

Who inspires you?

"I'm inspired every day by the people around me - my family, friends and neighbors in my community. If my designs bring people closer, I've accomplished what I have set out to do. There is nothing more important in life than connecting with the ones you love and cherish."

- Beth Lang, President and CEO, Alexa's Angels

*Our Original Angel
Alexa - circa 1995*

Women have connected with Beth's jewelry designs since 1995 when she first began selling her creations at art shows across the country.

Since then, Beth and "her angels" have grown Alexa's Angels into a fashion-forward accessory company for people of all ages. Just as in the beginning, each piece is thoughtfully designed to inspire heartfelt emotions. Wearable, giftable and meaningful, designs by Alexa's Angels create connections and nurture a sense of well-being. "That's the true inspiration behind every piece we design," Beth says.

Beth is a Colorado-raised artist. To know her is to embrace her contagious smile and love for people and the world around her. She is the mother of four beautiful children, company namesake Alexa, Emma Rose, Joshua and Elijah. "My children are my confidantes, design consultants, and generators of youthful fun. Their unique perspectives and energy help me make connections with a whole new generation."

Proud to be a company with a social conscience, the all-woman team at Alexa's Angels is dedicated to creating, finding and supporting programs that benefit women. Their mission is to be a great example of how a socially responsible company can make a difference.
