FOR MAYOR,
A. D. CROSSMAN.

The Treaty Ratified.

The country will learn with the highest satisfaction that the Treaty has been ratified by the United States Senate. The vote was taken on the night of the 10th inst., after an exhausting session of six hours and a half. Our correspondent at Washington writes us that the ratification was made by a vote of 37 to 15, and not 38 to 14, as stated in the imperfect mail from that city. He says further: "The following statement embraces an estimate of the vote founded on the best information:

YEAS—Messrs. Ashley, Atherton, Bagby, Bell, Bradbury, Bright, Butler, Calhoun, Cameron, Case, Clark, Corwin, Davis, of Mass., Davis of Miss., Dayton, Dickinson, Dix, Downs, Felch, Foote, Greene, Hale, Hunter, Johnson, of Md., Johnson of La., Johnson of Ga., Mangum, Mason, Miller, Moore, Niles, Rusk, Sevier, Turney, Underwood, Yulee —37.

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, Atchison, Badger, Baldwin, Berrien, Benton, Breese, Cowan Douglass, Hannegan, Lewis, Spruance, Upham, Webster, Wescott—15. Whigs in Italic.

Absentees—Messrs. Houston, Clayton, Pearce and Phelps—4

Mr. HOUSTON'S absence was convenient to himself. Mr. CLAYTON was confined to his room by illness. He was opposed to the Treaty, but would have attended the Senate, if his condition had been independent of necessary considerations. Mr. PEARCE was suddenly summoned home on Wednesday the 8th and Mr. PHELPS was unable to attend the Senate.

Had it been necessary, several of the Locofocos in the negative could have been prevailed on to change their votes, even of those who had most strenuously opposed the Treaty; a motion to that effect, I'he expected, that we should at this time enter into any speculations of the precise modifications which would be required, or of the names of the Senators who voted in the affirmative or negative. It is presumed, however, that the Treaty will now be so far altered as to have been originally sent to the Senate, and that the amount of the money to be paid, has not been changed by these modifications.

We congratulate the country upon the result, as furnishing some hope and some augury of the restoration of peace. We trust that the Mexican Government will not be so blind to the true interests of the countries, as to refuse to ratify what the Senate of the country, now about to be sent back to them. We shall regard the ratification as one which has succeed to the clash of arms.

We should have, of course, with some anxiety, awaited the action of the President and Congress of Mexico. We presume that intelligence of the ratification will be immediately forwarded to the Mexican authorities on commanding officers on the Rio Grande. As soon as to possible, he has an authentic copy of the ratified treaty, we shall forward our instructions.

We trust that the few objections, and all the clamor which could have been raised against the Treaty in the Administration, will now disappear. The Peace has promptly and wisely saved the unnecessary sacrifice to the interests of our people, and the agitation which it has created. The country which it has created. The country which it has created. The country
