of the Largest Post Offices During February of $270,400.

A statement prepared by the post office department shows that the receipts at 50 of the largest post offices during the month of February, 1900, were $5,522,547, an increase of $279,409, or 5 1/2 per cent., over the corresponding month of the previous year. The receipts at some of the principal offices were: New York, $735,537; Chicago, $520,748; Philadelphia, $270,809; Boston, $239,256; St. Louis, $147,867; Cincinnati, $101,513; Brooklyn, $110,443; San Francisco, $60,300; Pittsburgh, $69,855. The largest percentages of increase were: Buffalo, 21.4; Richmond, 20.1; Los Angeles, Cal., 22.1; and Dallas, Tex., 21.7.

Increases are shown at Cleveland, Dayton, O., and St. Joseph, Mo.
