The intelligence flom Bornia, which represented the insurrection there to be nearly quitted is contradicted. On the cost carry, it is said to gain new force every day. Sevestil strong forts containing much automation, have fallen into the hands of the lasurgents. It is anticipated that they will shortly ask on the effensive, and approach towards Alberia. The presence of the Russian troops on the Ottomats scritters, it is feared, will occasion twolts in Rulgaria and Rapalan, which places the Sulfan has hiddle bound great difficulty in keeping quiet. From hence, they be inferred that the existence of Turkey will be again endangered, and that they peace which she expected to oppy from the treaty with Mehenet, will be disturbed on another side.

FROM PORTUGAL.
The brig Quito, at New-Bedford, sailed from Lisbon on the 17th May. We fearn from the New-Bedford Gazette, that Don Miguel's flect was lying at Lisbon at that time, insertive for wast of men. On the 12th the government commenced pressing every Portuguese that could be found on board the shipping in port, as well as on alore, for the army and navy. On the 12th, an order was issued to all the brip-wright and caulkers, forbidding their working on any merchant vessels with love of the government sold ships, which had been condemned, was repaired, and requiring them to work up board every day, not excepting Sundays.

Nothing of consequence had transpired at Oporto, and if there had it would have been a from Mr. R. st. Tressed.

It is understood that M. M. Noak is about to resume the quill, and to commence the publication of a semi-wackly paper in New-York. It is to be decidedly political, but of what cast has not yet transpired. It is intimated, however that it will support some western man, probably Mr. Case, or Mr. M'LEAN for the Presidency.

Six—I have had the honor to receive your latter, conveying to me the invitation of the authorities of the city of Albany to visit that piace.

It was mysterition to the this when I commonced my present journey, and I had strictfated smuch pleasure from a visit to that ancient and interesting place. But the state of my health has pradored it necessary to shange my arrangements and to return to Washington instructionally.—The disappointment has been a severe one to me, but I am compelled to yield to it.

Dequest of you the favor to communicate to the Common Council of Albany my thanks their kind attention, and my regret as their subjects in person.

Whilst one of the skips recently arrived from New-Or-leans was on the passage, it became necessary to open the scuttle into the run, when the passagers were appalled by the sight of a black woman and new born infant lying up-on the floor, both deads Na one had any knowledge of such a person having been on board, and two matter of earnest inquiryments she could possibly be. At length suspicion fell upon the sieward, a colored man, who has a familie in this city. The run of a ship is under the care of the steward, being used as a stere room, and communicating with his department. This scene was suspected to be the result of his criminal indulgences, and an effort to remove the Abiect of this six in a changes in manner. He was the object of this city in a clandestine manner. He was accordingly put in confinement, to await a legal examine tion.—Jour. of Com.

John Randolph's Mother.—The late John Randolph, some years since, addressed himself to an intinate friend in terms something like the following:

4'I used to be called a Frenchman, because I took the French side in politics; and though this was unjust, yet the truth is, I should have been a French athoist, if it had not hear for one recalled in and they are the properties.

From the New York Commercial Advertises LETTER FROM A POLISH OFFICER.

The following extracts are translated from a letter from The Bulletis is sell harping upon its old subject, "ought is a sufficient guarantee for the truth of what is said.

The Bulletin is sell harping upon its old subject, "ought letters to editors be exonerated from postage." Why should they? The Bulletin says a great deal to prove that they should, but nething in point. The truth is that the claims of editors to have this privilege, are not greater than those of any other class. And besides, they have now, in all conscience, more than enough notisouse pouring in upon them, notwithstanding postage, from their particular friends, the scribbing tribe throughout the country.—

Should their letters be exempted from postage, a mail would scarcely bring them, and God save us from the new addition of labor which would consequently devolve.

Congress has no right, in our opinion, to grant monopolies. Would not the exemption of editors paying postage be one?

of France.
You know how shamefully we have been treated: how, cooped up in small and retired places, it has been forbidden us to leave them: how our unfortunate youth, who wish to profit by the advantages of Paris, in finishing their education, have a Lousand and a thousand difficulties thrown in tion, have a Lousand and a thousand difficulties thrown in their way. But also! this is not the worst? it seems the cosp de grace is to be given, for the minister of war has published a circular to the Polish officers, saying that the French government will endeavor to obtain an amnasty for them, so that they may return to their homes! You know, my dear sir, the cruel tendency of this measure, which the worldwill call a generousand magnanismous one! On God! it boots man to have more than a soldier's patience, to support such a horrible situation; and yet, my countrymen secun to have it, I know not how, but yet they keep up their bearts and their hopes; they have got up little schools among themselves, and seem determined to make most of their sad exile.

I will spare your sensibility, and not give you the detail of the sad and sickening news we receive from our unhappy country—enough, that it is the same old system—the same persecution—the same confiscations—the same outrages and transportations, which freeze the blood to think upon, and which our ruthless tyrants follow up with hellish perseverance. One must have much faith, much strength of wind, when with thousands, imposent we himself, he is suffering such persecution, not to doubt the existence of attental justice. eternal justice.
