

GRIP CAR AND GRAMMAR

The "Small Man" Meets an Equally Learned Conductor. The man who had studied grammar once and was not particularly ashamed of it boarded the Westport car at Twelfth street and began in an absent-minded way to read the signs.

THE GAME OF GOLE.

Mr. Wilkinson had been living with great contentment in his villa when, one day, Mr. McGourock, a new tenant in a neighboring house, looked over the fence and passed the time of day.

BREVETTES OF FUN.

"Pushpen is a ready writer, isn't he?" "Yes; he writes readily enough, but the trouble is he can't think." Chicago Record.
