MANDEVILLE COLLEGE.

THE labors of the Directors of this Institution have been already rewarded by the confidence of the public. The number of students in its halls is more, considerable than could have been anticipated for the short time it has been under the present direction. Its patronage rank among the most intelligent and influential citizens of Louisiana.

The success of the College may, in part, be attributed to its many natural and local advantages. The buildings are of vast extent, and admirably adapted to the purpose for which they are used. A steamboat plies regularly between the College and the city of New Orleans, facilitating the communication between the students and their parents. The health and recreation of the students are promoted considerably by bathing in the Lake, as the proper season, and by walking under the shade of the surrounding forest.

But it is not to its favorable situation alone that the College is indebted for success. The result of the past examination has shown that the Directors have been fortunate in their choice of Professors, and that the public confidence in the College is well merited. The progress of the successful students, under the direction of Professor Rose, a gentleman of high literary attainments, and assisted by all the Professors already attached to the College.

The care of the student's clothes will be confided to a competent lady matron, under the immediate direction of Mrs. McManus. The students, for the future, will receive, from Mrs. McManus, that maternal care so necessary, particularly for young children, which has been theirs hitherto.

FELIX McMANUS, President.

The yard for recreation is also large and entirely enclosed from all exterior communication.
