The Northern Mark is still one day behind hand, and compels us to draw largely on the express news.

General Taylor's Whitgery.

The letter of General Tayton will, in our opposition, tend to secure his nomination by the Wing National Convenigon, more certainly than any document or political manifestic which he or his friends have hisherto put forth. On it he cordinal principles which constitute the Wing fault, Gen. Taylor is with the party. He is with them in the love of peace; in the opposition to wars of conquest and subjugation; in the uncompromising hostility, to Executive influence, and in the stern disapproval of the employment of that giganite and monarchical previgative—the veto power. The Locofoco press is right in considering Gen. Taylor as Wing.

Gen. Taylor, is missing that concernate advocacy of the fundamental doctrines professed by that party.

Gen. Taylor, is missing that the Preplicant should feel, for instance, holds that the Preplicant should respect the will of the People, as expressed through their Representatives in Longress, and should be guided and regulated by user action. This is awand Wing sentition—the will not expect the will of the People, as expressed through their Representatives in Longress, and should be guided and regulated by user action. But in our High Schools, especially, are all the best and most interesting features of our aystem exhibited and developed in a manner that cannot fail to attract the attention of the most indifferent, and to command the approhation of the most fistilious. There are the two great languages chiefly spoken by our population; there are the higher branches of instruction—the practical appolications of science, the tressures of classicals and modern literature, and the arise that tend to refine the taste, to elevate the mind, and to purify the heart, placed within in reach of all the pupils, whose excellent deportment and studious habits have been rewarded, by promotion into the High Schools, and who, thenselves, may, at no very disman period, act an important part in the great work of improvement, and dispense to thousands yet unborn, the great blessings of education. THE CONCERT of the distinguished arises. Desvernine, Botesini and Arditi, which was to have been given law evening, has been postponed till Priday. We proceive that the programme has been enriched by the promise of some vocal music from Signora Gerli, who sings a romance from Lacrezia Borgia, and a cavaitance. a romance from Lucrezia Borgia, and a cavati-na from Beatrice di Tenda. Hotesini'a per-formance on the double-bass is worth more than a romance from Lucrexia Borgia, and a cavalina from Beatrice di Tenda. Botesinia performance on the double-bass is worth more than the price of admission to the whole entertainment. He is to that intrastable uncoush in attrument what Thisberg's to the piano, what Paganini was to the violin, what Grisi is to some. He is a miracle of mestical genius combined with a steady perseverance in the mass-tery of mechanical difficulties, that is unique. The Union of splendid talent with indominable labor and industry has rendered him marvellous. It is worth 2 dollar to see him at will making the double bass to innitiate every interes.

SIROULAR OUTRAGE.—Tuesday's Mobile Herof the Simurian Outrage. Tuesday's Mobile Herdeld way: A few dayb ago, Jadige Jones, of the Criminal Court, was assulted while on his way to Potterwille, a willage some fifteen miles from this city. A desperado, named Copelind and, stopped his buggy on the road, and with gan in hand, ready cocked, aword that he intended to shoot him. The Judge inquired the motive, and was told by Copelind that it was because he had detened his brother to the motive, and was told by Copelind that it was because he had detened his brother had been convicted by twelve inwill men and traction that he was merely the instrainent, dec. The desperado, his gun resing on the wash-board of the vehicle, asserted, with an north, that all this plea made no difference, he justiced to shoot him any how. Finally, the Judge, as usual, got the better of the argument, and Copeland declared that he would desist from his purpose, if the Judge would take a drink with him.

This the legal functionary positively refused to do, even under the threats of the resting. The matter, however, we are told, was compromised by a gentlefan who was delation to the proper has been been borded on the proper had been a gentlefan who was delation to the proper had been a gentlefan who was delation to the proper had been a gentlefan who was delation to the proper had been a gentlefan who was delation to the proper had been to the proper
