In the third District, in the same apologetic strain, we are informed, "that Nay (Tory) is undoubtedly elected, We cannot say by how large a majority (ashamed no doubt !). but in the military district, where it was expected that Mills (Whig) would have majorities, a strong rate has been given (o his competitor."

Thus it will be seen, that out of three Congressional Districts, the people have triumphed decisively in two, and that in the other one, there are strong grounds for hope. But, supposing that Reynolds should be elected, does a mere plurality of votes over one of his competitors, and not a majority of the whole, authorise him to disregard the expressed will of a majority of his constituents, by supporting measures, which he knows are obnoxious to them? It is more reasonable to believe, that feeling humself shoren by a minorsty, by an anomaly in our popular government, he will conform his will to that of the majority. Let this be as i may, it will be manifest, that if two candidates of similar priciples had not have been run in opposition to him, he would most certainly have been defeated by a plurality of a least five hundred votes.

The result of the Congressional election, we think settle. the point, as to the position of Illinois on national questions, if any doubts were entertained from the terminat the gubernatorial contest. But, we think, we have before

The second erdommenes authorizes the importation of raw silks, unbleached foulards, rum, arrack, retafis, &c., on the same princepte that the Franch cashmires are sent out of Rurope; and it takes off as respects them the restrictions which were imposed by the profonnances of the 5th of February 1826, upon the productions of Asia, Africa and America.

The third ordonnance reduces to 20 per cent, the duty upon linens. It contains many arrangements of the highest interest relative to navigation, by military or, merchant steam vessels. The ordonnance regulates in a very useful manaer the markets at Toyon and Adge. In a word, this late arrangement of the Minister of Commerce appeas a new era to commerce, industry, and agriculture, and is a happy presage of the progressive application of those principles by which it has been dictated.—Monitour.
